JETLINER HIJACKED ON INAUGURAL TRIP

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The captain of a Trans World airliner on an inaugural flight from St. Louis, Mo., to Miami radioed today that "a guy has a gun at my back" and the plane with 40 passengers and seven crew members aboard had changed course for Cuba.

"He is forcing us to go to Havana," Capt. Dennis Maloney advised the Atlanta, Ga., control tower. The plane landed at Havana.

HOSPITALIZED

Que. Premier Asks Delay In Conference

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, undergoing medical examination at the Cardiologoy Institute of Laval Hospital, today asked that the federal-provincial constitutional conference scheduled in Ottawa Dec. 16 - 18 be postponed.

BERTRAND
. . . advised to rest

The premier was admitted to hospital Monday night "following persistent discomfort for a month," said a statement issued by his office. He entered the institute to "undergo tests."

There was no other explanation of the premier's 'discomfort."

The statement said:

"His doctors have advised him to remain in the hospital then take three weeks of complete rest."

Mr. Bertrand, in the statement, said the federal-provincial conference on fiscal arrangements should be held in Ottawa Dec. 19 as scheduled despite his confinement.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Trudeau began consulting other premiers hurriedly today concerning Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand's request for a postponement in the federal-provincial constitutional conference.

Observers here generally agreed it would be difficult for Mr. Trudeau or the other provinces to refuse the Quebec request.

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal will become acting premier during Mr. Bertrand's absence, the statement added.

Mr. Bertrand's justice portfolio will be assumed by Solicitor-General Armand Matlais and the premier's intergovernmental affairs portfolio by Marcel Masse, minister without porfolio.

The Union Nationale's house leader, Labor Minister Maurice Bellemare, will represent the government at ceremonies to prorogue the legislative assembly session, the statement said. It was not immediately clear whether the session would be ended immediately.

The statement was issued following a meeting at the Cardiology Institute between Mr. Bertrand and three of his cabinet ministers—Mr. Bellemare, Mr. Cardinal and Finance Minister Paul Dozois.

TWO PREMIERS DIED

Any step taken by a Quebec government leader to obtain medical attention causes widespread speculation because of the deaths of two premiers from heart attacks in the last eight years.

Daniel Johnson died Sept. 26 this year at Manicougan, a huge power site in eastern Quebec. Paul Sauve died in St. Eustache, Que., Jan. 2, 1960.

Immediately after Mr. Johnson's death several political figures commented about the need to reorganize the work load on Quebec premiers so that it would not be crushing.

Mr. Bertrand was sworn in as Quebec's 21st premier Oct. 2.

A BATTLE OVER TABLES is holding up the Paris peace talks. The U.S. and North Vietnam can't get to the negotiating table until they negotiate the shape of the table. The U.S. prefers a rectangular table, North Vietnam a square table. A possible compromise is a round table around which each delegation can interpret its own symbolic importance. (AP Wirephoto)

Status Wrangle Delays Start Of Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — The wrangle over prestige symbols threatens to delay indefinitely the start of the enlarged Vietnam peace talks.

Some American officials who once were confident that the talks would get under way early this week now appear to have lost hope of starting before the end of the year. Some Western diplomats from other countries think the deadlock might continue until President-elect Nixon's inauguration Jan. 20.

In a two-hour meeeting Tuesday, U.S. negotiator Cyrus Vance and Col. Ha Van Lau of North Vietnam deadlocked again over such issues as the shape of the conference table and the speaking order at the first meeting.

Vance and Lau also exchanged protests over air and artillery activity in North Vietnam and the demilitarized zone, but both appeared more concerned with the dispute over procedure for the talks than with the protests.

The United States earlier turned down Hanoi's proposal that the conference meet at a square table, an arrangement which would symbolize that the delegation from the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front was on an equal basis with the delegations from the United States and North Vietnam.

U.S. REJECTS PROPOSAL

Although this would also give Saigon's delegation a side of its own and would thus undercut the NLF's contention that the Saigon government is a bunch of U.S. puppets who don't represent the South Vietnamese people, the United States rejected the square table. Instead it demanded a two-sided confrontation, with the Communists on one long side of a rectangular table and the Americans and Saigon representatives on the other.

If a square table was unacceptable, Lau said Tuesday, the conference could meet at four separate tables, equally spaced and arranged in a diamond or circular formation. But Vance rejected this.

Lau also turned down an American proposal that two lots be drawn for the speaking order and insisted on four lots instead. Vance rejected that also.

There were reports that France, as host to the conference, was putting out compromise suggestions. One of these called for a round table, allowing each side to give its own interpretation of the status of each delegation.

A compromise over the speaking order at the opening meeting appeared more difficult.

Jones Wins Case Against Bennett

Supreme Court Restores Award

OTTAWA (CP) — In a unanimous decision, the Supreme Court of Canada today restored a trial judge's finding that Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia slandered a former provincial public servant.

The high court's judgment, written by Chief Justice J. R. Cartwright, also restored an award of $15,000 in damages to George Jones, who was the province's purchasing agent until 1965 when he was removed from office by an act of the B.C. legislature.

While the act was under debate, Mr. Bennett spoke to the Social Credit Association at Victoria on a number of matters and during his speech said:

"I'm not going to talk about the Jones boy. I could say a lot, but let me just assure you of this. The position taken by the government is the right position."

PREMIER SUED

Mr. Jones then sued the premier for slander and the trial judge found that the words were defamatory and calculated to disparage Mr. Jones in his office as chairman of the purchasing commission.

The B.C. court of appeal reversed the trial decision, saying that Mr. Bennett, because he held a high office and was reporting to electors, was protected in his speech by qualified privilege.

Said Chief Justice Cartwright in his judgment:

"The claim . . . appears to me to require an unwarranted extension of the qualified privilege which has been held to attach to communications made by an elector to his fellow electors of matters regarding a candidate which he honestly believes to be true and which, if true, would be relevant to the question of such candidate's fitness for office."

He said it was perfectly proper for a member of a legislature to speak to a meeting of supporters "but if in the course of addressing them he sees fit to make defamatory statements about another which are in fact untrue, it is difficult to see why the common convenience and welfare of society requires that such statements should be protected and the person defamed left without a remedy unless he can affirmatively prove express malice on the part of the speaker."

TRIAL JUDGE SUPPORTED

The chief justice said he agreed with the trial judge that any defence of privilege was erased because of the presence of two Victoria reporters at the meeting.

Their presence was known by the premier and in the words of the trial judge, the premier "must have known that whatever he did say would be communicated to the general public."

The chief justice said the removal of Mr. Jones from his office, which caused a political debate, "was a matter of public interest and a proper subject for comment by any member of the public."

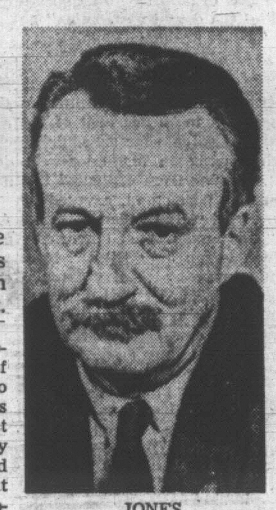

"But the sting of the words complained of does not appear to me to be comment at all."

APPEARED FOR JONES

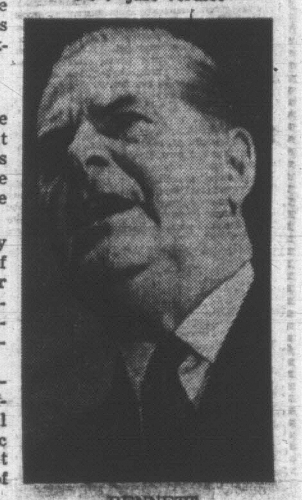

Arguing for Mr. Jones in the appeal to the Supreme Court last month, Vancouver lawyer Tom Berger said Mr. Bennett's words carried the "unmistakeable impression that the reason for removal from office of Mr. Jones was discreditable to Mr. Jones."

Mr. Berger said the premier

'Public Impatient For Reform'

Times News Services

OTTAWA (CP) — Opening salvoes were fired Tuesday in a battle on a controversial government plan to overhaul Commons rules of procedure and it seemed to presage a lively scrap.

Prime Minister Trudeau argued that the government measure is in line with the thinking of Canadians who are "impatient" for reform of Parliament.

Opposition Leader Stanfield said it would have the "ominous effect" of building the power of the government at the expense of individual Canadians.

Spokesmen for all three opposition parties zeroed in on a government proposal to allocate time for debates. Under it, apportionment of time would be arranged by an all-party committee.

But in the event of a boycott of the committee by the opposition parties, the government member—House Leader Donald S. Macdonald—could constitute himself a quorum of one and draw up recommendations for presentation to the House. And if the committee met and failed to agree, the government could set its own time limit on debate.

KNOWLES OBJECTS

"This rule must not be written into the standing orders of this House," declared Stanley Knowles, the NDP House leader.

"It just has to go," said Mr. Stanfield.

Gilbert Rondeau (Creditiste—Shefford) said rule changes are needed to improve the Parliament's public image. But democracy would be the main victim if the rule passed.

The contentious debate-limiting proposal is contained in the report of a 12-man special committee on rules of procedure headed by Gordon Blair (L—Grenville-Carleton).

Opening his low-keyed discussion of the case, as he saw it, for a renovation of parliamentary procedure, the Prime Minister called the parliamentary system a heritage and the system best suited to the needs and traditions of Canadians but warned that it was subject to the universal law of life: "Adapt or wither away."

"It is not sufficient," he said, "for us merely to cherish this heritage as if it were a relic of interest only to historians. We must reform it so that in our

Canadian Wheat Bought by Japan

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan today bought more than 300,000 metric tons of wheat from Australia and Canada to cover storages caused by suspension of U.S. wheat imports, Japan's food agency said.

Announcing acceptance of import tenders, the government department said this was the largest purchase it had ever made in a single tender.

The agency said the buy comprised 203,848 tons of Australian wheat and 104,200 tons of Canadian wheat, both for January and February shipments.

It said the unusually big purchase included emergency imports of more than 100,000 tons designed to fill in for American supplies.

Japan suspended imports of U.S. wheat last month after complaints that below-standard quality grain, some of it rain soaked and sprouting, had been shipped here.

Slow Progress In Air Talks

By The Canadian Press

Slow progress was indicated today in contract talks in Montreal between Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Employees Association, whose 2,200 members are following work-to-rule slowdown tactics.

There was no statement from negotiators for either side, but a company spokesman said there are inidcations that the bargaining session — involving pay, working conditions and other issues — will be a long one.

Meanwhile, Air Canada flights operated smoothly across the country despite the slowdown, which started Monday. No major delays were reported today by either company or union—which represents passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators.

Four flights were delayed about 20 minutes each Monday on the busy Montreal-Toronto run, but the airline says subsequent delays have amounted to only a minute or two.

Last Plane Pulled Out

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is withdrawing its last plane from the trouble-plagued Biafra relief operation, External Affairs Minister Sharp announced today.

He said the Hercules aircraft with the Red Cross operation will be pulled out because of the "failure" of the secessionist Biafran regime to agree to daylight flights.

The federal Nigerian government meanwhile had reaffirmed its ban on night flights.

Crime-Busting N.Y. Lawyer Likely Choice for State Post

By SIDNEY WELLAND

NEW YORK (Reuters) — A gang-busting lawyer virtually unknown outside the United States today appeared almost certain to become state secretary in Richard M. Nixon's new administration.

Qualified sources said the president-elect chose former attorney-general William P. Rogers, 55, for the job.

Nixon will present his cabinet at 7 PST tonight on a half-hour television hook-up with the three major U.S. networks.

Rogers, attorney-general in the Eisenhowere administration from 1957-61, first made his name as a tough lawyer fighting organized crime in New York almost 30 years ago. In five years, he prosecuted more than 1,000 gangsters.

Now a private lawyer, Rogers has been one of Nixon's closest confidantes for many years.

EXPERIENCE LIMITED

Rogers's experience in diplomacy has been limited to three brief missions. In 1960 he made an African tour as an Eisenhowere emissary, in 1955 he attended a United Nations conference on prison conditions and last year he served as a delegate on the UN committee debating the future of South-West Africa.

Reliable sources said Nixon, whose Republican team takes office Jan. 20, was expected to appoint Congressman Melvin R. Laird, 46, a hardline conservative who shares his view that the U.S. must strengthen its military arsenal, as defence secretary.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, 61, a self-made millionaire who launched a brief bid for the Republican presidential candidacy this year, was expected to become secretary of housing and urban development.

John N. Mitchell, 55, a partner in Nixon's law firm and his chief election campaign strategist, appeared certain to become attorney-general.

Another close friend, Lt.-Gov. Robert H. Finch of California, 43, will be given a major domestic post, probably as secretary of health, education and welfare.

LIST POSTS

Informed sources said other $35,000-a-year cabinet posts appeared likely for the following, although last-minute changes still are regarded possible:

Labor Secretary— George P. Schultz, 48, dean of Chicago University's graduate school of business.

Transportation Secretary — Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, 60.

Interior Secretary — Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska, 49.

Commerce Secretary — Former budget bureau director Maurice Stans, 60.

Agriculture Secretary — Clifford M. Hardin, 53, chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

Postmaster-General — Winston M. Bloung, 47, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

CHILDREN OF ASIA

For Some, It's a Real Sacrifice to Give

By SUSAN RILEY

Behind every Unitarian Service Committee dollar there is a story.

The theme is usually the same — generosity. The characters and the setting vary.

It isn't always the rich who give to the USC, said executive director Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova. Much support comes from Canadians for whom it is a real sacrifice to give.

Pensioners, living on $75 a month, send cheques regularly.

In Biggar, Saskatchewan, a housewife wrote: "I wish I could send more but I have to live on my old age pension and I cannot spare much after paying rent and light and heat bills."

"I care," said a letter to Dr. Hitschmanova from a teenage girl in Lewisville, N.B. "I have just started work and I figure I may as well put my first pay cheque to good use."

Her dollar will buy 13 bowls of barley for hungry children in Korea.

An 89-year-old pensioner from Vancouver wrote this to the USC: "This is a small donation to help. I am an old man. I hope you will be able to send many carloads of milk to those poor hungry children."

His dollar will buy milk for an Indian child for 100 days.

A family in St. John's Newfoundland, has found its own way to help the hungry. They have a special "famine can," and every Sunday at noon parents and three children hold a token fast, of milk and bread. They give what they save to the USC.

Their money is buying 25 copious meals for slum-dwellers in Calcutta.

A mother of seven from Oil City, Ontario, sent in a contribution and a short note: "It makes me feel sad and perhaps a little guilty that we who live in Canada have a lot to be thankful for. Even the poor here are better off than in other countries."

"Sad and perhaps a little guilty," she said.

These people are not rich. They are just generous Canadians who don't want children anywhere starving in 1968.

USC staffers overseas get letters too. The people who write them aren't rich either.

"Pardon one for troubling you in writing on a piece of paper like this. I am a poor person, homeless with no shelter, sleeping on the roadside and going through starvation daily. I pray that you will come to my assistance."

Dr. Hitschmanova hears thousands of these stories a year. "But I never get tired.

Dentists Favor Denticare Plan

The provincial social welfare department and B.C.'s 850 dentists today patched up their quarrel over welfare patient payments and agreed to start working together to prepare for introduction of denticare covering all B.C. citizens.

Neither Welfare Minister Dan Campbell nor B.C. Dental Association president Dr. J. Fred Reid of North Vancouver would hazard a guess when preparations would be ready for a denticare program.

But they said today's two-part agreement includes the undertaking by both parties to work towards organizing "the apparatus of the dental association" so it could fit into a denticare program.

The first part of the agreement boosts the government's payments to 75 per cent of the dentists' private fee schedule on behalf of some 70,000 individuals, ranging from orphaned tots to needy pensioners, covered by the social welfare plan.

"This ends the emergency which began July 1," Dr. Reid said, referring to the association's decision that normal dental work would be suspended and only emergency treatment rendered welfare patients because the government paid only an average of 57 per cent of the fee schedule.

The dentists sought parity with physicians who collect 90 per cent of their fee schedule for work under B.C. Medical Plan.

Mr. Campbell said the agreement goes into effect Jan. 1 and will add about $225,000 to the department's current expenditure of about $870,000 for covering dental services to welfare recipients.

"The agreement we reached was designed around two points," Mr. Campbell said.

"It involves acceptance of 75 per cent payment of the 1968 fees schedule of the profession and secondly involves an undertaking that, together with various departments of the government, the dental association will organize an apparatus which could carry denticare sometime in the future."

Mr. Campbell said the federal government, a partner in the B.C. medicare program under the national health plan, "is aware" of the provincial government's desire to include dental coverage in medicare but negotiations have not yet begun.

Dr. Reid said the B.C. Dental Association is definitely "in favor" of denticare.

He pointed out it operates the only pre-paid group dental insurance plan in Canada.

Generous Response For toys

Mrs. Nelly Pelkey used to have a living room and dining room but she said she can't find them any more.

"There are so many toys in my house, I can hardly see the floor," she laughed.

Mrs. Pelkey made an appeal three weeks ago for toys for children on the East Saanich reserve who might otherwise have an unhappy Christmas. She said the result of her appeal was "unbelievable." Toys poured in from groups and citizens all over the city.

"My telephone hasn't stopped ringing," she said.

So many toys were donated in fact that the Christmas party has been extended to four reserves on the Island. Besides the East Saanich, where Mrs. Pelkey lives, children from West Saanich, Cole Bay and Pat Bay reserves will receive toys this Christmas.

NEW TOYS DONATED

There are 400 children on the reserves. Everyone under 13 — 284 children — will receive at least one toy, maybe two.

"The Optimist Club sent us $200 worth of new toys," she said, "and the Boy Scouts in Sidney donated 183 toys."

Besides local groups she said individual citizens have been "so generous."

When she began her campaign she was working alone, with no money. She represents no organization. She felt however "something should be done for the Indian children at Christmas," and spoke with other reserve mothers.

"I just packed the last package last night," she said, and we've really been working hard."

Mrs. Pelkey is delighted. For her and the children on the reserves, she said, "Victoria really came through."

The toys will be handed out at the Christmas party on the Saanichton fair grounds Sunday at 5:30 p.m.

Vandals Break Floodlights; $5 to Replace

There is an "inevitable" cost to school property at night, Bryan Shaw, building superintendent for Saanich Peninsula schools said today.

If there are no lights illuminating schools, prowlers do damage to the buildings under cover of darkness. Where there are floodlights, they are sometimes smashed by vandals.

He was commenting on his report to the school board earlier this week that a broken bulb means about a $5 bill, half for the cost of the new bulb and half to pay for providing the truck ladder and man to replace it.

About 50 floodlight bulbs have to be replaced a year, said Mr. Shaw, although this would include ones which have burned out. The rest fall victim to stones or bee bee pellets.

time it will serve us well. We must revitalize it so that our successors will receive from us, not an outdated, moribund survival from an earlier age but a vital and responsive institution of democratic government."

REVIEWS FAILINGS

In the tone of a university lecturer dealing with familiar material he reviewed the failings of the present procedure—failure to keep pace with the need for legislation, inadequate opportunities for the opposition to bring on debate on the "great issues of our public life," inadequate attention to spending estimates, failure to examine legislation thoroughly.

"I ask myself," he said, "if our present procedures do not encourage even the most conscientious members to be good politicians first, and good members of the House of Commons in a secondary way."

No member of Parliament, the prime minister warned, had received a mandate from his constituents "to stall, to obstruct and to bring this institution into disrepute."

A filibuster, he argued, was itself a form of closure.

By exhausting the time available for dealing with parliamentary business it could lead to the "closure of neglect" when measures had to be dealt with hastily in the last crowded days of a parliamentary session and the "closure of exclusion on others we may never reach."

Mr. Trudeau warned that any such stalling tactics were ill-matched to the mood of the Canadian people.

"If we learned a single thing in the election," he said, "it is that the Canadian people are impatient for reform."

That included reform of Parliament, he insisted, adding that "they did not elect us to take part in a marathon of oratorical endurance."

He said the government is open to suggestions but cautioned opposition speakers against resorting to a filibuster.

"Those who would extend the debate indefinitely have misjudged the temper of the Canadian people," Mr. Trudeau said.

He noted that only nine measures have been passed by the House since Parliament convened three months ago.

The Canadian people "expect us to revise the rules with all deliberate speed and get on with the business of the House."

Conservative leader Stanfield charged that the opposition would be "crushed by the juggernaut of the just society" if the government arbitrarily curtails the right of debate in Parliament.

Mr. Stanfield, urged on by applauding Conservatives and New Democrats, branded the proposal as "brutal, vicious and absurd."

"There is not the slightest chance that we will willingly accept—indeed, ever accept—a proposal for the allocation of time in advance on any number of items before a word has been uttered in this House," the Conservative leader declared.

"We will never accept it," he reiterated.

"We support the reform of Parliament enthusiastically and out of conviction," said Mr. Stanfield. ". . . But we draw the line at changes that would deform Parliament and make it ineffective."

INTENTION CLEAR

The intention of the government plan was clear: "To make closure the routine rather than the exception." Closure is a device for cutting off debate on measures before the House.

Mr. Knowles, the NDP rules expert, termed the government proposal "beyond the ridiculous." He added: "This is a rule that we simply cannot stand for. I hope the government will listen to reason and agree to its being changed."

Both Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Knowles referred to Mr. Macdonald's position under the proposed new arrangement as that of a "dictator."

Mr. Macdonald said Commons debate of a time limit in event of disagreement among House leaders was simply in keeping with the democratic principle of allowing a majority of MPs to decide the best way to handle parliamentary business.

Gerald Baldwin, the Conservative House leader, rejected Mr. Trudeau's suggestion that the opposition planned a filibuster on the rules question. But the Conservative party was "so bitterly and adamantly opposed" to the time-allocation rule, it will fight.

never offered any reason for removing Mr. Jones from his purchasing commission office.

"The fact that he never offered any grounds for his belief in the truth of the words he used, and that when asked (by Mr. Berger) he was unable to give any grounds, justifies the inference that he had no grounds and therefore no honest belief in what he said," Mr. Berger argued.

Toronto lawyer John J. Robinette, appearing for Mr. Bennett, said the suit was based on remarks made to some 200 persons in the audience for the Victoria speech.

Mr. Bennett had been reporting to party members on the conduct of his government in the provincial legislature, Mr. Robinette said, and was therefore protected by the law of qualified privilege.

"As a citizen, I accept it in good spirit and I'll make no further comment," Premier Bennett curtly told a reporter as he entered a treasury board meeting this morning.

He refused to indicate what his total costs will be when the legal and court costs are added up but the out-of-pocket expenses of the four court actions are believed to be substantial, perhaps exceeding the award itself.

Mr. Jones said he felt the "verdict was a just one." But, he said, the award of $15,000 did not really compensate or offset all the personal and legal costs involved in fighting the case or repay him for "irreparable damage to my reputation."

"No one ever wins a libel or a slander action," he said.

U.K. Left-Wingers Attack Press King's Coalition Idea

LONDON (CP) — Labor left-wingers Tuesday night tabled a Commons motion attacking what they called "the ill-informed advocacy of a coalition government."

Such advocacy, they asserted, "has moved, with Mr. Cecil King, from the International Publishing Corp. to Printing House Square."

This apparently was a reference to the Nov. 27 announcement that King was to be a consultant to Times Newspapers Ltd.

Long an advocate of coalition government for Britain, he was until last May chairman of IPC, which controls The Daily Mirror.

On Monday The Times said in an editorial that the "disastrous" record of the present Labor government had led to the need for "a coalition or national government to overcome the emergency."

The Labor MPs, in their new motion, asked the Commons to declare it "believes that the nation's economic difficulties stem largely from the government's acceptance of the disastrous policies advocated by certain newspapers, notably The Times and The Daily Mirror."

Both The Times and The Mirror give the left-wingers' statement front-page prominence.

One of the MPs, James Dickens, said there already is too much of a coalition on post-devaluation economic strategy between the government front bench and the Conservative Opposition.

The Labor left-wingers, in a verbal slap at Britain's leading financiers, said the national interest should be placed "before the private gains of the City of London."

King told a television audience he does not "pretend for a moment there's the slightest prospect" of a coalition.

LEADERS 'DESIRE PEACE'

TEL AVIVI (AP) — Shooting continued across the River Jordan today as former Gov. William W. Scranton flew home to report to President-elect Nixon on the Middle East.

He said he was impressed with the "desire of the leaders of most of the countries" to achieve a peace settlement.

An Israeli army spokesman said an Israeli border patrol came under bazooka and light arms fire in the Beisan Valley.

The Israelis returned the fire, he said, but no casualties were reported. Jordan claimed the Israelis fired first and said its troops suffered no casualties.

Scranton, who made a fact-finding tour of six countries for Nixon, told reporters that a peace settlement in the Middle East is "far and away the most important thing to arrive at."

He said he found desire for a settlement "fundamental in Israel," as well as in Arab countries he visited earlier.

The former Pennsylvania governor visited Iran, Lebanon, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Israel.

Asked to comment on Israeli demands for face-to-face talks with the Arabs, Scranton said "One can understand this demand. However, I am happy they are willing to talk to UN peace envoy Gunnar Jarring because at present this appears the best way to reach a settlement."

Renew Call For Action

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government today renewed its call for joint action by the United States, Russia, Britain and France to restore peace to the Middle East.

Joel de Theule, secretary of state for information, said Foreign Minister Michel Debre told the weekly cabinet meeting today that the mission of United Nations' peace envoy Gunnar Jarring to the Middle East is not achieving any results.

The Final Criterion

AS FAR BACK AS THE ELECtion campaign Pierre Elliot Trudeau gave notice that the machinery of Parliament should be improved to cope with the legislative problems of our times. On a number of occasions after his election, and as recently as his New York Times interview — reprinted in this paper last Monday — the Prime Minister repeated his intention to devote the early days of his first session to clearing the decks. He told the New York Times that the prime ministership "is such a lot of fun even in terms of getting the machinery working and feeling that soon you will be able to make decisions and implement them."

There can be little doubt that Mr. Trudeau is becoming impatient with the preliminaries. After nearly three months of the session only two major bills and seven minor measures have been voted into law. But reform of the machinery has proceeded step by step, with a view to speeding up the whole legislative process. The new rule freeing cabinet ministers of many hours of attendance in the House was intended to make their time more productive. Other devices have had the same intent. But the major overhaul of House procedures involved in the debate now engaging Parliament is the most sweeping measure yet.

Most of it is recognized by all sections of the House as necessary and appropriate: rules tend to be prolonged far beyond their usefulness and applicability in the Commons, where tradition and ceremony play so large a part in the day-to-day business of the country. But one or two aspects of the government's proposals have aroused the hot criticism of the opposition parties—in particular the rule which would limit parliamentary debate on a bill.

Where the allocation of debating time has been agreed among the spokesmen of the various parties, as provided, the advantages of limitation are conceded. But when the parties cannot agree on a specific period of debate the rule will empower the government house leader to set a limit. His action can be debated for only two hours, after which a vote must be taken — and the government majority will presumably prevail.

Clearly this is delicate ground. The need for the public business to proceed without unnecessary delay is more obvious than ever in these days of crammed agendas and urgent problems. But Parliament represents not only a means of making laws; it is the nation's forum where the fruits of the democratic system are seen in the form of free speech, regard for minority opinion, and justice. It is the place where the best interest of the people is paramount, and that best interest is identified in the course of free debate and criticism. The rights inherent in this situation cannot be infringed without danger to the institution of democracy itself.

On the one hand, we must in the interests of the public silence frivolous, repetitive, ill-prepared or time-wasting oratory. Parliament must function effectively or it will destroy itself. On the other hand we must ensure that relevant comment and agrument shall not be denied a voice in the making of the laws which will govern us. It is not difficult to conceive of the power to cut debate being abused, yet the will of an elected majority government must carry. It will carry with all the more popular support if it is clear that reasonable opportunity for debate has been provided. It will be the responsibility of any government to make sure that such a "reasonable" length of debate shall not be denied. In the long run the reasonableness of the government will be judged by the voting public. Any government which abuses its power can be thrown out.

A Time for Caution

THE SONS OF FREEDOM DOUKhobors had been so quiet for the last few years that many British Columbians had forgotten their existence. So it comes as a shock when they make headlines once again with a favorite form of protest—keeping their children out of school.

A small group of sect members at Agassiz claims the federal immigration department is holding up the return to Canada of their spiritual leader, Stefan Sorokin, and has launched the school boycott to dramatize its case and bring pressure to bear on Ottawa. So far everyone concerned with the situation has managed to stay cool, and that is the way it should be.

Education Minister Brothers says his department plans no action because the matter is a local school board responsibility. This may be arguable, but it is probably best that the provincial government hold off for the time being. Hasty action — and this applies to the Agassiz school board too — could have unfortunate repercussions. The last thing this province needs is a recurrence of the violence and bitterness that marked Freedomite history in recent decades.

The federal government is reported to be considering a visa application from Sorokin and the study may take some time. The spiritual leader is a mysterious figure and there is some doubt about his desire to leave Uruguay, although sect members have agitated for his return almost since his departure in 1961.

Although it is distressing to see 40 children used as pawns by their elders, a temporary absence from school is not likely to cause them serious harm. While the Ottawa decision is awaited it would be wise not to apprehend the children or force them back to classes. The smaller the dimensions of the controversy the more easily it can be solved.

Keep the Door Open

THE ANGER OF AFRO-ASIAN nations over apartheid is understandable, but they have erred in blocking South African participation in United Nations discussions. The General Assembly decision last week to exclude South Africa from a conference on trade and development confronts the United Nations with a serious threat. The Assembly action is considered by many to violate the UN Charter and sets a precedent which could lead to disintegration of the world body.

The vote was 49-22 with 23 abstentions and was a means of protesting South Africa's racial policies, which are not directly involved in the trade deliberations. Concerned diplomats have suggested that if the same tactics were applied in future there would be nothing to prevent the United States, the Soviet Union or any other country from being voted out whenever a majority strenuously disagreed with it. This form of disapproval is bad enough when used to bar Red China from association with the United Nations; used against sitting members it is even more self-defeating.

The United Nations was founded on the principle that peace is best achieved by nations meeting and talking out their differences in an atmosphere of reason and tolerance, if not always of sympathy or approval. Nothing is to be gained by a policy of exclusion except a hardening of attitudes. If the object is to convince a nation that its policies are wrong, this is not best accomplished by slamming the door in its face.

"... there's nothing here that says I can't ..."

TRUDEAU'S NEW POLITICS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

A Strenuous Exercise for Everyone

ALL Canadians must surely realize by now that in Pierre Trudeau they have discovered not only a new prime minister but a new politics. We often heard this phrase in the past but it meant little. The new politics of Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson was not really new at all. It was no more than a hopeful cliche and election gimmick. Under Mr. Trudeau it is a fact. You can like or dislike it but you cannot deny it and, once introduced into our government, the thing will not go away.

Hutchison

There are many sides to the new politics, most of them not yet revealed and some, no doubt, carefully concealed. The core and operating mechanism of the process has become clear enough, however. It is the double personality of the prime minister himself which he reveals in small doses as a doctor treats a patient with a new, experimental drug.

As I read Mr. Trudeau's latest series of public statements—all of them seemingly off the cuff but all deliberately planned and smoothly articulated—he conceives himself as two distinct persons. In cabinet and Parliament he is the prime minister and his words must be accepted as the nation's policy. In casual encounters with ordinary human beings he is just another human being who, as he told Time magazine, does not speak ex-cathedra like the Pope, has no "sudden communication with the Holy Ghost" and is "not infallible."

Not Easy

In short, he is an educator as well as a governor. He is trying to educate us, the public, and himself simultaneously before, as governor, he makes final decisions. This, the central method of the new politics, will not be as easy perhaps as he thinks, for obvious reasons.

In the first place, a prime minister may be two men inside himself, or several, like the rest of us. One of these separate human beings may fly kites and bat up vagrant ideas to see how they suit the people. If they don't suit, he can abandon them, as he seems to have abandoned any thought of withdrawal from NATO. But if Canadians accept his method and are willing to play their part in it, he can expect no similar understanding from foreigners.

When he meets a crowd of university students and talks about the danger of "civil war" in the United States the American newspaper reader sees only the words of the Canadian prime minister. He does not know that the other Trudeau is merely thinking aloud and is not necessarily bound by his words. On front pages throughout the world those words are taken literally and must have delighted the readers of Moscow and Peking who know only one Trudeau and certainly misunderstand him. We, his fellow country-men, may recognize two Trudeaus, or more, and enjoy their infinite variety. Outsiders will not make these fine distinctions.

Unprepared Public

For another and purely Canadian reason the prime minister's role as the nation's chief educator will be difficult—he has to cram something like a full university education overnight into a people ill trained for the new politics or, indeed, any kind of politics.

It is all very well, and quite true, for him to say that the people have "a vastly increased political awareness" but this is only half the equation. The opposite half is a society, and its needs, changing so fast that no one, not even Mr. Trudeau, can keep up with them. In truth the present generation, far better educated than its grandfathers, is further behind contemporary problems than they were in their time.

A homesteader on the frontier 60 years ago could easily grasp the simple tariff issue, the tiny federal budget, the cost of freight rates of Canada's fight for national sovereignty. All the business of government was within his knowledge, though he may have spent no more than half a dozen years at school.

Today you will hardly find two university professors who agree on anything of importance or two economists who read the current statistics in the same way. When it comes to the vital business of government, the control of the money system, the manipulation of interest rates and foreign exchange, the amendment of the constitution and a hundred other pressing problems not one Canadian in a thousand is equipped to understand them. If the present reader does he is much wiser than the writer, which would not be surprising.

Here Mr. Trudeau meets a daunting paradox crouched like a lion in his path as he advances into the new politics and the Just Society. He tries to educate the people, he invites them to participate in government, he exposes his inward thoughts and contradictions, he behaves as no prime minister before him has ever behaved. Yet he knows that in the greatest decisions the people cannot participate as their grandfathers used to do.

Taking the most obvious example, the greatest decision in human history rests with half a dozen men at most. Whose finger is on the button at Moscow we don't know. We know, however, that the president of the United States never goes anywhere without a nameless companion who carries a satchel containing certain secret codes and electrical devices that can instantly launch nuclear war.

In this decision not even the American people can participate, much less foreigners. They cannot be consulted at all, as they were not consulted in the Cuban missile crisis. Far short of these hideous questions, the Canadian people cannot be consulted on many economic and financial questions that demanded instant answers by government and will affect every citizen's private life. Fewer and fewer men make more and more decisions beyond the people's knowledge. So they must in a society like a huge and complex machine which never ceases to move, careless of the individuals who imagine that they control it.

Thus, in his attempt to educate the people and rescue the person from the machine, Mr. Trudeau is rather like Alice in Wonderland. He has to run very fast to stand still. At such a pace even an athletic prime minister and his alter ego, the human being, are sure to say things regretted immediately afterwards. The new politics, however you regard it, will be a strenuous exercise for all of us.

Run, Don't Walk

I have read in your paper dated Dec. 9, that the police are checking on jaywalkers. I would suggest to the police department of Victoria, that they check their traffic lights that say "Don't walk," and time them so the people, especially the senior citizens can get across without the lights changing when they are in the middle of the crosswalk. I think they are timed much too fast to let an ordinary person walk across without the lights changing. It seems you have to run. This is just a suggestion to look into.—Bill Aaron, 2070 Cadboro Bay.

Dogs in Japan

I am writing particularly to your readers who breed dogs for sale, both locally and abroad, to advise them that frightful problems face dogs going to Japan.

I realize you cannot allow space fully to detail the difficulties here, but in essence they stem from a difference in philosophy.

Japanese thought is largely influenced by Buddhist tradition and Confucian thought, resulting in an entirely different attitude to pain and death than found generally in the western world.

In Japan strong religious objections to killing lie at the root of the suffering countless animals now undergo.

If any of your readers would like full details they are invited to write me at 1865 Cherry Tree Bend, R.R.5, Victoria—Catherine Blinko, Western Canada Representative of the British Dalmation Club.

Convention Centre

Our mayor has made the correct decision to leave "where" and "how" the question of the convention hall is to be settled, to the taxpayers in a special referendum.

In Victoria there has always been some resentment of the actions of the CPR. Some objections were correct, but others quite often unfounded. The situation is this. The CPR has offered to give land to the city on which to build a convention hall, and on their part, supply the necessary equipment and catering service that would be required.

We must face the situation as it is today. The Empress Hotel has always been one of the greatest attractions Victoria has. To build a convention hall elsewhere, it would cost the city thousands of dollars to give the necessary service to a convention hall. We, as taxpayers, would have no wish to see the city involved in this tremendous expense. The fact must be faced that kitchen and catering service is necessary wherever a convention hall is located, and only a large hotel that is expert in this line of work can do it.

The city will derive great benefit from such a plan as the CPR has offered, and it is a situation that all taxpayers should make themselves conversant with. — Alex MacLeod Baird, 630 Oliver.

FROM EDMONTON — By JAMES H. GRAY

A Return to Borrowing in Alberta

THE Social Credit convention here, which last week elected the Hon. Harry Strom to succeed Premier E. C. Manning, was a skillfully contrived put-on of the newspaper, radio and television media. It was designed to do for Mr. Strom, what the euphoria creating Liberal and Conservative conventions did for Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Trudeau.

Gray

To that end a leadership selection process that could have been completed in a day was spread over three. A contest that was always a no-contest was kept going with policy meetings, rehearsals, hired bands and card carriers. And while it got publicity by the ton it failed to generate anything remotely comparable to Trudeaumania. But it was far the best organized, best behaved and best disciplined political convention this country has ever seen.

That Harry Strom would be the new leader was a foregone conclusion. He could have been selected casually by the party caucus as Mr. Manning himself was selected. But the party brainstormers were entranced by the publicity the Liberals and Tories got everywhere. So a contest there had to be.

Mr. Manning set the tone by avowing he would give the party a completely free vote for a new leader. He would not endorse or support any candidate. But the fact that Mr. Manning favored Mr. Strom was not long in being bruited about. The caucus favored Strom and the cabinet favored Strom. Mr. Manning kept his silence, but when his son and protegy plunked himself down in a second row seat with his Strom button facing the TV cameras, the Manning mask of impartiality tited awry.

The stage managers of the Strom triumph left nothing to chance. They got him out working long before the other candidates were in the field. He went everywhere and saw everybody.

Skilled Management

The skill of the convention managers was exemplary. They organized every constituency and rounded up more delegates to attend than any other prairie convention in history. They brought 1,679 delegates to town, and no elite corps of storm troops ever functioned under better discipline.

In electing its new leader the Social Credit party elevated a man who is prepared to turn his back on the most sacred of all Socred Dogma—the conviction that public debt and the payment of interest is anathema and that government borrowing will destroy the free enterprise system. Mr. Strom went on record as favoring abandonment of the Manning pay-as-you-go principle which has guided Alberta for almost 35 years.

Nor was Strom alone in embracing the borrowing heresy. All the other serious candidates were also in favor or going into the money markets for cash with which to pay for long term capital expenditures.

Founding Hatred

—It was bitter hatred for government debt that give birth to the Socred Party and led it to repudiate the interest on the Alberta bonds in the 1930's. This repudiation closed the money markets to Alberta for a decade, made it impossible for private citizens to negotiate NHA mortgages. So the government made a virtue of necessity by living within its tax income. Then came the oil and gas discoveries and the $2 billion bonanza that enabled it to pay off its debts, finance huge public works and salt away a surplus. But it has been running out of income lately and after three whopping deficits in a row comes almost by necessity to recognize the need for borrowing.

But Mr. Strom emphasizes that it will be borrowing for long term capital projects only. In explaining where the money is to come from for expanding costs of welfare and educational services, he provided the best explanation yet of the Manning Social Conservative theory.

Involving Capital

What Mr. Manning nationally and Mr. Strom locally are after is to involve Canadian capitalism in social welfare and education. Private enterprise should carry more of the cost of taking care of the casualties of the system. Governments should induce private enterprise to build hospitals and nursing homes. Private enterprise ought to get involved in housing. In short, instead of all these costs coming out of the citizen as taxpayers, some of them ought to be extracted from the citizens as corporate dividend recipients.

For Mr. Strom, his government is likely to expand its expenditures on education and welfare. He is strongly in favor of better education and in particular he advocates a catch-up training program for children on welfare and a retraining program for their parents. The idea seems to be that these and other such expenditures can be handled out of the slack which private enterprise will take up in looking after the welfare of its employees.

Four Chinese piggeries have been placed under the ban of the sanitary inspector of the Oak Bay Muncipality and if that official is supported by the roads committee to which the matter has been referred the undesirable institutions will have to go.

He reported in one piggery on Myrtle Road pigs are kept in a building part of which is used as a dwelling and that it is old and unsanitary.

'Build Schools for Learning'

By JOHN YOUNG
Principal, Campbell River Secondary School

Good dentists used to be evaluated on their ability to pull teeth—painlessly. Nowadays, of course, a good dentist is one who does everything possible to avoid pulling teeth.

Good teachers used to be evaluated on their ability to teach good lessons, maintain good discipline, prepare good examinations, direct the pupils and otherwise decide just what, how and at what rate the child should progress through the school system.

In other words, the teacher's role was to teach (lecture) and the pupil's role was to absorb what the teacher taught him.

All of this is changing, or should be changing, in modern schools.

Yesterday's schools—and far too many of today's schools — were designed, built, and operated to facilitate teaching.

The modern concept is that the school should be an institution designed, built and operated to promote learning.

A hard, realistic look at our schools and our school system reveals that the majority of teachers are still obsessed with teaching and the majority of students are still learning the so-called facts handed out by the teacher.

Let us look at the evidence.

Few if any schools in British Columbia have suitable areas where students may go to learn.

The classroom box, 24 feet by 32 feet, is an area designed for teaching, not for learning. The classroom box perpetuates the false idea that the teacher at the front of the room is the key factor in the school.

Wide Variety of Spaces

The key factor in our schools should not be the teacher teaching but the student learning.

The school should not be looked at as a building having classrooms where teachers teach.

Rather, the school should be looked at as a building having a wide variety of spaces where students go to learn.

To my knowledge there isn't a school in British Columbia designed and operated on the assumption that it is more important for students to learn than for teachers to teach.

Indeed, our schools are operated on a number of very false assumptions.

For example, we assume that a group of 30 to 40 students is the appropriate size for a wide range of learning experiences. Sometmes the group should be maybe 100 or more. At other times the group should be as small as 10 or less.

Yet, in very few of our schools do students learn, on a properly organized and systematic basis, in groups other than the standard 30 to 40.

Another false assumption is that class periods should very in length from 40 to 60 minutes. Almost all secondary schools, as well as the intermediate grades in elementary schools, are organized on this basis. Common sense alone dictates that for many learning experiences, for most students, there should be very wide variations in time allotments. Indeed, there are times when students should spent maybe a day or a week in a particular activity or learning experience.

Another false assumption — probably the most indefensible of all — is that all pupils in a group are more or less capable of mastering the same material in the same length of time — namely, a school year. We usually test the whole group at the same time and we usually allot to every student the same amount of time to write the test.

Why can't each individual student write a test whenever he is ready for it? And why can't each student be given as much time as he needs to write the test?

Proceed at Own Pace

Of course, the lock-step idea is the whole basis upon which the B.C. grade system is organized. Students who require more than a year to complete a given body of work are failed, and those who require less than a school year to complete a course are required to take a year anyway.

All our schools, at all grade levels, should be organized so that students can proceed at their own pace. Continuous progress, in a completely ungraded system, belongs not only in the primary grades. It belongs throughout the school system.

For how many more years must society be told that our schools should be organized according to the way children learn rather than according to the calendar, or units of work, or grades?

In almost all our schools we try to make the child fit the sysem rather than gearing the system to fit the child.

There are further false assumptions which are worth examining.

For example, in elementary schools, each student is assigned a classroom with a teacher. The student is exposed almost exclusively to that one teacher for the year.

The assumption behind this kind of school organization is that each teacher is equally qualified, or competent, in all aspects of the curriculum for that particular grade level. Of course, this assumption is completely false.

Also, as someone recently commented, "what happens to the poor kid in the rigidly graded elementary school who draws the school's weakest third grade teacher for the year?"

And, imagine what happens to the youngster who has the misfortune of drawing the weakest teacher in each grade for two or three years in succession?

If the school itself were thought of as the learning unit, rather than the classroom, and if teachers were given tasks which suited their talents, the children would not suffer the disadvantage of being stuck with the same teacher in the same classroom box for a whole year.

There are a number of other false assumptions underlying what we are doing in our schools, but one stands out more than the others. This assumption has to do with supervision of students.

The question has been asked, "Why do we continue to operate our schools on the assumption that all students require the same kind of supervision? Why must the same rules apply to everyone regardless of his level of maturity?

Isn't it a little ridiculous that a 17-year-old has to ask his teacher for permission to go to the washroom?"

"These and other false assumptions are quietly at work in our schools keeping them rigid, authoritarian places where only the bright conformist can succeed."

In my view, schools of the future will not only enshrine learning, as opposed to teaching, but they will also enshrine such concepts as freedom, trust, responsibility, and respect for the rights of children.

Students have the right to learn at their own rate, without fear of failure.

Students also have the right to make at least some of the important decisions with regard to how they learn and what they learn.

Rights of Children

In my view it is precisely because teachers have traditionally given so little attention to student opinions and ideas that we have large numbers of students in our schools who have no real commitment to learning.

Far too many of our students view the school as an authoritarian institution which is dedicated to forcing them into activities that are often uninteresting or irrelevant.

How can we expect students to become interested in learning — in their own education — if we seldom either consult them or give them the opportunity to do things their own way?

At the senior secondary school level at least, students should be treated as young adults who are largely responsible for their own education. These senior students should be provided with all kinds of opportunities to get involved in, and committed to, their own education.

How can we expect these young adults to learn responsibility if the school treats them in essentially the same manner as they were treated in grade one?

In many schools these young adults are boxed in neat rows in classrooms — facing front and listening, serving detentions for being late or for chewing gum, bringing signed (often forged) notes from parents for absenteeism, having to obtain a signed slip to go to the toilet or to see a counsellor, etc., etc.

How can we expect students to get involved in their own education if they must learn under such working conditions?

However, what is done in schools is by no means the exclusive responsibility of teachers. Nor, for that matter, are the serious shortcomings of our school system entirely due to the lack of imagination of the teaching force.

Many Have No Library

Much responsibility also rests on the shoulders of school boards to provide the space, staff and facilities needed for quality education.

The affluence one sees in many sections of Canadian society stands in brutal contrast to our poverty-stricken schools.

The great majority of our schools, including some large secondary schools, do not even have a library — that is, a library as defined by minimum standards set out for schools by the Canadian Library Association.

Science facilities are generally inadequate, and in some cases almost non-existent.

Large classes — in which quality education simply cannot take place — are widespread. For example, nearly 100,000 pupils in elementary schools are sitting in classrooms averaging 37 pupils.

Classes are crowded into such makeshift facilities as staffrooms, lunchrooms, community halls, corridors, basements, stages, storage rooms, portables, and other sub-standard areas.

School boards, in my view, should be fighting more aggressively and more unremittingly for better education. They can achieve this by encouraging principals and teachers to be creative and by providing them with the moral and economic support they need to move our schools ahead.

There would appear to be far too much complacency on the part of trustees. Far too many of them, I suggest, believe that our schools are quite good. The evidence strongly suggests the contrary.

Barely 50 per cent of our students complete high school successfully. Last year about 10,500 students dropped out of school — some 9,000 from the secondary schools and some 1,500 from the elementary schools.

I personally do not know of any schools in British Columbia which are adequately staffed, adequately equipped, or designed to provide a first-rate education geared to the needs, interests and abilities of each and every individual child.

Every child in the community has an equal claim to good teachers, good facilities, and a good curriculum geared to his own needs.

Yet, it is a rare community indeed that is fulfilling the student's claim to equal treatment.

Our schools are institutions which cater primarily to the interests of the middle class child. The culturally deprived child is tragically neglected by our schools. It is a well-known fact that the best predictor of a child's success at school is the socio-economic status of his parents.

Children of parents of low socio-economic status do not, as a general rule, do well in our schools. This is partly due to teacher attitudes towards such students.

The school system is patently unjust and unfair for large numbers of underpriviledged children.

Society has not yet accepted the democratic principle of equality of educational opportunity for all children.

Make Ideal a Reality

Society of course states that the schools are equally accessible to all students, but what it fails to do is to provide the resources — both in terms of personnel, programs and facilities — to make the ideal a reality.

The accessibility to schools is essentially equal to all children but what actually goes on inside the schools constitutes a denial of equal opportunity to all students.

The shape of today's world gives us many clues as to the shape of tomorrow's world. We can predict, with a high degree of accuracy, many of the developments which will take place in our future society.

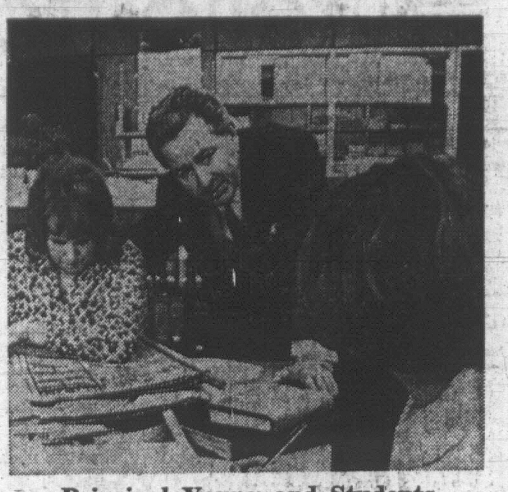

The emphasis in schools of the future will shift from lock-step grades to continues progress; from the classrooms as the teaching area to the entire school as the learning area; from teaching as telling to teaching as guided learning; from passing and failing students to taking students where one finds them and them helping them to advance as far as possible in a given period of time; from teacher as general practitioner to teacher as specialist; and from schools obsessed with matters historical or traditional to schools oriented towards the future.

Someone once remarked that it is easier to land a man on the moon than to bring about changes in education.

It is no doubt difficult to change educational practices that are so chained to 19th century attitudes and ideas.

However, if such conservative institutions as the churches can change their traditional attitudes towards sex, birth control, homosexuality and divorce, surely it isn't being too naive or optimistic to suppose that schools will eventually change their traditional attitudes towards children, grades, promotions, failures, punishments, teaching and learning.

The changes need to be made now, not next century.

Dark Shadow of the Soviet Union Cause for Trembling in Scandinavia

By EDWIN SHANKE

STOCKHOLM—To a visitor from outside, the Scandinavians sometimes seem a bit odd.

As a sort of commonwealth of welfare states, more socialized than Socialist, they get along famously. At the same time, they often give the impression they can't stand one another.

They think alike, act alike, work alike, and react alike to events in Europe and the world. They have a constant interchange of ideas, culture and customs, a common history, common institutions. They solve many mutual problems together in harmony through their Nordic Council.

●

A Finn can travel anywhere in Scandinavia without a passport. A Dane can go anywhere in Scandinavia and work. A Swede can enjoy the same social security benefits in Denmark and Norway as in Sweden. A Norwegian is just about as well off in civil rights anywhere in Scandinavia as he is at home.

But Oslo complains to Stockholm that Swedish Lapps are allowing their reindeer to graze and fatten on Norwegian pastures, and wants this stopped. The Swedes counter that their Lapps have a legal right to the grazing, dating from the 18th century.

Sweden complains to Denmark about Danish fishermen catching under-sized Baltic salmon bred in Swedish rivers. Norwegians gag when the Swedes make them the butts of heavy-handed Swedish humor, and talk about national insults.

For all their differences, the Scandinavians live with a dream of harmony — disturbed sometimes by the nightmare shadow of the enormous Soviet Union.

The dream involves a close-knit Nordic Economic Union, which could go as far as becoming a customs union. Committees are studying the prospect in all its complicated details.

●

But there are fears that the whole project will collapse. Danish and Norwegian industrial interests seem to fear Swedish competition. Surprisingly, the Finns appear eager to push ahead.

Scandinavians are working on another problem of common concern — law and order. The Nordic Police Association, representing all the police forces, has drawn attention to the rise of a "mentality of violence" unknown before in countries generally regarded as law-abiding.

The association blames the growing motor traffic across Scandinavia's comparatively open borders, crime syndicate operations, political demonstrations and narcotics traffic for confronting Scandinavian police with new problems and duties. In Sweden particularly, illegal dope running is said to have risen to astounding proportions.

●

As for the common nightmare, the closeness of the Soviet Union, it was just as the first snows were about to fall that the political chill caused a shudder to run through the Nordic lands.

Scandinavia had not recovered from the shock of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia when word leaked out of a secret "fishing trip" of Soviet Prime Minister Alexei N. Kosygin with Finland's President Urho Kekkonen. Only a month before, Finns had been telling visitors their relations with Moscow never had seemed calmer.

The border between Lilliput Finland and giant Russia, and their relations generally, are highly sensitive. Now the Scandinavians began to wonder: What was Kosygin up to soon after the occupation of Czechoslovakia? They remembered that Russians in June and July held major military exercises in the Arctic wilderness near the short border with Norway.

Norway's defence minister, Otto Grieg Tidemand, reminded his Parliament that the invasion of Czechoslovakia had been heralded by "manoeuvres." While Kosygin and Kekkonnen conversed on an ice-breaker, wild rumors ran through Scandinavia, nourished by the secrecy surrounding the meeting.

●

After the autumn nightmare, Swedish defence forces remained on limited alert. Norway began beefing up defences. Popular sentiment in Norway and Denmark has swung back to support of continued membership in NATO.

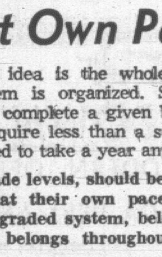

And the Scandinavians, who never seem to be able to get along with one another, are talking about even more co-operation.

The Fans Who Remove The Glory From Sport

By ART STOTT

You read about fight fans staging a riot in the Los Angeles Forum when their Mexican favorite lost a split decision to an Australian—and you may shrug your shoulders, thinking of "those hot-blooded Latin-Americans." Then you think of the stories you've read about riots at British major soccer league games—and there's not supposed to be much hot about British blood, or the English climate during the football season.

Stott

While you're mulling over these incidents, and probably attributing the disturbances to too much drinking, you read about a chartered plane load of British Columbia spectators who flew to a San Francisco NFL game and whose plane was grounded after the fixture because too many of the passengers, in the opinion of the pilot, were too high to fly.

The drunk at the sports event is no phenomenon. If you look back, you'll recall instances when an inebriate gave tongue to rambling thoughts from many a gallery. When the thing reaches epidemic proportions, you're inclined to see it as a social problem.

Maybe the development was inevitable. Professional sport, or spectator sport for that matter, is part of the entertainment business. Increasingly it caters to those who want to be entertained. The trend can expand to the fatuous histrionics of what passes for pro wrestling, or it can reach the refinement of precision football, hockey, soccer or other body contact pastimes. The appeal in the latter is still directed toward the "buff" who understands the particular sport—and he is given a higher degree of excellence than ever before.

But the economics of assembling stars and welding them into a team demands large revenue from the paying customers. In addition to the informed spectator, there must be many more to swell the gate. And among the many more are so-called "fun-seekers"—even violent protagonists—who mix spectating with an injudicious intake of alcohol. Somewhere in the process the better qualities of sport become submerged.

The gallery, including large numbers of the ill-informed, makes modern involvement a personal thing, heats is up with blind partisanship or liquid stimulant, and produces riot. Encouragement comes from powerful forces in their own countries which inject unwholesome nationalistic and political elements into sport.

When involvement reaches the extreme, the cops are called and planes are grounded.

This is a shabby accompaniment of sport in many parts of the world—perhaps because not enough people have been trained how to behave as spectators.

★ ★ ★

Since so much of physical education is concentrated on the creation of winning teams—with a corresponding limitation of the number of individuals who will play—it seems reasonable that some emphasis at least should be placed on teaching the young how to appreciate excellence in games from the sidelines. We have art appreciation courses. We have instruction in the enjoyment of music. Maybe we ought to have a little more concern for spectator sportsmanship.

The youngsters yelling for their school team in a healthy display of loyalty could profit from a little instruction in the recognition of good play by opponents. Some schools try to implant that practice, but not enough. When the school grandstands reach hysteria beyond all reasonable bounds, some adult in authority ought to calm them down.

They should be taught that there are limits to what is acceptable in the stands and along the sidelines. If they aren't then they may be expected to grow into the type of human material that creates riots.

Historians may note the practices of the day and draw comparisons to the contests of a much earlier arena. The currently thoughtful even now may ponder how far we've walked from the Colosseum in its malodorous heyday.

CP Air Expects Two Good Years

Canadian Pacific Airlines will gross more than ever but net less profit than last year when it closes its 1968 books, according to Bryan Renwick, vice-president of sales and traffic.

In Victoria to attend a symposium of the company's international marketing and operational representatives, Mr. Renwick said gross revenues for the year would be up about 10 per cent, exceeding $100 million for the first time. But he said that would be less than forecast and net revenue would be under last year's $3.2 million.

Mr. Robert P. Fox, President of the International Division of Simoniz Company, announces that his office will now be located in Toronto. During the past six years the International Division has had headquarters in Lausanne, Switzerland and latterly in London, England.

The International Division of Simoniz Company is composed of Simoniz (England) Ltd. — Simoniz (Paris) S.A. — Simoniz G.M.B.H., Frankfurt, Germany, — Simoniz S.A., Lausanne, Switzerland and Simoniz Company Limited, Canada.

Mr. Renwick said the company is facing higher costs for labor, equipment, materials, landing charges, food and other items, reducing the passenger-mile yield consistently with conditions in this last three years.

He said the yield was less in 1968 than last year and less in 1967 than in 1966.

But Mr. Renwich was optimistic for 1969 operations in view of prospects for expansion of domestic and international flights, including a new emphasis on charter operations to such places as Hawaii and the Canary Islands.

CP Air, to use the company's new name, looks forward to the use of a 240-seat economy class stretched DC-8 jet which will be assigned indefinitely to overseas charter work.

The plane, going into service about Jan. 1, would carry affinity group charters for as little as $350 round-trip Victoria to Europe, Mr. Renwick said.

Looking further ahead, the executive referred to CPA's order of three Boeing 2707 supersonic jets and the delays Boeing had encountered. This could affect CPA's competitive position in the 70s and the firm is monitoring progress of the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic plane, due to fly soon.

NO JUMBOS

Mr. Renwich said there was no traffic density justification for ordering jumbo jets (for example, the Boeing 747).

With introduction of the Boeing 737 short-to-medium range aircraft last month, and continuing for a total of seven planes, CPA by this time next year will be operating an all-jet fleet, the vice-president said.

At the moment DC-3 aircraft are still used on two small interior B.C. feeder runs, and the DC-6Bs used on bigger routes in the interior are being phased out by the Boeing 737.

For its larger aircraft, CP will have seven standard size 141-seat DC-8 jets and four of the stretched version capable of seating up to 240 persons. The 737 will be used on flights to the Yukon, Alberta and San Francisco, Mr. Renwick said.

Plans for expansion of CP Air include a bid for the Middle East and possibly Yugoslavia.

Mr. Renwick, a native of Victoria, left here to work for United Airlines in 1938 and opened its Hawaii office in 1946. The University School Old Boy joined CPA in 1955.

New Bank Group Formed

LONDON (Reuters) — Formation of a new Australian - New Zealand banking group with assets of £1,500,000,000 (about $4,100,000,000) was announced.

It was formed by merging the interests of the Australia and New Zealand Bank with the English, Scottish and Australian Bank. Both banks are based in London.

In a joint statement the two boards recommend shareholders to agree to the merger, subject to approval by British and Australian authorities.

It is proposed that both banks shall become wholly-owned subsidiaries of a new holding company, Australia and New Zealand Banking Group.

Total share capital of the new holding company will be £34,000,000 of which the ANZ share will be 64.71 per cent and ESA 35.29 per cent.

ANZ, one of Australia's pioneer banks, has 1,000 branches and agencies in Australia, New Zealand, Fiji, Papau and New Guinea.

ESA had more than 500 branches in Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania.

Lafarge Cement

Lafarge Cement of North America Ltd. and Lafarge Cement Quebec Ltd. say that a merger of the two companies is planned on a share exchange basis.

A joint statement said the Quebec company would be offered 520,000 common shares of Vancouver - based Lafarge cement of North America — the equivalent of two shares for every five shares of the Quebec company.

Both companies are subsidiaries of the International Ciments Lafarge organization.

Massey-Ferguson

Massey - Ferguson Ltd. today announced plans to build two factories in Turkey, one to produce tractors and the other diesel engines. The plants are expected to start prdouction within two years.

NYSE Target

Emanuel Celler, chairman of the U.S. house judiciary committee. has asked the justice department to consider filing an antitrust suit against the New York Stock Exchange.

The New York Democrat expressed concern Tuesday over what he said were the "anti-competitive" effects of an exchange rule closely restricting trading off-board by members of the exchange.

Coronation Offer

A Coronation Credit Corp. Ltd. cash and share offer to purchase Public Freightways Ltd. has been accepted by the trucking firm's directors and a majority of its shareholders.

The offer, worth about $1.75 million based on the current market price of Coronation shares, was announced by William E. Donnelly, Coronation executive vice - president, and James C. Vanderspek, president of Public Freightways, B.C.'s largest private trucking firm.

U.S. MILLS DROP SANDED PLY PRICES

PORTLAND (AP) — The Weyerhaeuser Co. said Tuesday night it is cutting sanded plywood index prices to $110 for 1,000 square feet.

The company announcement followed Georgia-Pacific's lead in dropping sanded plywood prices by $8 per thousand.

A spokesman for the Weyerhaeuser softwood plywood division in Tacoma said the $110 figure was $2 lower than a price set earlier this week "to our sales force."

He said the cut was part of "an internal effort to resist the spiral," which saw some prices as high as $118 last week.

In B.C. a spokesman for MacMillan Bloedel said the Canadian and U.S. markets are quite separate, and the Canadian market had not experienced the growth in sales of its American counterpart.

"Consequently we do not expect the U.S. price moves will have any effect on our business in Canada," he said.

Royal Bank Executive Changes

Coleman, who has been Chief General Manager of the bank since 1964 and a Vice-President since 1966, succeeds Mr. Mayne as Executive Vice-President. Mr. J. K. Finlayson, General Manager, International, since 1967, becomes Chief General Manager. He joined the bank in 1939 and has been an executive officer since 1964. Bi-Bi Report Risks 'Cultural Ghettos'

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Gerard Pelletier, secretary of state, says majority linguistic groups in proposed bilingual zones in Canada will have to be educated to create a climate where the minority "will be able to impose itself."

Mr. Pelletier told French-speaking Manitobans at the Rallie Franco-Manitoban here during the weekend that "cultural ghettos" could be formed when the bilingual zones recommended in the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism are established.

They are to be formed in areas where a minority of at least 10 per cent speaks an official language not used by the majority.

"We risk giving birth to permanent conflicts and veritable cultural ghettos if we think integration of one of Canada's two cultural majorities can be decreed without seeking to establish tolerance, co-operation and reason with the group in power in that community," Mr. Pelletier said.

The federal government proposed to set up socio-cultural education centres when the official zones were officially established by legislation.

"Cultural moderators" from these centres will work first at educating the linguistic majority to create a climate where the cultural minority "will be able to impose itself," he said.

The secretary of state also promised direct federal government aid to a Franco-Manitoban Society formed at the rally to replace the Education Association of French-speaking Manitobans.

The society would take an interest in all social and cultural matters affecting French-speaking Manitobans. The education association, on the other hand, was formed to fight for French instruction in Manitoba schools.

50% INCREASE FOR ALDERMEN

EDMONTON (CP) — After less than two months in office, the city's aldermen have given themselves a 50 per cent increase in salary.

The increase, approved Monday and retroactive to the beginning of the present term Oct. 16, will bring aldermanic salaries to $5,400 a year, $1,800 of which will be tax-free expense money.

Final Approval Given

The department of education has approved $179,555 contract for an eight-room addition to Hillcrest elementary school in Gordon Head.

The low bid by Bird Construction Co. Ltd. of Victoria had earlier been provisionally approved by the Greater Victoria school board.

The approval announced by Education Minister Donald Brothers Monday was among $778,124 in school construction contracts given the green light by the provincial government.

Miners Rescued

ALIVERI (AP) — Rescue teams brought 80 trapped miners to the surface Tuesday after a giant explosion collapsed a section of a lignite mine on the island of Euboea, off the east coast of central Greece.

Single History Book for Canada Vetoed

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — French and English-speaking view each other through the past, darkly, in Canadian history textbooks.

The second volume of the report of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism, made public Monday, reports that the French-speaking turn up in English-language history texts as "a threat to national unity because of their cultural loyalties."

The English-speaking appear in French texts as "a menace to French-Canadian survival."

And Canadians who came to this country speaking neither English nor French hardly appear at all. They come on briefly in sheepskin coats and vanish again as soon as they lose their "funny accent."

The Indians also vanish with the end of the French regime, make a quick comeback with Louis Riel and then another quick exit.

"After studying Canadian history from a textbook," the report says, "a student may well conclude that only French- and English-speaking Canadians count for anything—and that only the attitudes and actions of his own language group can be justified."

Two Versions

The commission explicitly rejects the view that there should be one standard Canadian history textbook that would provide the same interpretation of the same facts in both languages.

But it does suggest "textbooks varying in emphasis and interpretation but which would at least be recognizable to both Anglophones and Francophones as histories of their country."

Existing texts, the commission found, differ drastically both in facts and interpretation.

Varying attitudes toward the fall of new France are elementary examples.

To a French-speaking textbook writer it is "a veritable catastrophe for our people," while his English counterpart writers "with an almost audible sign of relief" that "new France had fallen at last."

Selection and emphasis of important events differ as well:

"English-language textbooks, which quickly pass over the early years of discovery, nonetheless find space for John Cabot's voyage to the new world, whereas most French-language textbooks ignor it.

Cabot Ignored

"Anglophone authors, who see Canada as British North America, are naturally impressed by the fact that Cabot claimed part of the new world for England before Jacques Cartier planted fleur-de-lys, whereas Frencophone authors, with French Canada as their focus, find this isolated incident irrelevant."

Texts in the two languages take diverging views of the political institutions of the French régime:

"French authors stress the growing autonomy of the colony in its relations with France; English authors stress the authoritarian structure of the colonial institutions in contrast with the representative assemblies and the individualism of the English colonies to the south."

The gap between the two versions of history widens further after the conquest, the commission found.

French Texts

In the French texts the story is that of the survival of French Canada.

"The Durham Report, confederation, Louis Riel, the separate schools crises, and conscription in two wars are all described in the context of a beleaguered minority resisting the efforts of the English majority to destroy its society."

The heroes are the men like Papineau and Bourassa who stood up to the English. Georges Etienne Cartier and Laurier "receive faint praise at best because they agreed to compromise with English Canadians."

In the English texts the history of Canada is also one of survival, but this time it is the survival of Canada as a political entity in North America.

One of the threats to this survival, in the English textbooks, "is the emphasis on provincial autonomy and the controversy between the two cultural groups."

"Surprisingly," the report says, "the British connection is not seen as a threat. Canadian autonomy is usually seen as the result of co-operation between colonial British politicians, and in the major wars of the 20th century it is assumed that British and Canadian interests are identical."

Tomahawk Image

In briefs submitted to the Bi and Bi Commission, English-speaking and French-speaking treatment of each other was not the only ground for complaint about history texts.

The commission heard complaints that in Canadian schools "Indians are indelibly associated with tomahawks and firewater in the early days and then forgotten, while central Europeans appear as peasant immigrants in sheepskin coats and then vanish forever."

In a text quoted in the report one such immigrant finds that "his greatest satisfaction was to see his children go off to school where they could mix with Canadians and learn to speak their language."

Their father, whose name is Ivan, evidently did some mixing with Canadians himself for, "before long, Ivan lost a little of his funny accent and a great deal of his loneliness."

Not Welcome?

The commission found little in this example "to suggest that immigrants were welcomed by Canadian authorities because these immigrants had talents and qualities which the country needed."

The report comes to the conclusion that Canadian history texts should not attempt to make cultural differences disappear.

Each linguistic community, the commission believes, should study history in a way that starts from the cultural experience the child brings to the school and builds from there. But "any study of the Canadian people should have as one of its aims the fostering of an awareness of the existence and the nature of our two societies."

It's Best and Worst Time For Fledgling U.S. Writers

By MILES SMITH

NEW YORK (AP)—In Arnold Gingrich's opinion these are "the best of times and the worst of times" for American writers and writing.

Why the best of times?

"Because never before has it been easier to get published," the veteran editor said in an interview. "Never before has it been so easy for a young writer to get a grant-in-aid, or to get a job as a writer-in-residence, or in teaching.

"And publishers are engaged in a fantastic competition to uncover new talent. The days of Joseph Hergesheimer writing 14 years without getting a line in print are gone forever."

Why the worst of times?

"With all this competition among publishers, you'd think we would be in a golden age of writing, but we're not.

"Never has there been less editing of manuscripts. Never has there been more half-baked stuff published than there is today. There is an utter lack of discipline in writing now.

"Writers today reach too much success too soon. I feel that qualitatively we have no progress to point to."

Gingrich, 64, is publisher and founding editor (in 1933) of Esquire magazine. He is this year's recipient of the Henry Johnson Fisher Award of the Magazine Publishers' Association, for individual achievement in magazine publishing. His editing career goes back to the days of F. Scott Fitzgerald and Ernest Hemingway.

Asked about the current tendency toward themes of sex and criticism, Gingrich said a reaction is developing.

"In this race for what we used to think of as indecent exposure, the movies are practically keeping pace with the books—and so is the theatre," he said.

"I don't believe in imposed censorship. No one in tune with this century believes in it. But a natural censorship is bound to assert itself. It is the censorship of boredom. Inevitably it is going to do its own policing job.

"When you have an age of such extreme relaxation of all standards, inevitably you will have a surfeit."

"It is the universal complaint of editors today that they can't find the stuff. Or if they do find it they can't hang on to it. Suppose they find a young college kid who has written something exceptionally funny. The next thing they know, he has gone into advertising or is writing television scripts.

"But then, there are reasons back of this. For one thing, the world isn't as funny as it used to be years ago.

"For another, there are fewer things you dare be funny about. People are more sensitive to what is said about them. Today, dialect humor is out. Try to be funny about any nationality and someone will be on your neck."

Cultural Conference Postponed

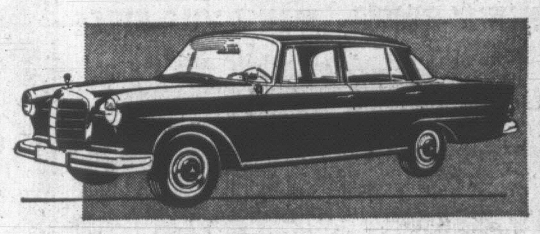

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand says the cultural conference of French-speaking countries scheduled in Niger later this month has been postponed.

The premier told reporters Tuesday he had been informed of the postponement by Quebec's representative in Paris. He did not know the new dates for the meeting.

Asked why the conference had been postponed, Mr. Bertrand said the question would have to be asked of the president of Niger.

He said, however, that negotiations were continuing between Quebec province and Ottawa on composition of a delegation to the Niger meeting, whenever it is held. Both the provincial and federal governments received invitations to the conference from Niger.

Power Struggle in High Places

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of a new top management team at Air Canada is a classic case of a power struggle in high places.

It involved a struggle within the government itself, a struggle among bureaucrats in Ottawa and Montreal, and a struggle between the government and both bureaucratic fronts.

French-English relations were a subsidiary but important theme.

Gordon McGregor, then president of Air Canada, got the struggle locked on its collision course by insisting—publicly as well as privately—that Executive Vice-President H. W. Seagrim succeed him.

As it turned out, he could not have done anything more calculated to put the government's back up and make it decide that Mr. Seagrim, no matter how talented, was not the man for the job.

BLOW-BY-BLOW

Informants close to the situation sketch in the following picture:

The government had two main points in mind: That it must keep control of Air Canada's policies and that the chief officer of the airline should be French-speaking. The first point was essential.

The government's—that is, Prime Minister Trudeau's—first choice as Air Canada chairman and chief executive officer was Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the executive committee of the City of Montreal.

But Mr. Trudeau's first choice was not that of Transport Minister Paul Hellyer. He wanted to install a well-known Liberal, Roderick McIsaac, Winnipeg businessman.

Mr. Trudeau did not appreciate Mr. Hellyer promoting Mr. McIsaac while he was trying to get Mr. Saulnier for the job. Mr. Hellyer lost.

The Air Canada establishment began to get behind Mr. Saulnier with the apparent belief it could "capture" him.

GETS INTO FIGHT

This brought the capital's establishment into the fight. It wanted to make sure, as did the government, that Ottawa keep a firm hand on Air Canada's policies. It had no wish to see the airline, which has nearly $2,000,000,000 worth of equipment on order, become a separate, closed corporation responsible only to itself.

The Ottawa bureaucracy wanted the top job at Air Canada. It lost.

Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Saulnier held their climactic meeting Nov. 15.

Mr. Saulnier did not aid his cause when that same day he sought the advice of a newspaper man who had been attacking the prime minister editorially.

In essence, Mr. Saulnier demanded broader powers than Mr. Trudeau was prepared to give him.

Whether he sought increased powers on his own or was persuaded to do so by the Air Canada brass is a subject of speculation. Mr. Saulnier did see both Mr. McGregor and Mr. Seagrim.

In any event, such powers would have given him virtual sole control of the airline. Mr. Trudeau was not willing to grant them, or anything like them.

Yves Pratte of Quebec City was summoned as chairman and chief executive officer. John Baldwin, deputy transport minister, was appointed president.

Mr. Pratte in effect is responsible for over-all Air Canada policy and Mr. Baldwin for day-to-day operations.

But the government retains a big hand in determination of policy.

Mr. Baldwin, a member of the Ottawa establishment, has penetrated the Air Canada establishment to make sure this is the case.

The hands-down winner: Mr. Trudeau.

The prime minister, however, has been careful to keep open a channel to Mr. Saulnier with the hope he can be persuaded at some future time to take a big job—on the government's terms, of course.

MINISTER, TRUSTEES DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Education Minister Donald Brothers spent six hours with Saanich Peninsula school trustees Tuesday, touring their district and holding informal discussions.

The minister's visit follows a promise he made to trustees at their annual convention in October that he would meet school boards in each of the province's 85 school districts.

Problem of locating a suitable site for a senior secondary school in the Sidney area was among subjects discussed, school board chairman Mrs. Nora Lindsay said today.

The board wants the school close enough to the community so it can be used by residents in off-hours, she added.

A rising school population will likely warrant a referendum in 1970 on building the high school.

CBC 'Distorted' Strip Mine Story

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Canadian Broadcasting Corporation television program last month on strip-mining in southeastern British Columbia and the U.S. was distorted, the B.C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines has charged.

In a letter Dec. 5 to CBC president George Davidson chamber president R. C. Macdonald and manager Thomas Elliott said the program was a disservice to the economic and social development of Canada.

The program, shown on the Nov. 24 edition of The Way It Is, was highly critical of strip mining. It included films of the large-scale effects of strip-mining in Kentucky and West Virginia and warnings by Americans, including Kentucky Governor Louis Nunn, not to tolerate strip-mining in B.C.

The letter, made public Tuesday, said the program ignored the fact that the provincial government has said it will introduce legislation controlling strip-mining at the next session of the legislature in January.

Kaiser Coal Ltd., the company which is developing the huge coal deposits in the Crowsnest area, has repeatedly said it will reclaim the stripped land, the letter said.

It also said that during the 15-year period of the $650,000,000 contract Kaiser will be mining only three square miles of the 40,000 which make up the Rocky Mountain chain.

Meanwhile, a geography professor at the University of Calgary said that professionals and politicians cannot be relied on to do a proper job of handling Alberta's resources.

"It is up to the private citizens of Alberta to see that our rights are protected," Dr. Louis Hamill told a forum on strip-mining.

Alderman Unhappy With School Plans

Proposed plans for the extension of James Bay Elementary School will get a close vetting from Victoria city council before being approved.

Ald. Ian Stewart told the parks and recreation committee Tuesday that he was far from happy with the proposal to extend the school across its own play area and use neighboring Macdonald Park for outdoor activities.

"It has been stressed that the school children would just be using the park during the daytime leaving it clear for sporting events after school hours," he said.

"But I don't buy that. The park is already used extensively and I think we need to take a close look at all aspects of this situation before making a final decision."

Ald. Stewart did agree with a suggestion that the city purchase for $25,000 a nearyby property in case the school board proposal does eventually go through.

"But I do not want this construed in any way as meaning that this committee approves the plan," he said.

PRICE REASONABLE

City manager Dennis Young had suggested purchase of the property at this time to avoid the possibility of higher costs should the property be purchased by a prospective apartment builder.

"We have the chance to get it now for a reasonable price," he said. "If we wait we could find ourselves negotiating with an apartment developer at pretty high cost to the city."

The property involved lies on Montreal Street on the opposite side of the park to the school. If the development proposal is adopted the school board will reimburse the city for the money spent on land acquisition.

Basically the school plan would see the school and its grounds encroach on the park area opposite the grandstand while land acquisition behind the grandstand would expand the park towards Montreal Street.

Leaving Ald. Stewart unhappy is the fact that the school was built where it is in the first place.

"There is more involved here than just a technical plan to expand a school," he said. "The technical aspects of the proposal I agree with. But there are sociological problems and other problems to be looked at.

"We have to decide what is best for the entire area and I think we need to examine the entire proposal carefully before making a decision."

Theatre Encourages All to Participate

PARIS (Reuters) — A theatre where actors and the audience are encouraged to meet after the show opened in Paris Tuesday night.

Housed in the theatre from where Sarah Bernhardt reigned over the Parisian scene, the new Theatre de la Ville includes a club with bar, restaurant and library.

The opening came after 14 months of work costing about 13,000,000 francs (about $2,800,000), converting the luxurious gold and velvet rococo interior into the most modern theatre in the capital.

The steeply sloping auditorium seats about 1,000 persons.

The exterior, built by Napoleon III, remains intact as an integral part of the Place du Chatelet. The theatre keeps alive the name of the "Divine" Sarah with a museum of her personal objects.

Subsidized by the Paris Council to the tune of about 5,000,000 francs a year, the theatre offers a high standard of plays at reasonable prices, and to draw in some of the 1,500,000 workers within half a mile of the theatre it precedes each evening's performance with lighter entertainment.

Indian Has Lived In 'No-Man's Land'

Discrimination against women is still widespread, Mrs. G. K. Waddell, director of the women's bureau of the B.C. labor department, told the Victoria United Nations Association Tuesday.

"There are still some people in top management who would prefer a dumb man to a smart woman," she said. "It's sometime a matter of company policy not to hire women for top management jobs."

Several speakers discussed the problem of human rights at the meeting.

Chief Philip Paul of the Brentwood Tsartlip band, said throughout Canada's history the Indian has lived in a political no-man's-land, amid a vicious circle of poverty, paternity, and political tyranny.

"The Indian Act in itself contravenes the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights," he said.

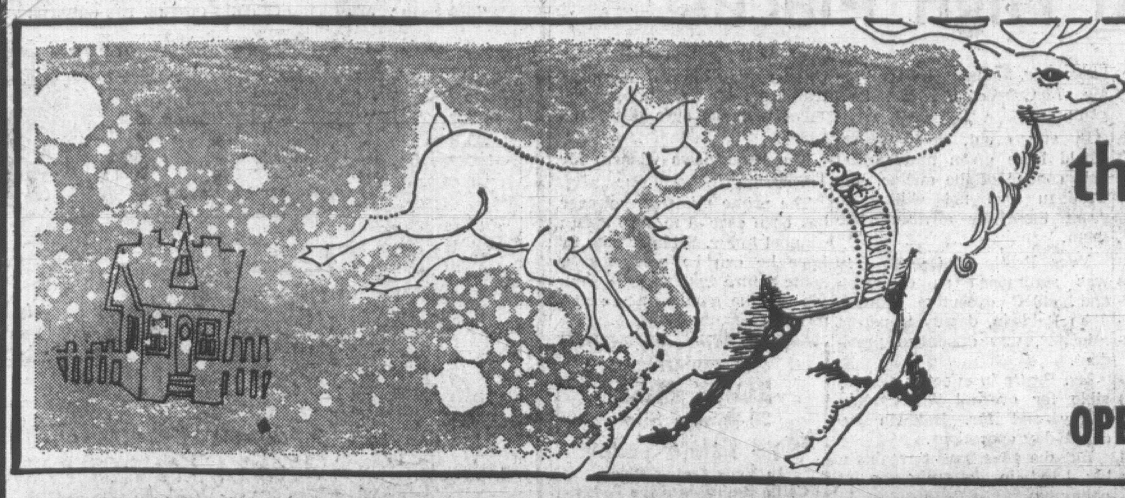

He pointed out history books discriminated against Indians.

"If the Indian won a war it was a massacre, if the white man won it was a victory," he said.

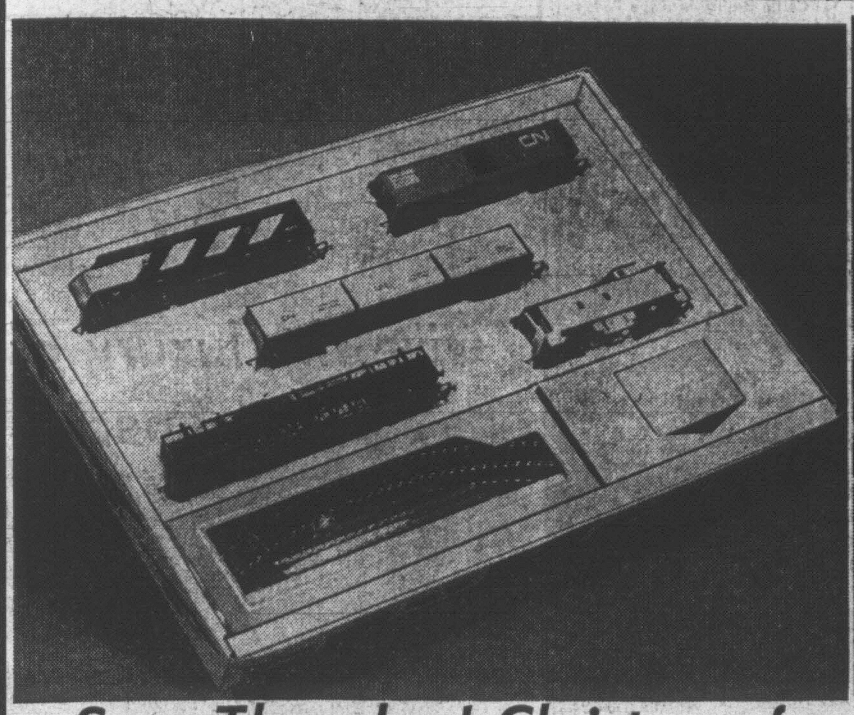

"Today if an Indian speaks out, he is militant, if a white man speaks out he is progressive."

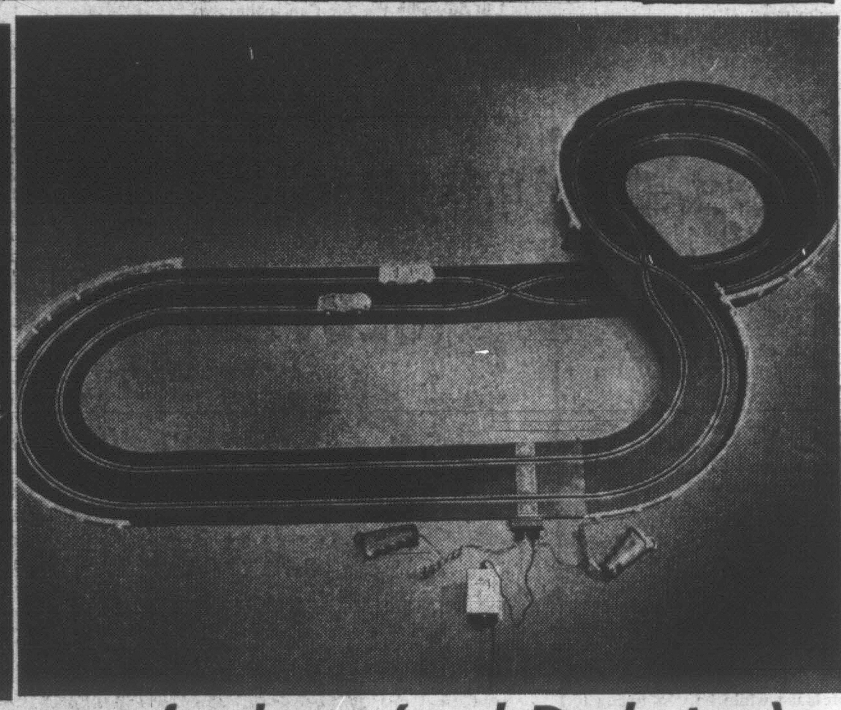

Brian Marshall, a liaison officer with the federal citizenship branch, said there is going to be need of more enforcement of anti-discrimination legislation in the future.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, DEC. 11, 1968 —PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

For the last several minutes, I have been trying to persuade a phoner-in that she should let me affix her name to the brilliant idea she came up with while busy at her ironing.

But she won't change her mind—her family would laugh at her, she insists—and in consequence I can't render credit where due.

Our conversation started with a question. What, she wanted to know, will Kaiser Coal Company's railway cars bear back from the coast to the scene of operations near Crowsnest Pass?

I didn't know, but suggested American topsoil to replace the exact volume of coal extracted by strip-mining.

"Well," said the caller, "something else occurred to me. We're having a terrible time with our garbage disposal, I believe."

True. Speeches are made on the subject, councils debate it, but the problem remains unsolved. Meanwhile, the smoking, odorous, rat-infested dumps grow larger.

"What I would do," our housewife said, "is require Mr. Kaiser to load those empty cars with compressed garbage from our coast cities. He could then dump it into those great holes in our Rocky Mountain scenery. The garbage would not only help fill them, but encourage new growth."

It was at this point that I began pestering for her name. After all, she's the only person in government or out who has so far come up with a constructive suggestion as to how the aftermath of open-pit gouging can be handled.

But she had more ironing to do, and with the gentlest of chuckles, she rang off.

★

I don't really expect her idea to bear fruit. It's too practical, too deadly simple, and it would call for more governmental muscle than the leaders of this exploited province are likely to expend on a mere landscape-restoring measure.

It does, however, point up a fact that becomes more apparent with each ruinous inroad on a natural resource. This is that an increasing number of quiet Canadians are incensed over what they know is happening to the face of their country.

In British Columbia, the Buttle Lake escapade caused many a previously unconcerned citizen to wonder whither, in the matter of parkland protection, we might be drifting.

Reaction to strip-miners' methods as they are being used in the Kootenays has been angry and far-carrying.

We're still a long way from the day when "conservation" and "anti-pollution" will be words indispensable to the politician who hopes to win an election, but at least it's something to observe that spoilage now brings fast protest.

★

Since in B.C. we have suffered government-approved industrial intrusion into a provincial park, it might be as well to cast an eye on the province from which some of the loudest current protests are issuing.

This is Ontario, where lumbermen and conservationists have been slugging it out with an occasional cuff at a government whose works affront both sets of disputants.

The prize is 3,000 square mile Algonquin Park — a lake-studded woodland in which the Ontario government has permitted logging on a restricted basis since the tract was first set aside for park purposes.

The loggers are reaching for vast new helpings of Algonquin's "over-mature" timber. The conservation-minded are urging they be ousted from the park. The Ontario government, torn two ways, has come up with a provisional scheme that defines certain areas as primitive, allows "reasonable harvesting" of timber on others.

What it all boils down to is this: more Ontario parkland is to be sacrificed, in spite of the fact that each wild acre grows more precious in recreational terms with each surge of population.

We here might take a lesson from that fact.

Cholera Suspect Treated in City

Ship Quarantined Off Royal Roads

By W. RALPH THOMAS

A British ship is in quarantine off Royal Roads and one of its crewmen is in St. Joseph's Hospital undergoing tests for cholera.

Department of National Health and Welfare officials say it is unlikely the man has cholera, but they are taking no chances.

Dr. L. E. Davies, area director for the department, arrived from Vancouver to supervise the examination of the British crew of the grain freighter Harmattan.

PLAY SAFELY

He told the Times this morning the odds are nine to one that the stricken seaman does not have cholera, but added "we have to play it safely."

"I don't think it is cholera and I hope by the end of the week all the tests will prove negative," he said.

Hospital officials would not comment.

Concern began on Nov. 25 when the crewman became violently ill. The Harmattan was five days out of Shanghai, en route to Vancouver for a cargo of grain.

The ship's captain diagnosed the illness as cholera and radioed Tokyo for medical advice.

Canadian Department of Transport officials monitored the signals and advised the ship to proceed to Victoria.

It arrived three days ago and a veil of secrecy was thrown around the purpose of its visit.

SHOULDN'T KNOW

When asked by the Times this morning about the nature of the disease aboard the quarantined ship, a medical official said "you people (news media) are not supposed to know about this."

He echoed Dr. Daives' opinion that the seaman does not have cholera, and said the disease is probably salmonella or another type of food poisoning.

Cholera is a contagious gastro-intestinal infection characterized by acute diarrhea and vomiting. In India cholera epidemics take about 200,000 lives annually.

SCHOOL BANDS TO PERFORM

Massed bands from four secondary schools will perform in Centennial Square Wednesday Dec. 18.

The hour-long concert starts at 3 p.m. with bands from Oak Bay senior and junior high, Victoria high and Central junior high participating.

Family Flees House Fire At Sidney

"It was a miracle," said Mrs. Donald Dillon, who escaped with her husband and her four-months-old baby from a fire which gutted their 10415 All Bay Road home in Sidney early this morning.

The fire broke out at 4 a.m. and in mintues the house was enveloped in flames.

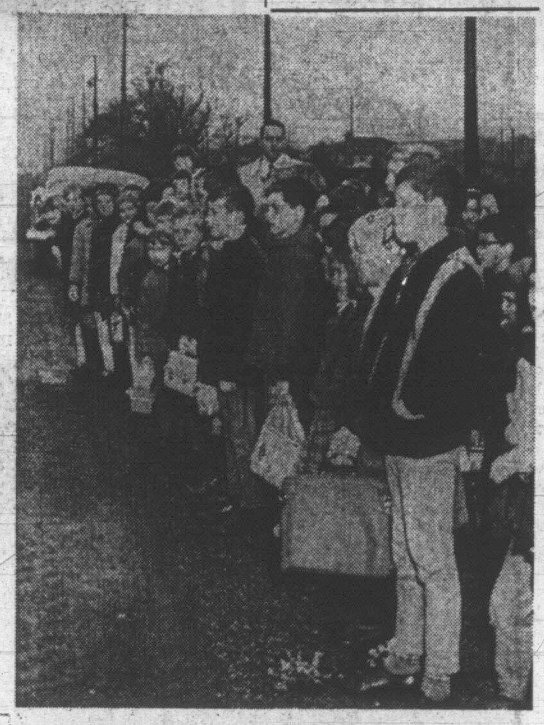

Mrs. Dillon said she and her husband had spent a restless night thinking about plans for moving to another hmoe.

"The baby was restless too, she said. "It was probably the baby who kept us awake. My husband was dozing when I suddenly saw flames flickering in the living room."

She said she had just time to wake up her husband and pick up the baby in an adjoining bedroom.

The couple are staying at the home of Mrs. Dillon's mother, 3904 Cadboro Bay Road.

'Tis the Season for Giving And Youngsters Do Their Bit

The Christmas voices of children blend today with the work of Greater Victoria young people learning about and trying to improve the community in which they live.

The children, under the direction of teacher Margaret Patterson, presented the first of five 8:30 a.m. carol concerts in the council chamber ante-room.

PUBLIC INVITED

The public is invited to the concerts weekdays until Dec. 17.

The bright-eyed trio decked in holly (above) are members of the Grade XII community recreation class at Esquimalt senior secondary.

The 17-year-olds, from left Kathy Tuey, Lois Atkinson and Coleen De Corte, are packaging 1,000 pounds of the brilliant green and red decoration as part of what amounts to an experiment in do-it-yourself education.

The holly is being sold to raise money for class projects in a program which tries, says teacher Wilf Gervais, "to expose them to the full circle of cultural and physical facilities in the area."

He says the youngsters are learning "the community out there is nothing unless you contribute to it."

Armed with school bags, lunch pails and patience the boys beside a congested Patricia Bay Highway (photo at right) are learning that sometimes they must stand and be counted before the community will swing into action.

Students at Glanford Elementary and residents of Chesterlea subdivision in Saanich, they must cross the highway to and from school every day — sometimes it takes 10 minutes to get across.

Through their parents and the Home and School Association, petitions and delegations have been presented to Saanich council and the highways department asking for a pedestrian overpass at their crossing.

Last week, Mayor Hugh Curtis received "an encouraging" letter from Highways Minister Wesley Black and it looks now like the children's crusade will pay off.

Funeral Held For Widow Of Ex-Mayor

Private funeral services were held in Hayward's chapel today for Mrs. Isabella M. (Ella) Hayward, widow of ex-mayor Reginald Hayward of Victoria, who died here this week.

Born at Aberdeen, Scotland, Mrs. Hayward came to Victoria early in the century and resided with her uncle, the late William Henderson, first elected reeve of Oak Bay. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jaffrey of Aberdeen.

In 1908 she married Reginald Hayward who became mayor of Victoria in 1923 and subsequently served 11 years as a Conservative member of the B.C. legislature.

Mr. Hayward died here in 1961 at he age of 81. As mayor of Victoria, he followed in the footsteps of his father, Charles Hayward, and also succeeded him as president of the B.C. Protestant Orphanage.

Reginald Hayward had a life-long association with Hayward's Funeral Co. Ltd. and retained the title of president up to his death. His son, William, is now a partner in the firm.

FINE GARDEN

In earlier years, Mrs. Hayward was an enthusiastic gardener and her home at 2140 Oak Bay Avenue was noted for its fine show of flowers. She was a former member of the Women's Canadian Club and the Burns Club of Victoria.

Surviving are three sons, William in Victoria, Charles in Vancouver and Reginald in North Vancouver; four grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Bishop Denys Rankilor of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Our Lord conducted the funeral service, which was followed by interment in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

12 Courses To Launch 'Learn-In'

Twelve subjects have been chosen to launch Satuday morning classes for young and old in Greater Victoria early in the new year.

The adult education division of the Greater Victoria school board has dubbed the new program "Learn-In" and hopes it will achieve the popularity of the "Summer Happening" classes it started in July.

Subjects forthe Saturday morning clases are Chinese cooking, contemporary rock music, defensive driving, drawing and painting, basic dress-making, elementary French conversation, guitar and folk singing, judo for self-defence, speed reading, tennis for beginners and intermediates, typing refresher and woodwork workshop.

12 WEEKS

Jack Kempster, co-ordinator of adult classes, said Learn-In will get under way Jan. 11 and run 12 consecutive Saturdays to Easter. Classes will be held in schools from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Average fee for a course is $12 for one, $22 for two from the same family or $30 for three or more from the same family.

The program is designed to encourage family participation, he added.

Ask The Times

Q. How many mayors has Victoria had and who was the first one? R.S.

A. Thomas Harris, the first mayor of Victoria, was elected in 1862. He was unanimously declared mayor by a show of hands at an outdoor rally of 600 people. Mr. Harris who always called himself a "humble tradesman" was first of 46 mayors Victoria has had since becoming a municipality 104 years ago.

'Joke of the Year' Award Given Bennett's Happy Family Claims

By JOHN MIKA

Premier Bennett's reiteration Tuesday that a wage increase is coming for civil servants next year and his claim the cabinet and the service are "one happy family" has increased the fury of the militant employees.

"That's the joke of the year," responded B.C. Government Employees' Association general secretary E. P. O'Connor today.

"I can assure you government employees are anything but one big happy family.

"The premier has a facility for public relations claptrap designed to avoid coming to grips with an issue which, in this case, is fair wages for civli servants as of last year."

'GOVERNMENT TOOL'

Mr. O'Connor also lashed at the Civil Service Commission as a government tool, along with outlawing strikes, used to maintain "the cabinet's cheap labor policy by denying us a right to bargain collectively."

Mr. Bennett made his statements at a government luncheon for 14 Vancouver Island civil servants Tuesday who received 25-year service certificates.

It was the sixth time in seven years that Mr. Bennett used the annual occasion to announce wage increases were coming in the ensuing budget.

Last year he skipped the announcement because of the government's "restraint" program but the average 5 per cent wage boost was included in the current budget, totalling about $5 million including enriched increments.

CRASH STUDY

This fall, coinciding with the BCGEA convention which showed a definite switch to militancy in the wake of a government refusal to give civil servants "comparability" with their counterparts in private B.C. industry, Mr. Bennett said a crash study had been ordered which he predicted would result in a wage increase.

"I'm not going to talk about salaries today," Mr. Bennett said at the Tuesday luncheon, "except to say this: B.C. has had its best year in history and there will be salary increases in all categories of the civil service."

He praised the work of the civil servants during his 17 years as premier and said the civil service commission worked hard for the benefit of the employees.

'HAPPY FAMILY'

"I'm glad that on the whole there is a happy family in the civil service and the government," he said.

Later, he told reporters that the current year has been the most prosperous for the entire economy but he would not predict a larger surplus because expenditures have increased as well as revenues.

Mr. Bennett said the gross amount for civil service increases would be revealed in the budget but the commission would divide it among the various classifications.

He refused to discuss the civil servants' demand for bargaining rights and repeated the "happy family" theme.

'DID'T SEE'

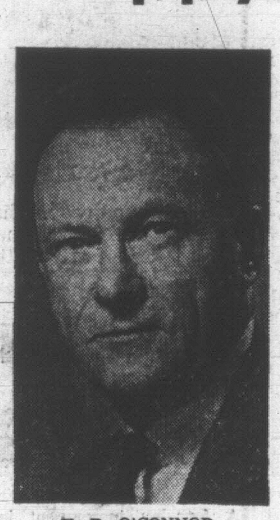

Asked about the large protest marches here and in Vancouver by dissatisfied civil servants, Mr. Bennett said "I didn't see any."

He said B.C. civil servants are first-class citizens because their salaries are guaranteed by all British Columbians and they have a full-time civil service commission working on their behalf with guarantees of no patronage interference making them unique in Canada.

"His announcements leave me absolutely cold because it's been one of the worst years for provincial government employees," said Mr. O'Connor in a telephone interview from Vancouver.

He said the government has indicated already that it intends to press its policy of comparing B.C. government salaries with those of other provincial governments rather than the salary scales prevalent in B.C.

"The premier in effect is saying to us that we must buy our clothes and food and pay rent at B.C. prices while receiving wages comparable to those in Newfoundland and New Brunswick," he said.

E. P. O'CONNOR
... "claptrap"

'SHACKLED'

"We are shackled by the government's no strike legislation which was created only to allow the cabinet to pursue its cheap labor policy and we are not allowed our request to have our case put before the Mediation Commission.

"As for the civil service commission, Mr. Bennett has often said it is an independent organization.

"But in my experience, no one employed by this government is independent of the premier and the civil service commission is employed by the cabinet and will do everything it wants because the commission is only an agent—a management agent.

"The civil service commission owe their salaries and their loyalty to the government and, in our opinion, they have not been impartial in dealing with us.

'DODGING ISSUE'

"When the premier says we have unique benefits in this province, he's just attempting to dodge the issue by pretentious mistatements of fact—he's doing nothing less than trying to mislead the public.

"The federal civil servants in B.C. not only have a full-time independent civil service commission but they also have bargaining rights and they live in this province.

"In addition, almost all the provinces have full-time commissions, not just B.C., and there is some form of collective bargaining in New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan but we have to sit under Mr. Bennett's heel and all we get is crumbs from his table."

GOVERNMENT PRAISED

Dr. Hugh Morrison, commission chairman, roundly praised the present government at the Tuesday luncheon, crediting it with improving the lot of all citizens and civil servants too.

He told the 25-year service guests that since they entered government employ, the province's "few gravel roads" have become one of the world's best highway system, the "quite meagre" social services of 1943 have become "the best social welfare system in Canada," the "rudimentary" health services have evolved into "a greatly expanded system of public health service and a system of mental health service second to none on the continent."

"Education has also advanced by leaps and bounds," he said.

"It is stated that in any society, to advance these days a good system of education is essential and certainly British Columbia does not lack the tools to this effect.

"These are only a sample — I could go further — but I have not the time to expand."

Dr. Morrison said the civil service also has made great progress under the present administration with major improvements in salaries, grading on merit, grievance procedures, salary discussions, in-service training, safety programs, vacation benefits, superannuation, work week and group insurance.

SAME FOR ALL

"There is more I could outline, but I feel this is testimony to the fact that we do have an excellent civil service and I wish here to pay tribute to the government for its policies which made these advancements possible," said Dr. Morrison.

Mr. O'Connor dismissed Dr. Morrison's list of civil service improvements with the comment:

"The same thing can be said for every province in Canada and it cannot be said that B.C. has led the way in personnel relations.

"We're the only province in Canada where employees have no rights whatever.

"The final step in all our procedures leads to the civil service commission and that has been management's agent.

"We still have no bargaining rights and although there is provision for it in the law, I have yet to know — despite our many requests — and for the cabinet to appoint a grievance committee to hear our complaints."

Dr. Morrison wound up his speech with a dire Christmas message.

He said that "the great majority" (his text's "all employees" was crossed out) of B.C. civil servants are imbued with feeling once expressed by U.S. President John F. Kennedy that citizens should not think of what the country can do for them but what they can do for their country.

AVOID CATASTROPHE

"In times such as these, I think the following of his precept is more essential than ever if our society is to avoid catastrophe.

"Merry Christmas to all of you."

The 14 Islanders honored compared with about 30 in a normal year but it was explained that they entered the service during the crisis Second World War year of 1943.

Joining some 800 others who have received 25-year certificates from Mr. Bennett since the annual ceremony was instituted eight years ago were:

James Stewart Allin, highways; Miss Charlotte Gardner Crawford, Walley Ellsay, attorney general; Patrick Mark Kyle, Frederick George Spracklin, liquor control board; Alexander Bennett, education; Frederick Andrew White, finance; Mrs. Madeline Johnson, Charles Robert Turner, health; Ambrose Casagrande, Kenneth Byron Charters, Raymond Chamberlain, Miss Mary Jean Grant, highways.

SNOW, SKIERS AND ISLAND SCENERY

Swishing past lodge on Green Mountain, members of Sno-Birds Club enjoy some of Vancouver Island's finest alpine scenery as they work practice slope. With good snow base building up, Green Mountain will be favorite haunt for many until next June.

Good Ski Runs Within Reach Of Victorians

By STEWART LANG

Crisp, clean air, the feel of powdered snow gliding beneath one's feet and the fellowship around a fireplace after an invigorating day . . . these are some of the things that make skiing a popular sport.

There are two active skiing areas on Vancouver Island — Green Mountain and Forbidden Plateau — plus 15 others on the mainland, all within distance of a weekend trip from Victoria.

All offer a wide variety of terrain and facilities to suit either the novice or seasoned veteran.

Snow has already fallen on Green Mountain. A spokesman for the Sno-Birds Ski Club, which operates the lodge and tows, reported about two feet of powder snow fell on a two-foot base earlier this week.

Sno-Birds have recently acquired a 21-year lease from the holding Esquimalt-Nanaimo Railway Company folowing cancelation of the lease to a cmmercial venture — Green Mountain Recreation Company.

●

Two rope tows, which total 2,000 feet in length, are operating weekends. Plans for a T-bar are going ahead to replace the one taken down when GMRC vacated the premises.

Elevation of the slope runs from 4,200 to 4,800 feet.

Eight new bunks in the dorm brings to 80 the capacity for "overnighters" in the Sno-Bird Lodge.

Overnight rates are $2 for Sno-Birds members and $4 for non-members. A family rate has been set at $2 for each parent and $1 for every child under 12 years of age.

Food lockers and ski lockers are available for a nominal fee.

Tow rates are $1.50 a day for members and $2.50 for non-members.

Access to Green Mountain is through a combination of paved and gravel roads, cutting off Highway No. 1 about six miles south of Nanaimo. The route is clearly marked with signs.

●

Forbidden Plateau, or Mt. Becher Ski Development if you prefer the legal name, is located 13 miles west of Courtenay at the 2,100 to 2,300-foot level.

Two T-bars of 3,775 and 1,400-foot lengths, plus a 600-foot rope tow, provide access to a variety of runs. Plans are underway to increase the length of the tows.

Another plan in the offing is to operate on a seven-day week instead of the Monday, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday schedule being followed this season.

Lifts operate from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. with a day fee of $4 for adults and $2.50 for children (under 16 years old).

Bulldozers have worked on the slope over the summer and have improved it considerably.

Dorm rates in the Forbidden Plateau Lodge, which is operated under separate ownership from the ski area, range from $3 to $8.50, with single rooms available for $10.

Ski school, rentals and repairs are available along with such services as babysitting and a cafeteria.

Buses run regularly from Courtenay to the ski area.

●

An undeveloped ski area is located on Mt. Arrowsmith with access by hiking along a trail cutting off the road to Port Alberni.

The most popular mainland areas within range of a weekend trip from Victoria include:

GROUSE MOUNTAIN—Eight miles from Vancouver;; elevation 2,800 to 3,900 feet; lifts—one tram, three chairlifts, one T-bar, four rope tows; accomdations in Vancouver.

MT. SEYMOUR—Fifteen miles from Vancouver; elevation 3,400 to 4,250 feet; lifts—two chairlifts, four rope tows; accommodations in Vancouver.

DIAMOND HEAD—57 miles north of Vancouver; elevation 4,800 to 5,200 feet; lifts—three rope tows. accommodations for 30 people at chalet and in nearby Squamish.

GARIBALDI (Whistler Mountain)—Canada's bid for the 1976 Winter Olympics; 75 miles north of Vancouver; elevation 2,340 to 6,420 feet—largest vertical drop in North America; lifts—one gondola, two double chairlifts, two T-bars; first class accommodation adjacent to lift facilities.

GIBSON'S PASS—145 miles from Vancouver in Manning Provincial Park; elevation 4,500 feet; lifts—one T-bar, twin rope tow; accommodations at Pine Woods Lodge near the area.

HURRICANE RIDGE—18 miles south of Port Angeles; elevation 5,060 to 5,480 feet; lifts—four rope tows; accommodations in Port Angeles.

MT. BAKER—39 miles east on U.S. Highway 542 from Bellingham; elevation 3,700 to 5,000 feet. lifts—four chair lifts, five rope tows; accommodations at Mt. Baker Lodge.

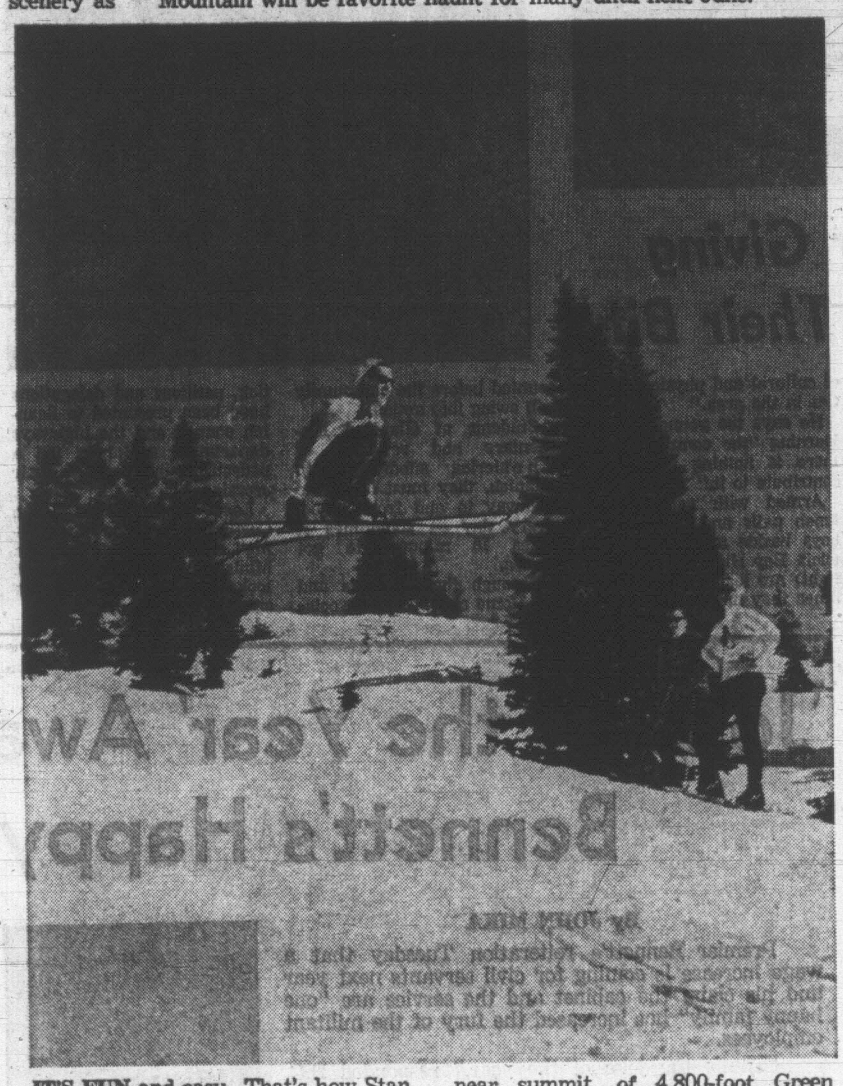

MT. PILCHUK—34 miles northeast of Everett; elevation 3,100 to 4,300 feet; two chairlifts, three rope tows, two "mini" lifts; accommodations at Granite Falls, 19 miles west of area.

SNOQUALMIE PASS — Incorporates four areas, 46 to 48 miles east of Seattle via U.S. Highway 10; SUMMIT—Elevation 3,010 to 3,860 feet; lifts—four chairlifts, four poma lifts, 16 rope tows. ALPENTAL—Elevation 3,200 to 5,500 feet; lifts—three chairlifts, eight rope tows. SKI ACRES—Elevation 3,000 to 4,000 feet; lifts—four chairlifts, 17 rope tows. HYAK—Elevation 2,800 to 4,060 feet; one chair lift, two poma lifts, six rope tows; accommodations at Conifer Lodge, near Ski Acres, or the town of North Bend, 20 miles west on Highway 10.

CRYSTAL MOUNTAIN—64 miles southeast of Tacoma on U.S. Highway 410. elevation 4,400 to 6,830 feet; lifts—four chairlifts, one T-bar, nine rope tows; accommodations at area.

PARADISE—63 miles southeast of Tacoma on U.S. Highway 706; elevation 5,400 to 6,100 feet; lifts—seven rope tows; accommodations at motels near entrance to Mt. Rainier National Park.

IT'S FUN and easy. That's how Stan Volmers of Nanaimo makes it look as he takes off after hitting small rise near summit of 4,800-foot Green Mountain. Forbidden Plateau near Courtenay also is popular with skiers.

Vancouver Approved As LPGA Port of Call

A four-day tournament in Vancouver will be included in the Ladies' Professional Golf Association tour next year, a spokesman for the sponsor said Tuesday.

The event, to be called the Canadian Open, will be staged Sept. 4-7, but the course has not been selected.

The sponsor is Molson's Capilano Breweries Ltd., which will put up $30,000 in prize money, making the tournament the third richest on the LPGA circuit.

Bill Brown, public relations director for Molson's, said "the tournament will be a regular sixture on the LPGA schedule.

"They (the LPGA) prefer to sign new events that will be held every year, rather than one-shot deals."

Brown also said that the September date "is firm" and there is an excellent chance of if being held in Victoria in the near future.

Brown refused to be pinned down to any specific time but would only say that Victoria is a "most logical" site if the tournament is shifted around lower Mainland and Island locations, as contemplated.

Winner of the event will automatically become eligible for the October "World Series of Golf" for women.

Meanwhile, in Cincinnati, Cathy Whitworth Tuesday was named the LPGA's "player-of-the-Year" for a third consecutive year.

Miss Whitworth won four of the last six tournaments and finished third in another to help accumulate 130.5 points to 128.5 for runner-up Carol Mann.

Selection is made on a point basis by awarding points for finishes in the top five in official LPGA co-sponsored and approved eventns.

During the tour year Miss Whitworth participated in 30 official evnts. She won 10 and finished in the top five on 14 other occasions, earning an all-time official money record of $48,379.50, and an all-time total money record of $59,097.

Every member of the Oak Bay bench figured in the scoring with Don Burrows top marksman at 16 points, four more than teammate Dave Weicker.

John Thiessen paced Claremont with nine points.

Mt. Douglas pulled away from a 21-19 halftme edge for the win with Jim Hunter leading the way with eight points. Jim McKay and Wayne Hatch added seven points each to Mt. Doug's total.

Frazier, Liston Hike Title Hopes

Lincoln Kayoed In Second Round

BALTIMORE (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston — high on the comeback trail — hurdled what may have been the last barrier to getting a crack at the crown again by knocking out Amos Lincoln Tuesday night.

The 36-year-old boxer made no bones about it. He's ready and eager to take on Joe Frazier, who successfully defended his five-state heavyweight title against Argentina's Oscar Bonavena in Philadelphia Tuesday night.

Liston said after flattening Lincoln in 2:46 of the second round that he wants to win back the championship and "put boxing back on its right feet."

Liston weighed 215, Lincoln 209.

Liston won the heavyweight crown from Floyd Patterson Sept. 25, 1962 and lost it Feb. 25, 1964, to Cassius Clay by failing to come out for the seventh round.

The powerful fighter has posted 11 straight knockouts since he was knocked out in the first round of a rematch with Clay in 1965.

Lincoln, 32, came on in the first round almost confidently, countering Liston's jabs with his own.

FOUND READY TARGET

The second round was mayhem. Liston plowed left and right jabs to Lincoln's face and body, hardly missing aim once.

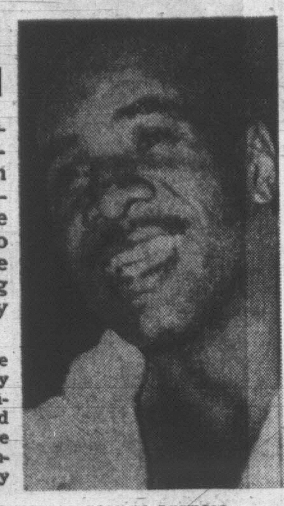

Lincoln was knocked to his knees and took the mandatory eight count. A handler threw in a towel in a futile attempt to stop the slaughter, but referee Benny Goldstein let it continue.

Liston dug in with another flurry of punches and Lincoln was knocked out cold. He landed on his back, shoulders across the bottom rope.

Handlers administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation before Lincoln staggered to his feet.

Liston's manager, Dick Salder, complained that the referee should have stopped the fight immediately after the first knockdown.

A crowd of 6,000 paid about $30,000 to see the scheduled 10-round fight.

Bonavena Drops Unanimous Nod

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Joe Frazier retained his five-state heavyweight title, but failed to knock out or even deck Oscar Bonavena Tuesday night.

There was no doubt that Frazier, 24, tried every punch in the book to try to knock out Bonavena, but he wound up a tired, frustrated winner by unanimous decision of the two judges and referee.

Judge Nate Lopinson scored it for Frazier 74-64 under the Pennsylvania system of five points must for the winner of a round, and four or less for the loser. Judge Dave Beloff carded it 72-64, and referee Joe Sweeney 70-67.

Frazier suffered a cut inside his lower lip, his jaw was swollen and needed an ice pack, and he complained of a sore right hip.

NO PROTEST

The strong-jawed challenger left the ring with both eyes almost shut and blood running from cuts around the eyes. His nose was red and he looked a loser.

Bonavena, 26, did not protest the verdict that deprived him of a chance to lift Frazier's five-state title—New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Maine.

Frazier, of Philadelphia, weighed 203 and Bonavena 207 for their second meeting in two years.

Bonavena had some problem with locating his punches in legal areas. Four times he was warned by Sweeney to lift his blows and he had the eighth round taken away for hitting below the belt.

STILL UNBEATEN

Frazier's record now is 22-0 with 19 knockouts, and Bonavena's 36-5 with 27 knockouts.

Watching the fight was Cassius Clay, considered champion in many parts of the world. Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., the World Boxing Association champion, is recognized in most states.

Frazier's manager, Yank Durham, challenged Ellis to come out and settle the heavyweight title mess.

Durham indicated that if Ellis wasn't willing to fight Frazier, then he would consider Jerry Quarry of California, or Boone Kirkman of Seattle, Wash.

He said he wasn't interested in Sonny Liston, the former champion who continued a comeback Tuesday night with a two-round knockout in Baltimore of Amos Linoln.

The Bonavena-Frazier match apparently was a financial flop. Promoter Lou Lucchese estimated a crowd of 8,000 paid some $200,000 for the 15-rounder. Even receipts from television are not expected to be enough to meet the $100,000 guarantee to Frazier and the $75,000 tax-free for Bonavena.

Starr Denies Retiring Yarn

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Associated Press erred in a Monday story about the rumored retirement of Bart Starr, veteran Green Bay Packers, quarterback.

It quoted Hal Scott, sports commentator for WCCO-TV, Twin Cities, as saying Starr would retire at the end of this season. Scott offered the statement as his own personal opinion.

In Green Bay, Starr told The Associated Press he would have "absolutely no comment" on the report. "I don't know where those things get started," he said. "I really can't say at this time, and that's as honest as I can be."

Teen-Agers Surprise With 1-2 Ski Finish

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP) —A virtually unknown French teen-ager took the lead in the World Cup Alpine ski competition today with a dazzling giant slalom victory in the first big race of the season.

Francoise Macchi, 17, a tall, slim blonde from Chatel, above Lake Geneva, outclassed the field of 79 girl from 12 countries which included all the top European stars.

She clocked an unbeatable 1:35.17 on the 1,500-metre course which dropped 380 metres through 50 gates to score the maximum 25 World Cup points.

Another little-known teenager, Rose Mittermaier, 18, of West Germany, was more than 1.5 seconds behind in 1:36.74, followed by two experienced French stars, Olympic silver medallist Annie Famose, 20, in 1:36.81 and Isabelle Mir, 19, in 1:37.11. Switzerland's Olympic Bronze medal winner Fernande Schmid-Bochatay, 24, was fifth in 1:37.57.

AUSTRIANS STRONG

The young Austrian squad, headed by 20-year-old "veteran" Gertraud Gabl, inkeeper's daughter from St. Anton, placed four in the first 15 and showed the tremendous depth in the team. Downhill Olympic champion Olga Pall is sick and did not compete.

Wiltrud Drexel, 18, of Warth in the Arlberg, had the best result in eighth position.

The new women's race counting for the World Cup is the big meeting at Oberstauffen, West Germany, Jan. 3-4.

Two-time World Cup champion Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., is not defending her title, having left the amateur ranks.

Ashe Flashes Power But Smith Extended

BRISBANE (AP) — Stan Smith of Los Angeles, a U.S. Davis Cup tennis team member, survived match point before winning his way into the Queensland grass court men's singles quarter-finals today.

Smith defeated Australian Alan Stone—a junior member of Australia's Davis Cup squad—5-7, 6-4, 9-7 in the third round.

Stone looked to have the match sewed up when he led 5-3 in the third set with the score one set all, and he held match point at this stage. But the American broke back and went on to win.

Smith is a contender for a challenge round single's berth following the defeat Tuesday of Clark Grabner.

Arthur Ashe, the top U.S. singles hope, left no doubt that he is the outstanding player of the tournament with an effortless 6-3, 6-3 victory over Australian Terry Addison.

In another third-round match, Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, also a member of the Davis Cup squad, overcame Dick Clearly of Australia 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

HOLDUP PRICES . . . . . . HINDER TRAINING

Government Rapped

TORONTO (CP) — Some Toronto track and field coaches Tuesday night blamed the federal government for the lack of indoor training facilities here.

"It's a bloody disgrace," said John Hudson, coach of Scarborough Lions track and field club.

"The government is supposedly interested in investing in track and field, yet government armories are holding us up with a demand for $280 for just one night of training," said Hudson, who will be Canada's national track and field coach for 1969.

The $280 was the price last year when Paul Poce, Toronto Olympic Club coach, asked to use facilities at Fort York Armories.

"I didn't ask this year, but I put our feelers and the situation hasn't changed," said Poce.

A few years ago, Fort York Armories provided free training quarters two nights a week. The next year, there was a $6 nightly fee.

Carl Michailoff, coach of the Balmy Beach Track Club, said most clubs merely exist in the winter. He said they work on weights, training in basements of athletes' homes.

Chris Picard, coach of Toronto Striders, predicted that the government eventually may build field houses in 10 major centres across Canada.

PAPPAS BIDS FOR JOB AS BASEBALL LEADER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pitcher Milt Pappas says he is available for the job of baseball commissioner.

"They want nominees and I'm a nomineee," said Pappas, a former mound star for Baltimore Orioles now with Atlanta Braves.

Pappas says the fact he's only 29 and still active are now drawbacks but points out other factors in his favor as a replacement for William Eckert who resigned last week.

"Tell me," he said in an interview, "who knows the needs of baseball better today than one who has been active in the game, has been around, has been involved in baseball's negotiations for years — committee meetings for the betterment of baseball and its players, pension negotiations, etc. — knows the needs of the players and knows what the owners and the fans want?

"I know everything that has transpired between the players and owners over the past 10 or 12 years, as player representative of the Orioles and Cincinnati Reds. I know what everyone wants."

No-Pay Clause Riles Players

NEW YORK (AP)—A rule which could deprive a player of his salary because of illness or non-baseball injury has widened the gulf between major league players and club owners.

The players, threatening to strike next spring unless their pension demands are met, announced Tuesday they plan to take legal action against a "vicious anti-player rule" passed by the owners during last week's winter meetings.

The rule, passed Friday by joint action of the American and National leagues but overshadowed by the resignation of commissioner William Eckert, creates a temporary inactive list.

It provides for a player to be placed on the list, for at least 21 days and not necessarily with pay, if he is "unable to render service during the championship season due to bona fide illness or any injury not related to baseball." A team can return a player to the list any number of times.

The rule has been called the Lonborg Law. It stems from a skiing injury that kept Boston Red Sox pitcher Jim Lonborg out of action for most of the 1968 season.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players' Association, said the players group had informed the owners it was opposed to the new rule prior to its passage.

TAKE LEGAL STEPS

The players group, Miller said, told the owners "that since the rule was inconsistent with the basic agreement between the clubs and the players association, we would, if it were passed, take legal steps to enjoin its performance."

"In response," Miller said, "the owners' representatives informed our committee that the proposed rule was a suggestion of only one club, that it did not represent the sentiment of most of the clubs and, therefore, there was no reason for us to become excited.

"Last Friday, through newspaper accounts, we learned that this vicious anti-player rule had been passed. Unless it is withdrawn, we will, as promised, seek in federal court to enjoin its enforcement against the players."

The players contend that judgments under the rule could be capriciously and arbitrarily applied. The rule specifies that a player placed on the temporary inactive list "shall not be entitled to salary until reinstated."

Phoenix Blanks Canucks

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Phoenix Roadrunners stopped Vancouver Canucks 1-0 Tuesday night before 2,594 fans to climb into a fourth place tie in the Western Hockey League with idle Seattle.

The lone goal by Morris Stefaniw came early in the third period of a close-checking contest. Roger Cote carried out of his own zone and passed to Dick Lamoureux, who fed Stefaniw for the score.

Goalie Rick Charron made 32 saves to earn his second shutout of the year.

A match misconduct penalty was handed Vancouver's Bob Lemieux for protesting a disputed second period goal. The Canucks claimed Germain Gagnon's shot went through the net. Officials ruled it was off the target.

Gagnon drew a misconduct penalty during the rhubarb.

Nationals' Future Depends on Grant

OTTAWA (CP)—A meeting today between Health Minister Munro and Earl Dawson, acting president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, likely will decide the future, if any, of Canada's national team.

Mr. Dawson has said he will press the health minister for an explanation of why the federal government grant to the association for 1969 has been held up.

The team likely will have to be disbanded unless the federal government gives an immediate guarantee of financial support, Mr. Dawson said Tuesday in an interview.

"I want to find out from Mr. Munro what the sticking point is," he said.

Mr. Dawson said he has already written to the minister explaining that the association will have to give up the national team unless federal support is continued. The CAHA has been trying without success for two years, he said, to have a non-profit organization take over the team's operation.

Federal aid to the CAHA for the national team was about $100,000 in 1968.

WINLESS IN MOSCOW

The Canadian team, made up of players from squads in Ottawa and Winnipeg, was winless in an individual tournament in Moscow last week.

The Canadians were beaten once by the Soviet national team, twice by the Soviet second team, and they tied with Finland.

If the team continues to operate, Mr. Dawson said, the Russians may give some coaching assistance.

Anatoly Tarasov, coach of the Soviet national team, recently offered to spend one month training and conditioning the Canadian team.

This is "an intriguing offer," Mr. Dawson said.

"The CAHA is certainly going to discuss it," if it continues to operate the national team.

NO SUCCESS

The Canadian national team was established in 1963-64 but so far has failed to regain the world amateur and Olympic hockey crowns for Canada.

Canada last won the world title in 1961.

The federal government has been assisting amateur sport for several years through its advisory council on physical fitness and amateur sport.

The government now has named a special committee of people outside the government to investigate the general conditioning of amateur sports and look into ways of improving Canada's performances in international competition.

Committee members attended the meeting between Mr. Munro and Mr. Dawson. They are the chairman, Harold Rea of Toronto, Olympic ski champion Nancy Greene and Dr. Paul Desruisseaux of Quebec City.

Big Guns Confront O'Keefes

When Vancouver Columbus is in town add Alan Bristow to Bobby Smith and it spells trouble — but only for other teams in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

For the Victoria O'Keefes it could be make-it-or-break-it trouble when they meet Columbus at MacDonald Park Saturday, suggests former coach Frank Grealy.

Smith is a former PCSL scoring champ with good speed and a dangerous shot. Bristow is a strong inside-forward who has played with the Canadian team.

TACTICS SET

But Grealy thinks the O'Keefes have a pair of troubleshooters who can handle the Columbus scoring threat.

"I expect Columbus will have a 4-2-4 set-up with Smith at left wing and Bristow at inside left. O'Keefes plan to play Howie Anderson on Smith and George Paul on Bristow," he said.

"They'll have their work cut out for them, but they should be able to contain Columbus."

He said Anderson is fast enough to play on the forward line himself, which gives him the advantage in forcing Smith outside, where he can't shoot.

"And he's an aggressive, rugged player," Grealy said. "He might have some trouble with Smith's ball control, but the Columbus forward doesn't like rugged tackling at all, and that should throw him off."

LOOKS AHEAD

Paul, Grealy says, is the "ideal player to check Bristow. He's smart in his play, always thinking two or three moves ahead — and that's what's needed to keep Bristow off balance."

With the expected Columbus defensive set-up O'Keefes forwards could have trouble.

"They're going to be very hard to beat down the middle, and I expect we'll have to move the ball up the sides and lob it in," Grealy warned.

If Victoria can centre the ball, they should threaten Columbus. Peter Brett, Ike McKay and Dick Joyce have extracted 17 of the club's 27 goals this season, and with a scoring slump behind them they're looking for more.

Game time is 2 p.m.

BUFFALO CLUB EYES SEATTLE

SEATTLE (AP) — Ralph C. Wilson, Jr., owner of the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, has been in Seattle his week with two other club executives and inspected stadium sites.

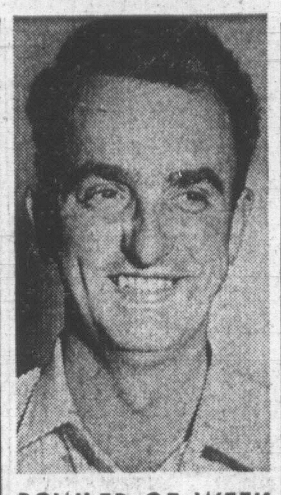

A New York newspaper had predicted the Bills, who have the poorest record in professional football, will switch their franchise to Seattle.

ELK SEASON CUT SHORT

While elk season was terminated early on Vancouver Island because of heavy hunting pressure, exactly the opposite is true for moose in management areas 20, 21 and 23 in the Prince George vicinity.

Open season for antlered and antlerless moose has been extended from Dec. 15 to 31 in order to ensure a better balance of population with relation to food supplies over the winter.

A Fish and Game Branch spokesman said Tuesday that several factors have combined to decreased the harvest of moose. One of the major factors has been mild, wet weather.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Commuting from Duncan, Bob Willis lashed out with strong 636 series for men's tenpin award in Times-sponsored Bowler-of-the-Week competition. Bob collected chance at rolloffs in May with games of 204, 210 and 222 at Mayfair Lanes while bowling in Victoria Senior League.

Canadian Cracks Harness Record

MONTREAL (CP) — Herve Filion, the young but veteran harness racing driver from Angers, Que., has broken a record that he believes will stand for years and has set his sights on bigger things before 1968 is over.

Filion, 28, shattered the world record for most harness racing victories in one season as he posted three victories at Blue Bonnets Raceway Tuesday night, boosting his total wins to 387 for the year.

The record-breaking performance came four years after Eddie Freundt of Dusseldorf, West Germany, posted 382 wins.

"It's going to take a lot to break the record because I know what I've been through to get it," he said. "Now my goal is 400."

He raced at 16 different race tracks in Canada and the United States, racing 1,556 times in 343 days.

"Whoever breaks that record is going to have to double-dash somewhere," he said.

Filion, one of seven brothers who are harness racing drivers, began racing in Montreal area in 1955.

He registered his record-breaking 385th victory in the fourth race with Newport Gem, a six-year-old gelding. He increased his total by winning with Intrepide Dundee in the fifth and posted No. 387 by guiding Adrian Mir to a win in the seventh.

Filion has earned more than $900,000 in purse money this season. He reveives a percentage of the winning and also has a personal stable of 44 horses which have brought home $300,000 in purses this year.

Volleyball Elite Suffer Defeats

Front-runners in the Victoria Senior Volleyball League battled to a stand-off in the points race this week at CFB Esquimalt, and the rank-and-file competition was quick to take advantage.

First-place Esquimalt absorbed a pair of losses from third-place Independents before defeating second-place Claremont twice. Fourth place YMCA cut down Queen's Own Rifles. Claremont later stopped Rifles twice.

Tires and Safety Sports Car Topic

Are the tires on your car what they are supposed to be?

This and many other questions about tires will be answered at the Victoria Motor Sports Club seminar on tire care, safety and construction at 8 p.m. tonight at 2915 Douglas Street.

Labs Improve Grip on First

Labatts cut loose in the second half to overcome a 26-25 deficit and defeat Farmer Construction 61-50 in Victoria Senior Men's Basketball League action Tuesday at Mt. Douglas High School.

Colony Inn clipped the short-handed, second-place Red Lions Inn team 80-66 in the night's other game.

Ken Gregory and John Devlin each sank eight of their 12 and 10 points respectively, in the second half to lead the Labs' victory. Bruce Clark added 11 points for the league leaders.

Pete Simmonds led Farmers with 13 points.

Jim Cunningham rambled for 24 points to pace Colony to a victory that moved them into a third-place tie with Farmers.

Lions, with only five players, were paced by 21 points from Jack Lusk and 20 by Bill Spotswood.

City Engineer Has Final Say

City engineer James Garnett will have the final say on the construction of a twin highrise tower as a companion to the existing building in Rockland Heights.

The present building, approved by city council as the first stage of a twin development in 1960, has long been the object of criticism as it overshadows the city's old water tower.

Its twin was approved earlier this year by the Victoria Advisory Planning Commission which based its decision on the belief that the original agreement with the developers committed the city to a two-tower project.

But a legal ruling by L. F. Lindholm indicated Tuesday that the city, while bound to permit some form of construction on the site adjoining the existing tower, still controls the design and height of the proposed high-rise.

CHANGE PICTURE

Interpreting the ruling for council's community development committee Tuesday morning, Ald. Ian Stewart said the legal ruing completely changed the picture.

"What Mr. Lindholm tells us in his lengthy and detailed report is that there is nothing in previous agreements to suggest that the developer of the site is entitled to build an identical building," Ald. Stewart said.

"There is no doubt that he does not have that right."

But while that much was clear the future development of the site remains murky.

Ald. Stewart explained that the area was zoned for a high-rise apartment. He added, however, that the developer had signed a covenant with the city agreeing that the city engineer would have to endorse any proposed development before construction could commence.

"They can put a building up, but only if it meets with the city engineer's approval," he said.

Mayor Hugh Stephen noted that while there was no stated right in earlier documents, there was an implied right that building could take place under apartment zoning. "But the final decision rests solely with the city engineer," he added.

Ald. Stewart suggested the advisory planning commission and the developer be advised of the legal ruling and then proposed the striking of a study committee for Mr. Garnett to call on for advice.

WITHOUT ANY JOY

City planner Geoff Greenhalgh was asked if he had any ideas of what type of proposal might meet with council and public approval.

"I have," he answered. "But it's an inheritance I accept without any joy."

Mr. Greenhalgh suggested that the next move be left to the developer "who might wish to make a submission he feels within the framework of the (zoning) bylaw and the covenant."

Mr. Garnett said he would welcome advice from the city planning department, the advisory planning commission or anyone else.

"I have the feeling we should all be in this together," he said.

Although it may be weeks before a final decision is made, indications from Tuesday morning's committee members was that while they are bound to permit some form of development a second high-rise apartment will require some exceptional features before it gets a green light from council.

And whatever the engineer and council decide, the new proposal will still need to survive a public hearing before the existing tower gets its twin.

320 Viet Cong Suspects Held

SAIGON (Reuters) — Saigon police have arrested 320 Viet Cong suspects, including four district political commissars, in the last three weeks, police sources said today.

Police sources said the guerrillas were trying to win support for the North Vietnamese and the National Liberation Front—political arm of the Viet Cong—at the Paris peace talks, and create incidents.

More than 20 Chinese-made weapons, 300 pounds of plastic explosive and hand grenades were also seized.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands reported ground clashes up and down the country in which they said 156 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were killed Tuesday.

During the night guerrilla forces also attacked at least six government military bases and towns with mortars, cannon or assault troops. Seven South Vietnamese were reported killed in the latter attacks and 45 were wounded.

The U.S. command reported another American artillery attack on the demilitarized zone Tuesday after North Vietnamese troops there fired on a small U.S. reconnaissance plane. The plane was not hit.

AIR CANADA HIJACKER GETS 6 YEARS

MONTREAL (AP) — Charles Lavern Beasley, 23, a Texan who became Canada's first plane hijacker, was sentenced Tursday to six years imprisonment for the crime.

Beasley, a resident of Dallas, had pleaded guilty to charges of kidnapping, assault and public mischief in his attempt Sept. 11 to force an Air Canada Viscount aircraft on a flight from Saint John, N.B., to Toronto to divert to Cuba.

The plane landed at Montreal with Beasley holding a gun to the pilot's head.

Supersonic Plane To Get Noise Plug

LONDON (Reuters) — Modifications to the engines of the Anglo-French supersonic Concorde jetliner should reduce its takeoff noise by half and increase its payload by one-fifth, it was reported today.

Scientists at the Bristol Engines Division of Rolls-Royce were said to have developed a new nozzle which, when inserted in the back of Concorde's four huge jets, will break up shock waves from the rear and direct the noise back instead of down and forward.

FOR BIRTH CONTROL

In the 16th century, coffee was thought to make women barren.

Bristol scientists believe their plug nozzle will reduce engine noise by between six and nine decibels while improved aerodynamics will reduce aircraft drag.

NOT READY IN TIME

French scientists who are collaborating with Rolls-Royce on the research on Concorde's Olympus 93 engines, also were reported to have developed a silencing device.

But reports here suggest that neither of the new silencers will be ready in time for the first production models and Concorde seems likely to go into service without them in 1972-73.

Canada's Money Man Honored by Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — More than 200 government officials and cabinet ministers turned out at Rideau Hall Tuesday to applaud Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada and recipient of the 1968 outstanding achievement award of the public service of Canada.

"The people of Canada are more secure and more prosperous today because of Mr. Rasminsky's activities in those fateful days last March," said External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, who was finance minister when Rasminsky played a prominent role helping Canada weather a financial crisis last spring.

Mr. Sharp represented Prime Minister Trudeau at the presentation by Governor General Roland Michener of the illuminated citation to Rasminsky. The award, inaugurated in 1966, also includes $5,000.

Rasminsky, 60, reappointed this year for a second seven-year term as bank governor, was a leading negotiator in obtaining Canadian exemption from U.S. restrictions on flows of capital funds and simultaneously organized international support for the Canadian dollar.

Tricky Bandit Pulls Japan's Top Theft

TOKYO (UPI) — A young man disguised as a traffic policeman Tuesday tricked four bank employees out of $833,000 in Christmas bonus money and used their automobile to get away with what police called the biggest highway robbery in Japanese history.

Not a shot was fired nor a threat made in the robbery on a narrow road behind Tokyo's Fuchu prison.

The bandit, wearing the white helmet and black leather jacket of a traffic officer, rode a stolen white motorbike up to bank car carrying the bonus money for employees of the Toshiba Electric Co. He told the bank men he had information dynamite was planted in the car.

When the four got out, the bandit got in and drove away with the car and three metal boxes full of banknotes with unrecorded serial numbers.

THE LEGEND OF LYLAH CLARE
Victoria Premiere
Haida Theatre

Surrounded by sycophants and a battery of telephones, Ernest Borgnine is a big-time studio executive who rules like a Caesar, screams like a madman, cajoles, bullies and threatens and uses every device—honest or crooked—to squeeze money out of his enterprises.

For this is a film about Hollywood and it introduces most of the standard types every Hollywood studio is supposed to have—the loud, loutish mogul; the sick and worried producer; the ruthless egocentric director; the handsome male star who is rapidly descending the social scale via the bottle, and the little Miss Nobody who suddenly becomes a Somebody.

Peter Finch is excellent as Lewis Zarkan, a talented director who retires to his private screening room to brood over the death of Lylah Clare on their wedding night 20 years before.

★ ★ ★

Into his empty life comes Kim Novak, a little Miss Nobody who is the living image of Lylah Clare, and director Finch grooms her, ruthlessly and relentlessly, to play in a film about the dead Miss Clare.

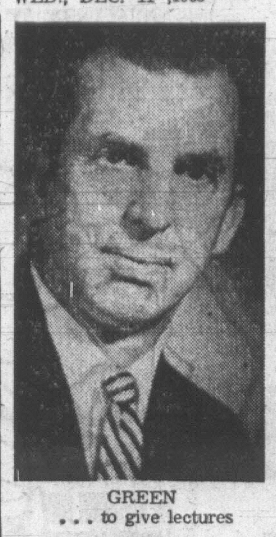

Soon his discovery is behaving like Lylah Clare and he is behaving as if she were Lylah Clare. And this gives real-life director Robert Aldrich a chance to work in some of the sex that is considered essential to every movie about Hollywood.

Poor Kim Novak! Her wan little smile suggests a vast uncertainty as to the role she is playing. Is it meant to be a straight dramatic part or a satire, or a blend of both?

Rosella Falk is particularly effective as Lylah Clare's former dialogue coach, a lesbian who becomes a drug addict and broods over the proceedings in much the same fashion as the housekeeper in Rebecca.

Films to Show Switzerland And Germany

The bustling vitality of Germany and the quiet prosperity of Switzerland will be portrayed in two film lectures this weekend.

Film lecturer Ray Green, former member of the White House staff and for many years on the faculty of the University of Minnesota, will present the programs as part of the World Around Us series offered by the adult education division of the Greater Victoria school board.

"Germany . . . Old and New" will be the subject Friday night in a color film exploring that country from the crowded harbors of the North Sea to the slopes of the Bavarian Alps.

Saturday night, Mr. Green presents "Amazing Switzerland." No country, he says, with so little usable space has achieved so much.

Both programs are at Oak Bay junior secondary auditorium and start at 8 p.m. Tickets are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students.

Producers Fight Come-On Titles Promoting Sex

ROME (AP) — Criticism of an avalanche of movies based on sex has provoked Italian producers into a campaign against misleading advertising.

Come-on titles such as Sex Without Veils are used to promote some of the films playing in neighborhood houses.

It all started when the West German blockbuster Helga took in $4,800,000 at the box office, breaking records. Thousands flocked to see a childbirth on the screen plus a description of premarital and marital relations.

Italian movie directors got the hint.

Marcello Avalione began filming Sex, This Unknown.

"I will answer the question of why a girl can be raped in a country where there is free-love," Avallone explained.

Then Franco Montemurro, another director, started A Hot Body for Hell.

Sexy Baby, Sadistically Yours and The Orgasm followed in a more daring vein.

The Producers' Association reports that more than 40 titles it has registered revolve around the subject.

At least half the films recount the first discovery of love, childbirth or marital problems. Directors claim they are dealing with the subjects with a clean, clinical approach.

Others don't agree. They surmise that the sexual binge is an extension of the dying Italian Western movie industry, which thrived on violence.

Il Tempo magazine comments:

"The Western towns on the sets were changed into clinics and matrimonial suites, and the sheriff was replaced by a sexologist or a gynecologist in a white coat."

The Vatican publication L'Osservatore Romano has lashed out at "porno-publicity," saying it is "a simple expedient to make a fast profit."

The Federation of Italian Entertainment, which includes many of the producers, has replied to the criticism by announcing a plan to police its ranks in film advertising.

Its president, Italo Gemini, commented:

"Often the publicity message does not correspondent to the content of the film. This amounts to mystification."

For Pete's Sake In Rehearsal

Now in rehearsal by St. Luke's Players is a three-act comedy entitled For Pete's Sake which is to be produced Jan. 23, 24, and 25.

Recently the group held a workshop under the direction of Judith Koltai of the University of Victoria. Sessions were devoted to movement, pace and improvisation.

WHAT EUROPEAN viewers saw and North Americans didn't of Brigitte Bardot, the French actress known for her bare appearance in films. She was making her first appearance on U.S. television last week but, being victims of the censor's scissors, missed la femme Bardot in this pose.

Winnipeg Ballet In Prague

PRAGUE (Reuters) — The Royal Winnipeg Ballet has arrived in Prague to start an 11-day tour with performances scheduled at four of Czechoslovakia's main cities.

The Prague newspaper Lidova Demokracie today hailed the ensemble as the "leading representatives of the ballet in North America."

The group opens in the east Slovak city of Kosice Dec. 17. Other performances are scheduled for Dec. 18 in Bratislava, Dec. 19 in Brno and Dec. 21 in Prague.

The ballet arrived in Prague Tuesday and was given a reception at the Canadian embassy.

East Europeans Hope Nixon Will Stop LBJ-Kosygin Summit

MOSCOW (WP)—Independent East European observers are privately hoping that President-elect Richard Nixon will quietly scotch the Johnson administration's current bid for a summit meeting with Soviet leaders.

Yugoslav, Romanian and Czechoslovak observers have been incredulous at the flow of inspired Washington reports promoting a Johnson meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin. They think such a meeting now would be, in former ambassador George Kennan's words, "sheer madness" and would greatly restrict their own countries' freedom of manoeuvre in the face of current and expected future Kremlin pressures.

While favoring east-west talks to limit the missile race, the East Europeans believe such talks can readily be arranged through normal diplomatic channels — or, most appropriately, through the two Geneva disarmament negotiators, William Foster of the United States and Alexei Roshchin of the Soviet Union. Foster, a Republican, served the Eisenhower as well as Kennedy and Johnson administrations and thus would provide a low-keyed symbol of continuity during the transition between administrations.

East Europeans are completely at a loss to understand the personal motives which impel President Johnson to seek a summit meeting after the election and the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. However, they cite numerous reasons to explain Soviet readiness to meet a "lame duck" president. They see Soviet aims as follows :

● To obtain symbolic, formal U.S. acceptance of the occupation of Czechoslovakia. Such acceptance would enable the Kremlin to move forward with greater assurance in "normalizing" that country. It would furnish another proof to nervous Europeans, east and west, that the U.S. is fundamentally indefferent to small European countries and solicitious only of its relations with the Kremlin.

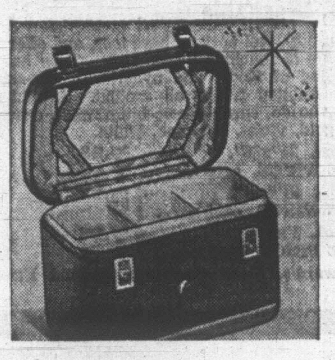

● To prepare the ground for future pressures on Romania, and obtain if possible tacit assurances that the west would stand aloof should that independent, nationalist-minded country be "normalized" next year. Thus far, Nicolae Ceaucescu's Bucharest regime has been able to stall Soviet demands for Warsaw Pact manoeuvres on Romanian soil. Ceaucescu's delaying tactics have been aided by ambiguity about the possible western response to a crisis in Romania — an ambiguity which a summit meeting might help remove.

● To head off the possible beginnings of a dialogue between the U.S. and Communist China. The Peking proposal for an agreement with Washington on the principles of co-existence —to be discussed at an ambassadors' meeting in Warsaw one month after Mr. Nixon's inauguration — is taken a great deal more seriously here than it has been in the U.S. state department. East Europeans, reminding U.S. visitors that Dean Rusk once called Mao Tse-Tung's China "a slavic Manchukuo" or puppet state, believe that Mao may be ready, now that the Chinese cultural revolution is over, to explore seriously the possibilities of a modus vivendi with the west. A Johnson-Kosygin meeting might confirm Chinese suspicions of a Soviet-American "plot" and head off such a dialouge before the Nixon administration is even ready to consider it.

Woodward's

One-Stop Shopping

No need to run around looking for the biggest choice or the finest quality or even the best buys . . . they're all here at Woodward's. Wonderful ideas for Festive Feasts and entertaining await you in every section of Woodward's Food Floors where we're all decked-out in our Christmas Greenery.

Check this choice of Turkeys that you'll find only at Woodward's Food Floors—

Woodcrest and Butterball Alberta Grainfed

These are the very best turkeys you can possibly buy. Woodcrest turkeys are grown especially for us with extra large helpings of white meat. Swift's Butterballs are nationally famous for their uniform goodness. Woodward's have both of these premium birds in a wide selection of sizes. Both are beautifully oven-ready with heavy leg tendons removed and legs tucked in. They cost a few pennies more a pound but are worth it in every tender, juicy bite.

Grade A Hens 12 to 20 Pounds ---------- per lb. 59c

Grade A Toms 20 Pounds and up -------- per lb. 53c

B.C. Grown Young Turkeys

Vacuum-packed, young turkeys—fresh-frozen at the peak of goodness. A size to suit every family is at Woodward's now.

Fresh B.C. Turkeys

For those who prefer the distinctive flavour that only fresh turkeys have, Woodward's have a wide selection of sizes in tender, young, oven-ready birds, available 20, 21, 23, 24.

Our Smoked Meat Choice is Biggest Too!

You'll find every kind of smoked meat at Woodward's. Completely waste-free Hostess hams, boneless, rolled hams, holiday hams, cottage rolls, mini-hams—a size, style and price to suit every family.

Cooked Turkeys

Woodward's chefs will cook the turkey of your choice to a golden brown, ready-to-serve, complete with gravy and stuffing — order early.

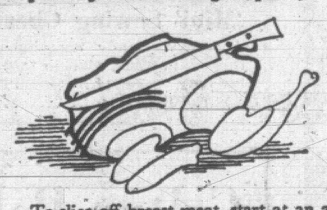

CARVING POULTRY

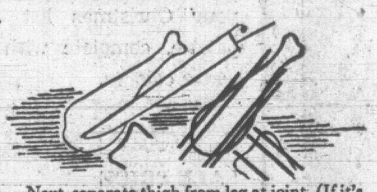

Place platter so neck of bird is to carver's left. Stick tines of fork astride breastbone. With sharp knife, separate leg and thigh from nearest side by cutting at thigh joint, pressing leg away from body.

With carving fork still in place, next separate nearest wing in same manner as leg, cutting around wing joint, to locate exact dividing point of joint. Sever wing completely.

To slice off breast meat, start at an angle, near tip of breast-bone; cut thin slices of white meat, always working toward joint where wing was removed.

Next, separate thigh from leg at joint. (If it's turkey, then cut off thin slices from these two pieces.) If more servings are needed, turn platter, repeat process on other side.

Inspection Work 'Falling Behind'

Saanich is falling behind in some municipal services because there aren't enough people to handle the work, public works committee was told Tuesday.

Development engineer Joseph Barber-Starkey said at least three more men are needed — one for big buildings, one for alterations and additions and one for plumbing.

He said there are 1,200 minor jobs in Saanich which received no inspections after the building permit was issued. These included such items as carports and rumpus rooms.

There were 32 major buildings worth $12,000,000 in hand and only one man at municipal hall to check plans in the office and go out for inspections.

House construction — permits for 442 houses and duplexes worth $8,774,800 were issued to the end of November — has two men, one mainly in the office to check plans and the other in the field for inspections.

The volume of work — Saanich construction this year is up nearly 50 per cent on last year in dollar value — and the lack of inspection staff is resulting in letters not being answered promptly, building and plumbing inspections lagging and a backlog of office work, he said.

Other areas falling behind included zoning bylaw inspections, sign bylaw administration and garbage collection complaints.

Committee chairman Ald. William Campbell said the situation is serious "and we are certainly going to have to do something about it." The entire matter was referred to council level.

Hiring three men could cost an extra $27,000 a year, said Mr. Barber-Starkey.

Art Forgers Cashing In On Carr Fame

Victoria art gallery officials believe they're on the trail of two lower-Island art forgers.

Gallery Director Colin Graham said today he is gathering facts to pinpoint a Duncan-area person and a Victorian who are cashing in on the fame of the late Emily Carr.

Miss Carr's paintings are hot properties now. Two authentic Carrs were sold by Lunds Auctioneers Ltd. Tuesday, one for $8,000 and one for $6,700.

With that kind of money to be made, enter the forgers. "This usually happens when someone gets as famous as Emily Carr," said Mr. Graham.

The local forgers have apparently been at work some seven or eight years.

CRUDE WATERCOLORS

They are capitalizing on the fact that Miss Carr, when she was a teen-ager, possibly did some "amateurish" work.

The forgers are producing crude watercolors similar to Miss Carr's early works and, in some instances, are taking similar watercolors by other artists and adding the Carr signature.

And there's a clue, said the director. The signature being forged is a style Miss Carr did not use until she was at least 30 years old.

By then her work was polished and more mature than the forgeries being offered.

Then, too, some of the rude offerings might be authentic, Mr. Graham said.

The gallery now is making sure it has authentic facts about authentic forgeries before launching action to prosecute and stopping the business.

He recalled some high-quality Group of Seven and Carr forgeries on the eastern Canadian market some five years ago.

The phoney Carrs were technically excellent but showed "a certain naivete about the structure of totem poles."

RCMP, assisted by Natoinal Gallery scientists, tracked down the forgers who now are in jail, Mr. Graham said.

Wall of Bricks Fell on Man; Death Accidental

A coroner's inquiry has concluded a retired Victoria businessman died an accidental death from a wall of bricks falling on him.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre made his finding following an autopsy and police report on the death of Phil Mattison, 75, of 2717 Belmont.

Mr. Mattison was found last Friday by his son William surrounded by a pile of bricks at the partially demolished Summer Auction Hall, 731 Cormorant. He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mr. St. Jorre said the autopsy showed Mr. Mattison suffered multiple injuries consisting of skull, rib and pelvis fractures as well as internal injuries.

He said he had been in excellent physical shape before his death.

Ladysmith To Renew Sidewalks

LADYSMITH — About 450 feet of sidewalk on the west side of First Avenue between Roberts and High Street will be renewed, Ald. Jim Moore told Ladysmith town council.

Work will not begin until after Christmas. Bids from two contractors have been received and the town foreman will submit an estimate of cost of having town crews do the job, Ald. Moore said.

A section of sidewalk on White Street between First and Second Avenue also will be renewed.

Ald. Moore said a set of hockey nets have been constructed for use at the tennis courts where boys have been playing floor hockey using improvised goals.

Film Rolls for TV Developed by CBS

NEW YORK (AP) — Development of a film roll which can produce sound and picture when attached to a television set has been announced by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The first models, it was reported Tuesday, will be priced below $800 and will be aimed at the existing 300,000 black and white TV sets in schools, hospitals and industries.

Called the CBS Electronic Video Recorder, it will be available for educational and industrial use in the first half of 1970.

A color model will be on the market in the last half of 1971, CBS said.

A model for home use, expected in about five years, will be produced at a competitive price, the network said.

STILL PICTURES

The EVR uses a roll of specially processed film about the size of eight-millimetre home movie film which can produce up to 52 minutes of sound and picture on a television set.

Dr. Peter Goldmark, inventor of the device, Tuesday showed scenes from the CBS series Mission: Impossible and still pictures on the sex life of the grasshopper. The recorder can be set to show a single frame at a time—an invaluable aid for educational or reference work.

COURT FINES EXPRESS RIDER

RICHMOND HILL, Ont. (CP) — An American pony express rider was fined $50 Tuesday on a charge of being in Canada illegally while he tried to finish a Centennial project started two years ago.

Al LeGate, a United States citizen, entered British Columbia on horseback from the U.S. Dec. 27, 1966, after completing 2,600-mile trip from Mexicali, Mexico. He was in Victoria in January 1967 and got Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes' name on the scroll.

LeGate was carrying a scroll from the president of the Mexican Charros horsemen which was intended as a gift for Queen Elizabeth during her visit to Expo 67 in July.

HAD SPONSORS

Judge Russell Pearse was told LeGate obtained sponsors to help him organize a pony express service soon after he arrived in B.C. to carry the scroll across the country.

The scroll left Vancouver March 22 and arrived in Montreal in late June after being relayed by more than 3,000 horsemen along the route. LeGate said he could not be cleared through secruity in time to present it to the Queen.

EACH RIDER

To complete his project, he said, he has been living near this community 13 miles north of Toronto and sending certificates to each of the riders who took part in the pony express.

LeGate ran into trouble when he went to work making and selling saddles and bridles to raise money to send certificates to riders in B.C. and Alberta.

Judge Pearse said LeGate's present status with Canadian immigration officials is still unclear.

Douk Children Still 'Holiday'

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP)—About 40 children continued their unofficial holiday today as Sons of Freedom Doukhobor parents prevented the youngsters from returning to school.

The Freedomite children have been kept at home for more than a week as their parents attempt to secure the return to Canada of their spiritual leader, Stefan S. Sorokin.

Jerry Pringle, Liberal MP for Fraser Valley East, said Tuesday in Ottawa that the Freedomites had agreed to return the children to school after he promised to meet them early in January.

But Siegfried Bartel, chairman of Agassiz school board, said today he had spoken later with sect leaders and they said their children will remain out of school until Ottawa makes a more concrete proposal.

Sorokin, 66, has lived in Uruguay since 1952. He returned to Canada in 1961, and when he left said he would be returning again that year.

He has not been back since. The Freedomites claim he was forced to leave.

More than 200 members of the Freedomite sect live in a shack town near the Agassiz Mountain prison where scores of Freedomite terrorists were sent in 1962.

A few remain in prison.

Nigeria Charged By Red Cross

GENEVA (Reuters) — The International Red Cross has strongly protested to Nigeria over the alleged federal bombing of a Red Cross hospital in Biafra which killed three persons and injured more than a dozen, an IRC spokesman said today.

Ten Biafran Red Cross workers and several children were among those wounded when a Soviet-built Ilyushin bomber attacked the hospital Monday, the spokesman said.

It was earlier reported that the raid, near Awo-Omana about 2½ miles from Biafra's Uli-Ihiala airstrip, took place Tuesday.

The IRC protest charged Nigeria with a breach of the Geneva conventions on warfare.

The hospital was not in a military zone and there were no Biafran troops in the vicinity, the spokesman said.

In the last few months the Nigerian Air Force made a series of raids on Red Cross hospitals, all of them clearly marked, and eight or nine hospitals were hit, the spokesman said.

In Lagos, Nigerian federal authorities declined immediate comment on reports of a hospital bombing.

Forestry Group Wins Six Awards

The B.C. Forest Service will receive six of the 19 major B.C. Safety Council awards being presented to government departments next week.

The awards will be presented at a ceremony in the Legislative Buildings next Tuesday. Receiving the awards on behalf of the forest service, will be F. S. McKinnon, deputy minister.

Three of the prizes have been won by the Nelson Forest District. Its personnel will receive the Million Man Hour Award for having worked 1,007,367 hours between June of 1966 and June of 1968 without a single compensable accident. It's the first time this million-hour honor has been won by the Forest Service. The same forest district will also get the Bronze on Gold Award; and the Silver on Gold award.

The Prince George Forest District will receive the Gold Award for 636,881 hours without a compensable accident; and the Silver Award for 420,631 qualifying man-hours.

Sixth and final Forest Service award will be the Gold Award to the inventory division for having recorded 425,280 hours without any serious accidents.

Scottish Wets Win

KIRKINTILLOCH (AP)—The Scots of Kinkintilloch voted 5,293 to 4,858 Tuesday night to allow pubs in the town for the first time in almost 50 years. Residents in 1920 voted pubs out under a local option and the drys won five polls in the 49 years since.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Hearing Set On Apartment Rezoning Bids

A public hearing will be held next week into two apartment rezoning applications in Saanich.

Both are for town houses—in which dwelling units are grouped in small numbers with a common roof.

In Gordon Head, Diversified Holdings Limited of Edmonton is planning a $4 million project. The first stage would cost $2 million and provide 80 two-bedroom town houses and 40 with three bedrooms.

They would be located between Gordon Head Road and Larchwood Drive immediately north of Gordon Head Junior Secondary School.

There would be four town houses in each segment of the development. Each would be two storeys high with basement.

"The concept is to rent to people with children who want a better than average house but can't afford to buy or can't get into apartments," said a spokesman for the developers.

RUBY ROAD PROJECT

The other rezoning application, by Tideline Construction Company, seeks 18 units in three and six-unit groups at 1701 and 1705 Ruby Road.

The public hearing, at which residents can voice their support or opposition, will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber.

Other rezoning applications to be considered by council at the meeting include:

- Independent elemetary school, 1984 Waterloo;
- Victoria Riding Academy, 4508 Blenkinsop;
- Residential use from light industrial, immediately west of 979 McBriar.

RC Advocates of Arson, Riot Denounced by 'Radio Priest'

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (CP-AP) — Rev. Charles C. Coughlin denounces liberal priests, bishops and "loud-mouthed clerical advocates of arson, riot and draft card burning," in his first pamphlet published in 26 years.

The Canadian-born priest was one of the most controversial figures in the United States in the 1930s and early 1940s when he drew an audience of several million as the crusading "Radio Priest."

Father Coughlin also accuses his superior, Roman Catholic Archbishop John F. Dearden of Detroit, of "under-the-table approval" of dissident priests whose aim is to "upset Pope Paul."

Archbishop Dearden, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, had no immediate comment.

"Bishops must assume the major responsibility for the moral predicament in which the members of the Catholic Church find themselves," Father Coughlin wrote in a 54-page pamphlet entitled Helmet and Sword. The pamphlet was released Tuesday.

He also attacked churchmen who have criticized the church ban on artificial birth control.

REV. COUGHLIN
. . . first in 26 years

It was Father Coughlin's first publication since Social Justice, a weekly magazine published from 1936 to 1942. The government banned Social Justice distribution in the mails after U.S. Attorney-General Francis Biddle denounced it as "traitorous."

'REFLECTED AXIS LINE'

The government said it "mirrored the (Nazi Germany, Italy and Japan) Nazi propaganda line."

The 77-year-old priest claimed a radio audience in the 1930s of 30,000,000. He heaped invective on "international bankers," Communists and the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Under pressure from the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Detroit, he ceased his radio program in 1940.

Father Coughlin said the pamphlet was the first section of a book on the "crisis in the Catholic Church."

He retired two years ago, after being pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower in Suburban Royal Oak.

Wages Were Low But Gains High

By ELIZABETH BENNETT

According to a recent wage survey, Mary Ann McCammon and Penni Shaw earned less in a month at their summer jobs than a Vancouver Island flunky (non-cooking help in a logging camp cookhouse) earns in a week.

But their wages cannot be computed by dollars alone. Both girls "earned" a better understanding of another culture and another language.

Mary Ann and Penni are second-year students at the University of Victoria. Last summer they were both in Europe working as "general help" (translated roughly into "barmaid") in hotels as part of the Jobs Abroad program.

This program, sponsored by the International Society for Training and Culture, finds youngsters jobs in other lands, expedites the various permits, covers them with health and accident insurance, assists with finding housing (when not included with the job), provides basic orientation, and, in two of the three programs, pays for the transportation.

The object: Greater understanding of foreign cultures through living and working with the people.

Mary Ann was posted in La Chaux-De-Fonds, Switzerland, a non-tourist town that was almost deserted in July "when almost everyone took his holidays."

Penni was on the coast in Blankenberge, Belgium. "Everyone came to the coast on the weekends," she reported. "Nothing closed on Sunday and at the height of the season it was almost festive."

She met one famous American: "I met Tommy Smith, the American athlete who made the black power sign at the Olympic games. I was walking down the street and saw a tall Negro with an American badge on his jacket. I went up and started talking to him. He told me he was in town for a track meet and introduced me to his coach. It wasn't until I opened the papers the next morning that I knew who he was. Nobody would believe me when I said I'd met him."

Language was a bit of a problem, both were told their duties once in French. "But everyone was very kind."

Many of their co-workers were from other European countries. Without bothering with a Jobs Abroad program, they move from country to country, working and learning the language.

Europeans, they found, couldn't comprehend the size of Canada and Mary Ann came across quite a strange notion as to what language Canadians spoke: "They thought Canadian was a special language; that English was my second language and French my third."

Penni's duties included babysitting the children of the hotel owner. "They spoke only Flemish and I could speak only French and English," she said, covering her face with her hands at the memory. "I soon learned that one word in Flemish is the same as in English: Stop."

Far from being disappointed in their expectations of Europe the girls found, as Penni puts it, "it was just like you read in the storybooks."

This applied especially to the gallantry of the men.

"Its the same in all the countries," said Mary Ann. "The men aren't exactly forward, they are big flirts, that's all."

Penni found this "more relaxed" but Mary Ann had her doubts: "The boys I worked with were often engaged and if I were engaged to one I wouldn't like it. One couple both worked in the same place and he would always be trying to make her jealous by telling her that I'd agreed to marry him and things like that."

Dating has its ups and downs too: "Over there, when a boy takes you out you are expected to pay about half. I went to a show with a boy once and afterward we met some of the other kids for coffee. When I was given the bill I thought it was a joke. But one of the other girls ended up paying."

"They are terribly money-conscious," added Penni.

This may be because the wages the girls were getting were around the average wage. Penni, who after getting a raise worked for $80 a month plus room and board said she found it "sufficient. Some things like shoes were cheaper; food was about the same but pop and ice cream were quite expensive."

Do they want to go back? Yes, but not in the same way. Mary Ann hopes to join CUSO as soon as she graduates while Penni would like to "study for a year or two then teach in France."

But this is not to say anything against the Jobs Abroad program itself.

"It's the best way to go to Europe for the first time," said Penni. Mary Ann agreed.

Penni Shaw, left, and Mary Ann McCammon, both second-year students at University of Victoria, take a break from studying to enjoy a rare spot of sunshine and reminiscences about their past summer in Europe. Penni, who hopes to take her degree in French, hales from Duncan and is currently boarding at a home on Bywood Place. Mary Ann, who lives with her parents at 1032 Craigdarroch Road, is studying social sciences.

NOW YOUTH CRAZE DYING

'Ancient' Model Returns

TORONTO (CP) — At a fashion model's ancient age of 30, Christa Matt has staged a successful comeback.

Four years ago the German-born model was on top in the Toronto fashion establishment, but retired to get married and take care of her family.

Home life, she says, did not keep her busy enough and she missed modelling. Last spring she approached the agency where she had worked prior to her marriage, to ask whether she was still young enough for modelling.

The modelling agency lined up a few assignments for her and she was back in her old career.

And now, she admits, her four-year retirement was the right decision at that time.

"Just about when I left the youth craze came in from London. I was much too sophisticated for that.

"But this year, the clothes are far more ladylike, more womanly, more my type. It's more like it was in Europe where models are older and extraordinarily elegant."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Your Posture Can Improve

Posture is not a dull subject. It is an exciting one! Let me try to convince you. The way you carry yourself can make a truly dramatic difference in the impression you give others and in the way you yourself feel.

Lowman

What a difference there is between swinging along with your chin and chest up and dragging along with your chin tucked into your neck and your ribs close to your hip bones! It is the difference between looking optimistic or discouraged, vital or fatigued, friendly or shy. I have a belief that the way you hold yourself can affect the way you feel. Of course, it can work the other way around, too.

If clothes make the woman, lovely posture makes the clothes. It can do more for your clothes than they can possibly do for you. The most expensive gown loses its style and charm if your posture is poor while the least ambitious one becomes important if you carry yourself beautifully.

Poor posture can cause practically every figure defect. You name them! The condition may be exaggerated by deposits of fat but lax muscles and slumping posture are usually the underlying causes.

The group also voted $25 for the Queen Alexandra Solarium, $25 for the Children of Asia Fund, and $25 for use of the Christmas Bureau.

The treasurer's report showed that donations amounting to $1,542.85 had been made during the past year.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Friends Won't Ask for Details

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago our under-age daughter ran off and got married. She realized it was a terrible mistake and came home to us. Her father succeeded in having the marriage annulled. We are trying to live down this terrible nightmare, and don't wish to discuss it with anyone. When people ask up for "details," what should we say?

SMALL TOWN.

DEAR SMALL TOWN: Don't tell them anything. Your friends won't ask. And your enemies won't believe you anyway.

DEAR ABBY: Just what are the responsibilities when one's name is used for a "character reference"? Some friends have decided to adopt a child, and they have given our name as a reference. These people pay their bills, the husband doesn't beat his wife or anything like that, but in our opinion they would make poor parents. Without going into detail, they both drink a little too much. He strays from the straight and narrow path occasionally, and it wouldn't surprise us if she fooled around, too.

We have children of our own and take our parental responsibilities very seriously, so what do you suggest we do? Naturally, we don't want to lose their friendship.

ON THE SPOT.

DEAR ON: When asked for a character reference, respond honestly. Your remarks will be kept confidential. (If your friends read the same newspaper you do, they may see this, in which case the jig is up.)

DEAR ABBY: My wife, who works for a large insurance company, has just informed me that they are having an office Christmas party, and this year they took a secret vote and it was decided that husbands and wives will not be invited.

I just informed HER that I didn't care what they voted, SHE was not going to any party without me. We had a few words about it and now she's not speaking to me.

I'd like your opinion, Abby. How do you feel about company parties that specialize in drinking and dancing, but exclude the spouses?

CURIOUS.

DEAR CURIOUS: I'm four-square against anything that breeds jealousy, misunderstanding, and hostility between husband and wife. And companies parties which exclude spouses lead the list.

DEAR ABBY: In answer to "UNHAPPY IN CAL." I can tell this lady that I have lived under worse conditions than she has. For 48 years I have been married to the stingiest man God ever created, but when I said "I take this man for better or worse, until death do us part," I meant every word of it.

It's been rough at times, but Jesus is my personal saviour and He never gives us a heavier load than we can carry, so all I ask is strength to bear my cross until He sees fit to change things according to His will.

I just got out of the hospital with my fourth nervous breakdown. I had shingles in my mouth so bad I still can't wear my dentures, but God knows what is best for me and I have placed myself in His hands. People with problems can do the same.

HAS FAITH IN WINDBER, PA.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Forty-Four Years Older Than Her

AIKEN, S.C. (AP) — The engagement of a former Miss South Carolina, Nancy Janice Moore, 22, and South Carolina Republican Senator Strom Thurmond, 66, was announced Saturday by her parents.

The brown-haired Aiken beauty, who represented the state in the Miss America contest of 1965, said "We just aren't sure when we will have the wedding."

Thurmond, a widower, referred all questions to his fiancee, but indicated the wedding might be before the first of next year.

Thurmond, a strong backer of Richard M. Nixon during the recent United States presidential campaign, was married in 1947 to 21-year-old Jean Crouch.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Dashing Drivers Love These Gloves

By PENNY SAVER

The pressures of Christmas advertising can drive some stores to strange extremes. One of my friends told me of an advertising phrase that in itself is quite harmless, but carelessly placed became a blood-chilling commentary on modern life. "I was window-shopping one day," she relates, "when I came across a display that stopped me cold. An expensive hunting rifle was suspended so that it hung in the centre of the window. From the barrel was hung a red heart-shaped tag bearing these familiar words: THE QUICKEST WAY TO A MAN'S HEART. I was completely flabbergasted. Of course, I knew what the sign was trying to say, but the suggestion was so brutal, especially at Christmas!" She then tells of marching into the store and complaining to the manager, who, once he realized its implication, changed the dangling heart to a less dramatic price-tag.

I thought this little tale was too good to miss a chance of telling it, and now that I have done so, I will go on to the main topic of my column today: leather gloves for men. For $9.95 there are driving gloves made of South African cape. Cape, I learned from the invaluable dictionary, is skeepskin or lambskin tanned in a special way. These gloves are a mahogany shade and are open-backed for greater freedom of movement. A snap fastens them at the wrist and the wrist band is elasticised so that it will stay in place. All along the fingers the leather has been punctured to let the air flow through. This also makes the gloves attractive to look at. Needless to say, these gloves are designed more to give a sure grip on the steering wheel than to keep the hands warm.

For $8.95 there were plain wrist-length gloves in both pigskin and cape. These are top-stitched and come in beige in pigskin and black in cape.

Coffee Set Supreme

I wanted a special gift for a special niece and decided finally on one of the most elegant coffee sets I have ever seen. These sets are ceramic and come from England. The carafe is very tall with a peaked lid, topped with a ball. The cream jug is elongated, giving it an attractive and novel shape. All the pieces are plain in color with a band of the classical key pattern in a contrasting color near the top. The saucers are in the pattern color, making an attractive contrast with the cups. Each set includes the carafe, cream and sugar set, and six cup and saucer sets. In black with a white pattern or in orangey-gold with a black pattern, the set is $27.95. It is also available in black with a gilt pattern. In this color combination the set is $36.95.

Please call 382-3131 if you would like to know where to shop for these items.

University of Ottawa Elects Its First Woman as a Governor

OTTAWA (CP) — The first woman to be elected to the University of Ottawa's board of governors says that despite her long years at university, the problem of student unrest will be a new one for her.

"I am used to young, earnest, serious medical students," Dr. Margaret Beznak said in an interview. "Although I have no children, I really like young people."

A friendly woman given to easy laughter, and attentive in conversation, Dr. Beznak has been a member of the university senate for some time.

She became chairman of the university's physiology department in 1959 following the death of her husband, Dr. Aladar Beznak, who had previously held the post.

Dr. Beznak comes from a medical family. Her mother, father and brother were all doctors.

Both she and her husband graduated from the University of Budapest in their native Hungary. In 1948 they went to the University of Birmingham, England, and from there joined the University of Ottawa staff.

MORE WOMEN STUDENTS

Since her arrival at the university, Dr. Beznak has seen an increase in women medical students from one or two to 15 per cent.

"There are more European women in medicine than in North America," she said.

"I think the reason is because girls here marry younger and have relatively larger families."

Dr. Beznak's spare time is spent in her home, reading and listening to music. She also attends many conferences in Canada and abroad.

"I have travelled from coast to coast and even seen the Arctic. Canada is such a fascinating country."

Her travels are made easier because she speaks several languages.

"Hungarians must speak other tongues because Hungarian is useless outside that country," she said before rushing off to a meeting.

Mechanical Bossie Won't Take Over

VANCOUVER (CP) — The general manager of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association says it's extremely doubtful that the mechanical cow will ever kick old Bossie out of the barn.

G. J. Okulitch said in an interview the artificial milk business now functioning in the United States will probably die in Canada before it becomes a significant force.

Mr. Okulitch said the artificial milk now being marketed in the U.S. has been termed dangerous by government, dairy industry and independent researchers.

The danger of the new milk, he said, comes not from what the product contains, but from what it lacks.

"Nutritionists have found the synthetic liquid deficient in protein, calcium and other essential minerals and in natural fats," said Mr. Okulitch.

He said many householders in the U.S., especially mothers of growing children, sometimes assume that the artificial product is the nutritional equal of real milk.

"Fortunately, the Canadian agriculture department, the federal food and drug directorate and other agencies have had time to study the U.S. products before their introduction into Canada.

"I think that our new department of consumer affairs will afford us better protection than was provided in the U.S."

Mr. Okulitch, whose association handles West Coast retailing operations for dairy farmers in the Fraser Valley, said it appears that interest in synthetic milk and other similar products has fallen off after an initial flurry of interest in the U.S.

"As far as I know, no synthetic milk or ice cream now is produced in Canada."

WASHINGTON
. . . series of crises

Another Term for Troubled 'Mayor'?

WASHINGTON (CP) — Some wise money says President-elect Richard Nixon will be smart enough to reappoint Walter Washington to another term as "mayor" of this troubled capital and that Washington will be crazy enough to accept it.

Washington is 53, a Democrat, a Negro and the top official since last year of the 74 square miles of federal territory comprising the capital of the United States. Since he was named by President Johnson as non-elected head of a revamped city government, he has faced a steady series of crises ranging from the eruption of a long-threatened riot in April to habitual sniping from southern politicians.

Walter Washington's term expires Feb. 1 but there have been pleas to the incoming president to give him another term.

There are about 850,000 residents in Washington, 68 per cent of them black, a higher concentration than in any other U.S. city.

More than a quarter of the families exist below the poverty line.

The run-down school system is 93-per-cent black, as the whites flock to private schools or the suburbs of Maryland and Virginia. Only a third of the high school students ever graduate.

PLAGUED BY TROUBLES

Despite sustained campaigns for "home rule" or full municipal self-determination, Congress hangs tight to its power over the district.

For Walter Washington, who says he has averaged about four hours of sleep a night on the job, the list of troubles has been lengthy.

The lid came off the seething black ghetto after the rifle slaying April 4 of Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. Washington was one of more than 100 cities afflicted. Twelve died.

Twelve thousand federal troops moved in to end burning and looting of liquor, food and clothing stores that cost more than $20,000,000. Many of the seedy burned-out areas are still ruins.

The U.S. crime wave continued to make its local impact, mostly by Negro against Negro. There were 3,000 rapes recorded between September, 1965, and last June, 85 per cent of them involving black victims.

Four foreign embassies—Poland, Italy, Mexico and Spain—have complained quietly to the state department that the high rate of crime has affected their employees, particularly women working nights.

Marijuana 'Experiment' By Pre-Teens

By STUART AUERBACH

WASHINGTON (WP) — Grade school youngsters, ages 8 to 12, have begun experimenting with marijuana and other drugs, the new head of the National Institute of Mental Health narcotics program said Monday.

Dr. Sidney Cohen called this drop in the age of drug users an "ominous development."

He said his evaluation is based on "trends" rather than a scientific study or absolute figures.

Although only a small percentage of pre-teens use narcotics, Dr. Cohen said "it could become epidemic" through "peer pressure" from their schoolmates. Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, director of NIMH, said that there is the fear that drug use could become a "fad" in grade schools.

Cohen, a Los Angeles psychiatrist and author of books on drug addiction before taking the NIMH job, said the pre-teen use of drugs is in schools for "rather intelligent, affluent youngsters" located in large urban areas on the east and west coasts.

He listed New York, Boston, Los Angeles and San Francisco as cities where the problem has appeared.

France Hunts Bombing Gangs

PARIS (Reuters)—Police set up roadblocks throughout Paris Tuesday and searched cars and passengers for bombs and weapons in a new government crackdown on violence.

A police spokesman said 233 roadblocks were set up early today and more than 1,000 cars and 100 drivers and passengers searched.

Give Us Light Is Scots' Cry

STORNOWAY, Scotland (AP) — The sturdy Scots of the town of Stornoway, on the island of Lewis off northwest Scotland, have had enough of Britain's new time.

They are putting their clocks back one hour to Greenwich Mean Time to give themselves an hour more of light in the morning.

Britain used to do the same every year but this year summer time is continuing through the winter as an experiment. This puts Britain on the same time as the rest of Western Europe and is expected to help businessmen in their telephone deals with the continent.

The experiment is under heavy fire from schools and parents who complain children are going to school in the dark and braving increased traffic hazards. At Stornoway, 485 miles south of the Aretic Circle, it was night until 11 a.m.

"We've had enough of this darkness," said Mayor Donald Stewart. "Everyone knows it is silly. We are going back to sensible hours of daylight."

The British government has promised to review the time switch, but it opposes individual areas changing time.

Famous Monk-Writer Electrocuted

BANGKOK (AP) — Rev. Thomas Merton, Trappist monk who wrote The Seven Storey Mountain and other best sellers, was electrocuted Tuesday when he touched a faulty cord on an electric fan, Roman Catholic sources in the capital of Thailand reported.

The Catholic philosopher and theologian died the same day as the world's leading Protestant theologian, 82-year-old Karl Barth.

Father Merton, 53, had come to the Far East several months ago to attend a number of religious conferences.

The Seven Storey Mountain, an account of Father Merton's conversion to Catholicism, catapulted him to literary fame in 1948. He wrote 19 more books on a wide range of religious and other subjects.

The Seven Storey Mountain was third on the best-seller list in 1949. Some of his other early works included Thirty Poems, No Man Is An Island, Seeds of Contemplation and The Sign of Jonas.

In 1966, he wrote Conjectures of a Guilty Bystander and in 1967 Mystics and Zen Masters.

His The Waters of Siloe, written shortly after The Seven Storey Mountain, was acclaimed as a sensitive discussion of monastery life.

Most of his works reflected the contemplative and rural life Merton led at the Gethsemani Abbey of the Cistercian Order, South of Bardstown, Ky.

Father Merton actively opposed war which he called "an avoidable tragedy."

He was born in Prades, a village in the French Pyrenees, in 1915 of an American Quaker mother and British Anglican father.

Upset about injustice in the world in the 1930s, Father Merton joined a young Communist group but the lure of the Catholic church proved stronger.

In 1941, he became a postulant at Gethsemani. Five years later he took the vows of a monk, and he was ordained a priest in 1949.

Soviets Play It Cool On S. Africa Motion

By STEPHEN SCOTT

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The proposed expulsion of South Africa from a UN agency has become one of the most contentious issues of this session of the General Assembly.

It seems to be developing into an Afro-Asian vs. Western powers debate, with the Soviet Union playing it cool for the present.

Behind-the-scenes discussions are in progress. Ambassadors Lord Caradon of Britain, Armand Berard of France and J. R. Wiggins of the United States made a rare joint visit to Secretary-General U Thant to express their concern over the matter Tuesday.

Thant himself may be lobbying to prevent passage of a resolution on the subject when it reaches the General Assembly.

On Dec. 3 the General Assembly's economic committee passed the resolution which would drop South Africa from the UN Conference on Trade and Development—called UNCTAD—because of its policies of apartheid or racial separation.

The committee voted 49 to 22 for the predominantly Afro-Asian—backed resolution with most of the Western powers—including Canada—against it and the Soviet bloc among the 22 abstainers.

WENT AGAINST ADVICE

The majority went against the advice of the legal counsel of the UN that a country could be dropped from a UN body only through joint agreement of the General Assembly and the Security Council.

To the Western powers the question is purely a legal one. They say the resolution must be defeated because the action it contemplates is illegal.

To the Afro-Asians the question is more and more becoming a moral one. South Africa has ignored all UN resolutions condemning apartheid and therefore has no right to sit on UNCTAD, they say.

The decision of the committee must be ratified by the General Assembly. It is expected that somebody will demand that the resolution be considered an "important question" needing a two-thirds majority for passage.

UNCTAD is a semi-autonomous body whose primary function is to help developing countries in matters of trade and tariffs. Thus South Africa's expulsion cannot hurt the country, already an industrial state and the world's No. 1 gold producer.

But Western countries are concerned that the resolution, if passed by the assembly, would be the thin edge of the wedge, allowing UN members to expel other countries whose policies are disliked.

K. B. Asante of Ghana complained about the behind-the-scenes action this week when he said in the economic committee that certain bodies outside the committee—"some distinguished and others not so distinguished"—were taking part in the debate on the question.

WON'T CHANGE VIEWS

And G. O. V. Cox of Sierra Leone said no amount of pressure on the secretariat—presumably a reference to behind-the-scenes moves—could change his country's views.

Brudi Nebwera of Kenya asked why the Western powers were so "legalistic" on the issue while they were silent on other more important questions dealing with South Africa.

The African countries now know that "we are faced with the entire Western camp" and his delegation would have to re-examine its position with regard to that group, he said.

The Soviet Union abstained from the voting because, it said, the resolution did not provide for inclusion of East Germany in UNCTAD.

But there is some thought here that the real reason was that the Soviet bloc did not want to buck the Afro-Asian group.

Whether it will continue to abstain in the General Assembly voting was open to question.

With Afro-Asian determination to get the resolution through the General Assembly seemingly stiffening, the Soviet bloc may decide to support the Afro-Asians, thus further embarrassing the West.

Canadian Found Dead On Beach

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Police have found the body of a Canadian carpenter wanted in connection with the shotgun slaying of a barmaid he said he loved.

The body of Perry Edwards, 58, was found in bushes on a lonely Great Abaco Island beach Monday. He was killed by a blast from a shotgun. Police found his shotgun lying near the body.

The woman, Eva Davis, 40, was killed Saturday when a man fired a shotgun into the crowded barroom where she worked. Five men were wounded, and one of them later died. He was Calvin Albury, 21.

Edwards had previously been fined by an island commissioner for threatening Mrs. Davis, mother of three, with a shotgun. He said he was in love with the woman, but the feeling was one-sided.

SEWAGE SYSTEM GIVEN 'A CRIPPLING BLOW'

KELOWNA (CP)—A proposed $2,235,000 sewage system improvement project planned by this Okanagan city has been dealt a crippling blow.

City officials have received a petition this week demanding a ratepayer vote on the issue, a move which could prevent the project from being completed.

The project, first announced late in September, must be completed by the end of March, 1970, or the city will not qualify for $305,444 in federal grants.

The city council appeared shocked and dazed as the petition was considered.

Factory Art Bold, Colorful

By SUSAN RILEY

Art in the Factory is a splash show.

At the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria Tuesday night about 200 specially invited guests got a quick peek at the 30 unique contemporary paintings.

The paintings are all huge, bold, colorful abstracts. All at one time hung in factories. Most would brighten any factory wall but they aren't the kind of thing for a suburban bungalow. They wouldn't fit through the door.

The collection brought to Canada by the Peter Stuyvesant Foundation has been shown in a number of big European galleries.

At the Victoria gallery concrete music tinkled in the background while geusts were given cigarettes and wine.

Art Gallery officials and Clare Copeland, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, officially opened the exhibit which will run until January 5.

U.S. SEEKS QUICK TRUCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defence Clark M. Clifford said Tuesday he hopes that enough progress can be made in the Paris peace talks during the next 40 days that the United States and North Vietnam could agree to a mutual withdrawal of troops from South Vietnam.

To Study Merger

VANCOUVER — Burnaby Mayor-elect Robert Prittie Monday night said he is not opposed to amalgamation with Vancouver and favors studies on the subject. He added he is backing retiring Burnaby Mayor Alan Emmott who Wednesday runs against incumbent Tom Campbell in Vancouver's civic election.

Before the Magistrate

Two 18-year-old Victorians have been charged with conspiring and using false pretences to obtain about $450 from an RCMP undercover agent.

Kenneth Moran, 1700 Emerson, Tuesday, elected trial by county court judge without a jury and was remanded to Dec. 17 to fix a date for a hearing.

James Page, no address available, did not appear in court. The charge will be read to him Dec. 17.

A charge of selling LSD against Moran was withdrawn at the request of prosecutor Rodney Taylor.

Page is awaiting trial on charges of possession of marijuana for trafficking and selling LSD. He is represented by Dermod Owen-Flood. Moran does not have counsel.

The new charge, in three counts, is dated Nov. 20 and states the two accused conspired by means of false pretences to obtain about $300 from Michael Onischuk by selling him a substance falsely represented to be LSD.

It also alleges they used false pretences to obtain $150 from him in this manner and that they sold LSD.

Onischuk, an RCMP constable, testified in court Monday he made purchases in alleged narcotics while acting as an under-cover agent in Victoria.

Thomas R. Thompson, 20, of 238 Richmond, was fined $250 for impaired driving and $25 for being a minor in possession of liquor. Court was told he was apprehended on Yates Street on Nov. 24.

He was also ordered to post a $100 six-month good behavior bond and to view the Saanich safety film Wednesday night.

Noise Heard From Trunk

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Hotel clerk Bruce van Munster was driven in the trunk of his car to Prospect Lake in Saanich where he was beaten to death, the Crown alleged Tuesday at the trial of two men charged with his murder.

Frederick Morry, 28, of no fixed address, and Gary Hugh McWhirter, 24, of Sooke, are charged with non capital murder in Mr. van Munster's death.

Prosecutor Louis Lindholm told the British Columbia Supreme Court the victim's body was found near the lake covered by a derelict car top July 14, four months after he disappeared.

He said it would be alleged that the two accused and another man, in Mr. van Munster's car, drove into a gas station two miles outside Victoria, the night of March 14.

Two pump attendants heard a pounding from inside the car trunk and the voice of a man crying to be let out.

"The presence of the person in the trunk was passed off as a prank," Mr. Lindholm said.

He alleged that later McWhirter and Morry stopped the car on a remote road, opened the trunk and beat Mr. van Munster. One of them clubbed him with an iron bar causing "terrible" injuries.

The trial continues before Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe.

This Policeman Wasn't 'Reaching Far Too High'

By DERYK THOMPSON

RICHARDSON

Policemen are often called upon for legal advice, marriage counselling or to round up stray animals among their other duties.

Poetry and song-writing are just not considered their "bag."

Dave Richardson, a 26-year-old Saanich constable, may prove to be an exception. Word reached him Monday from Vancouver that a song he wrote last May was recorded in London, England, a week ago and will be released there and here in late January.

Titled "Reaching Far Too High," his lyrics were put to music by a 20-year-old Vancouver friend, Jim Walchuk, and sung by Judy Ginn, a mainland night club entertainer who appeared in Victoria earlier this year.

He said the recording was backed by a 30-piece orchestra and was done under the direction of Tony Hatch, the man who arranges songs for well-known English pop singers Petula Clark and Tom Jones.

'HAPPY, FLATTERED'

"I'm quite flattered and happy about it," he said, "especially for Judy's sake."

"And I'm quite anxious to hear the record," he added.

Although not his first attempt at songwriting, Const. Richardson said he has been working on a book of poems for about nine months and hopes to have them published sometime next year. Many of them are about local people and places, he said.

The song was "discovered" when Miss Ginn sang it at a concert in Coventry, England, while on a tour. The other side of the record features a song with words and music written by his Vancouver friend.

Const. Richardson says he's not planning on writing other songs immediately and does not know how much money, if any, he will receive from this one.

"I've always had an interest in music and started to write poetry when I was 15," he said. "As a boy I was fascinated with lyrics."

He says he never received any musical instruction but plays the guitar occasionally just for fun. Poetry was his greater interest he said.

"With Jim's music and Judy's singing there's a good chance it might sell," he said hopefully. He's also impressed by the fact that Tony Hatch is a big name in musical circles in England.

Const. Richardson has been a Saanich officer for two and a half years and also had two years' experience with the Calgary police.

Alcoholics' Hospital

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alderman Halford Wilson, chairman of Vancouver city council health and welfare committee, says the provincial government has agreed to a financing formula for a $1,000,000 hospital for alcoholics at present treated in the city jail's drunk tank.

Wine Price Boost

PARIS (UPI) — The French government Saturday announced a new step in its "save the franc" austerity program that may tax the loyalty of every Frenchman—an increase in the price of wine. Agriculture Minister Robert Boulin, explaining a new agreement with French wine-growers, disclosed this year's grape crop would be seven per cent more expensive to producers.

'Javex' removes the stains. Not the shirt.

Some women are afraid to use 'Javex'® in every wash. Nonsense! The bacteria in stains eat the life out of fabrics. Gray dirt grinds down fabrics. Mildew ruins them. 'Javex' gets rid of these killers. It actually helps you get longer useful life out of your fabrics. Read these answers to 5 important questions about 'Javex' Bleach.

You may think you're playing it safe by not using 'Javex' Bleach in every wash. Or by cutting down the amount you put in a wash. Or by not using 'Javex' in a coloured wash. Misguided methods! See how much more help you can get from 'Javex' by following our directions instead of listening to a lot of old wives' tales.

(1) What happens to clothes if you don't use 'Javex' regularly?

They get old before their time. Why? Because your detergent alone can't do what 'Javex' does.

Many of the stains 'Javex' gets out are breeding grounds for bacteria that digest the cellulose in cotton. 'Javex' kills these bacteria. It kills the organisms that cause mildew. It kills the germs that swim in wash water.

Use 'Javex' regularly to get stains out before they set. This will protect you from the temptation to use an over-strength solution on locked-in stains.

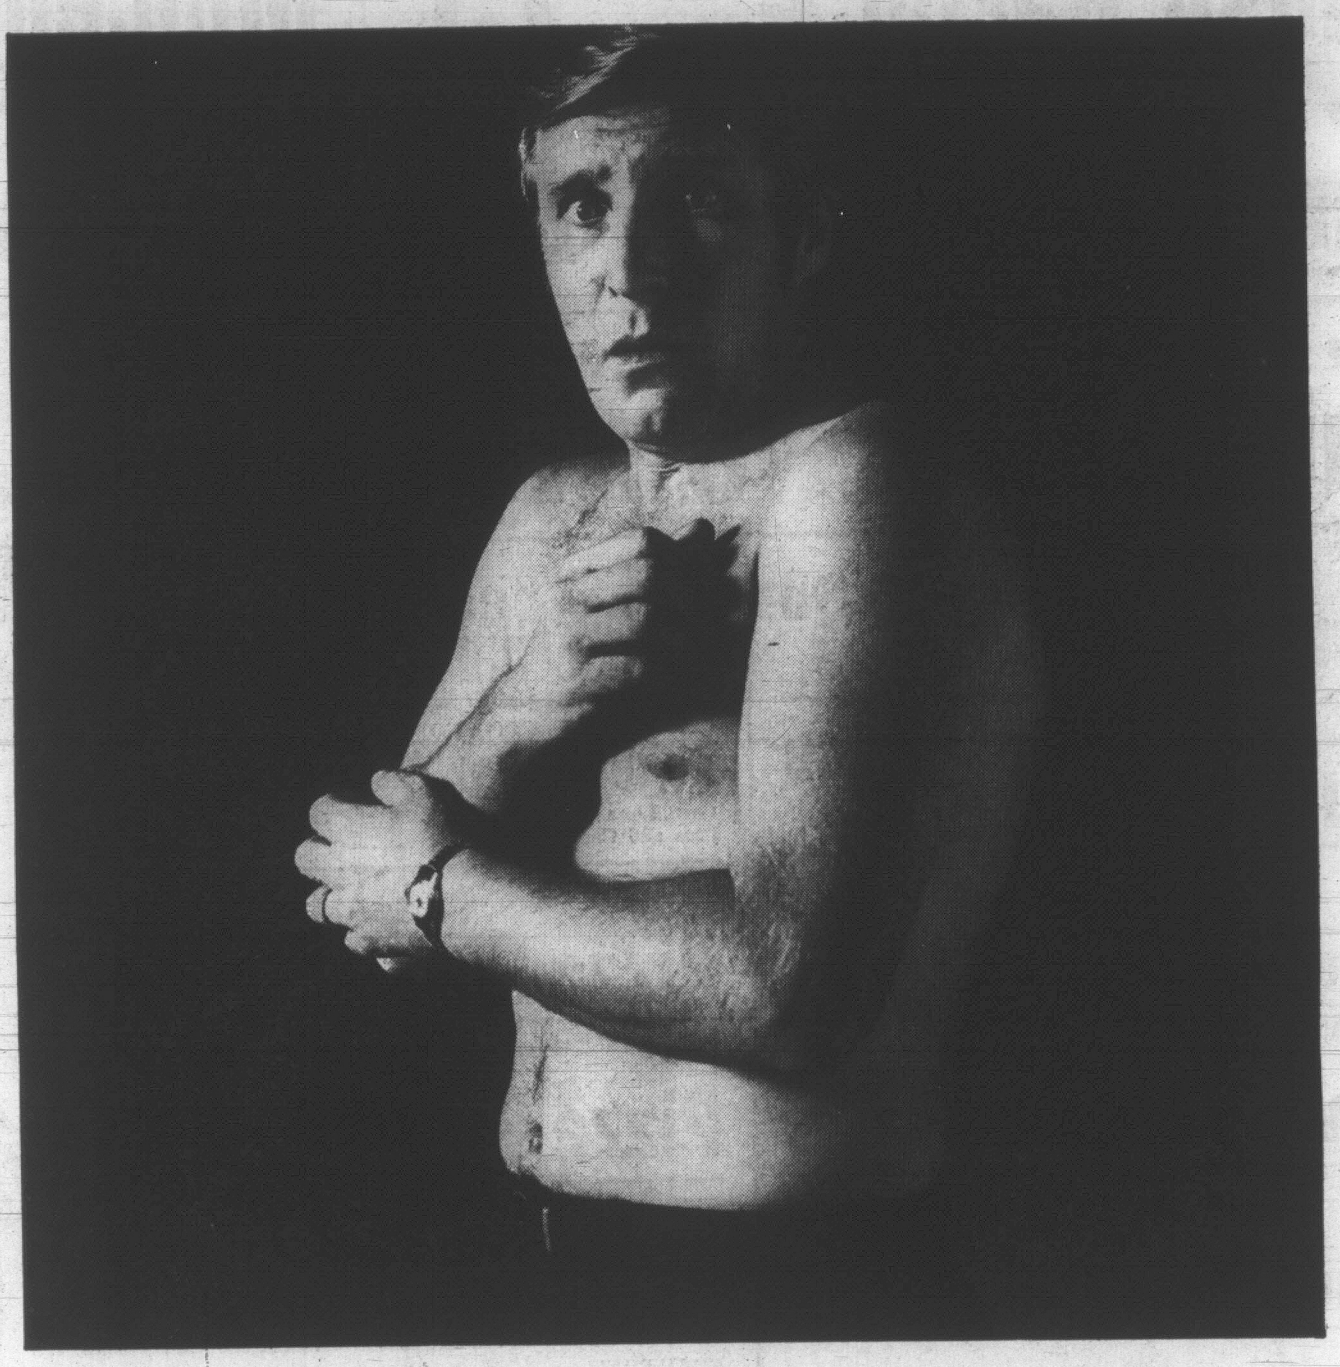

Gray dirt contains abrasive grit that works its way into fibres and grinds them down. 'Javex' takes apart this chemical combination of dirt and detergent residue.

Used regularly, 'Javex' stops gray dirt from ever getting started. No other laundry booster can top 'Javex' Bleach at this crucial job.

(2) How do you remove stains safely with 'Javex'?

Many stains will come out in your regular wash, with ¾ cup of 'Javex' Bleach per load (top-loading automatics and wringer washers).

Other stains–the Aggravators–should be soaked 5 to 15 minutes in 1 oz. of 'Javex' and 1 quart of warm water before laundering. Any fabric you can launder with 'Javex' can take this special solution for brief soaks.

(3) Is 'Javex' Bleach safe only on white things?

Many who use 'Javex' suffer from this misconception. Yes, we mean suffer! Because they could have cleaner and brighter coloured things if they laundered them regularly with 'Javex'.

If a colour is fast, it's safe in 'Javex'. To test colours you're not sure about: mix 1 tsp. of 'Javex' in 1 cup of warm water. Apply to an unseen area. Fold test area away from garment in case 'Javex' soaks through. If there's no discolouration in 5 minutes the garment is safe in 'Javex'.

(4) What about using 'Javex' on permanent-press fabrics?

Early permanent-press fabrics were treated with a resin which turned yellow in bleach. Although a few still are, most are now safe in 'Javex'. But test as for colour-fastness. If the test area doesn't turn yellow, you can launder the garment safely with 'Javex'.

(5) Is 'Javex' safe on synthetics?

Treat white synthetics like cotton. Test colours for fastness. But don't bleach Lycra (Spandex).

It may surprise you, but age turns nylon yellow. And bleach can actually make it white again. If you have a nylon garment that has yellowed, soak it for 15 to 30 minutes in 1 oz. of 'Javex', 1 gallon of hot water and a teaspoon of vinegar. Rinse. Then launder. 'Javex'. It removes the stains.

Not the shirt. The germs. The gray. The dirt. Not the shirt. Are you getting all you can out of 'Javex' Bleach?

Without 'Javex' in every wash clothes aren't clean.

School's New System Aims to Fight Failures

By DON VIPOND

One student in eight at Colquitz Junior Secondary School is getting a second chance at problem subjects because of the school's pioneering trimester system.

Organization of the school year—into three equal parts—is a unique attempt to:

- Help teachers know their students better, thus assist them more efficiently.
- Help students cut time lost when they repeat a whole year's work after failing one or two subjects.

At Colquitz, students study the same subjects as in other schools and spent the same amount of time on them. The difference lies in the arrangement of courses, explains principal Jack Drummond.

Under the old system students take eight subjects at a time, perhaps with eight different teachers.

With the trimester, they take only six subjects at a time and teachers meet only five or six classes. Generally, subjects are completed in two semesters. Maths and English are taken during all three semesters.

A student taking French in the first semester (which ended Nov. 15) and failing it, for example, can start again, completing the program in the following two semesters rather than failing throughout the year and having to repeat it under the old system. To do so he will have to drop one of his two electives.

LESS DROP-OUTS

The advantage of the trimester to teachers stems from the increasing importance the public has attached to education over the past decade or two, explains Mr. Drummond.

Twenty years ago students with learning or emotional difficulties would have dropped out. There were jobs for them. Teachers were left with just those who had some degree of academic ability.

Not now, he says. With so much emphasis on the importance of education almost all youngsters stay in school. But there is no new staff to cope with the variety of teaching problems the new situation creates.

"The general public doesn't understand that school today is so different from 25 years ago."

He estimates up to one student in five needs extra help from his teacher.

"In an ordinary class of 35, teachers just can't do anything for them."

One way of helping students with troubles is to know them better. The trimester technique helps by reducing the number of classes a teacher works with in a term.

STEADIER EFFORT

How is it working?

Students appear to be producing a steadier work effort because the end of the semester represents a closer objective, says Mr. Drummond.

But they are also complaining about the increase in homework the new system is generating and this is causing the teaching staff some concern.

"We're encouraged," he adds. There is evidence already that teachers are getting to know and understand their pupils better.

About 150 out of the enrolment of 950 are repeating in the second semester work they fell behind on in the first.

Mr. Drummond credits his vice-principal, Robert Jones, for handling much of the massive job manipulating timetables to make them mesh.

"He's spent endless hours at it to make this work."

BOON TO ILL

The Colquitz experiment and a somewhat similar one under way at Nanaimo are the only two of their kind on the Island and required department of education approval before they were launched in September.

The change has proved a real boon to students who were ill during the first semester or arrived after the term was well under way. They can start fresh with the second semester. At the same time, it presents problems to those who leave the school during the year and find themselves in the traditional system elsewhere.

With the Colquitz system students have daily classes in their subjects; there is no day gap between lessons in a subject as with the old way.

Typing teachers report daily practice has put this year's classes well ahead of last year's in skill. French teachers are finding the same thing.

But staff will be watching what happens when study of a subject is split between first and third semesters.

Hydro Wants To Increase Power Exports

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority is seeking National Energy Board approval to increase the amount of exports to the United States over the next five years, Hydro chairman Dr Gordon Shrum said Tuesday.

He said the application is to cover all anticipated surpluses that might occur up to Dec. 31, 1973.

Hydro now has permission to export a maximum of 4,500,000 kilowatt hours of firm power to Puget Sound Light and Power, which serves north-western Washington.

The permit expires Dec. 31. The utility wants to increase this to 10,000,000 kilowatt hours and extend the time period to Dec. 31, 1973.

The provincially-owned company also has the right to export 1.5 billion kilowatt hours of interruptible peak load energy to various U.S. markets until the end of 1968.

It wants to raise this to 4 billion kilowatt hours.

The NEB is not expected to hear the applications until late January or February. In the meantime, it has extended Hydro's permits to April, 1969, or until a decision on the application is made.

Good Citizen Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — An outdoorsman who gave away thousands of dollars to hospitals, boys' clubs and the Vancouver Aquarium died at age 86 Tuesday. Rufus Gibbs, declared Good Citizen of the city in 1959 and made a freeman in 1964, built a small tool and die plant into Canada's biggest fishing tackle factory.

THAT YOU, PIERRE? Some are from presidents and prime ministers and, of course, admiring women. (CP Photo).

'Germ Warfare' Probe Sought

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canada and Poland agree that what is commonly known as "germ warfare" is horrible and that the world should be made aware of the fact about it. But they can't agree what to call it.

The two countries sponsored a resolution passed Tuesday by the General Assembly's main political committee that called on Secretary-General U Thant to appoint a group of experts to study the effects of chemical and "bacteriological" warfare.

There was no dissenting vote in the committee and only Cuba abstained, without explanation.

The use of the word bacteriological was insisted upon by the Communists. The reason is a bit obscure to Canada but it has something to do with possible conflict with the 1925 Geneva protocol on the Prohibition of the Use in War of Asphyxiating, Poisonous and other Gases and of Bacteriological Methods of Warfare.

Canada prefers the word "biological" because it encompasses ways of transmitting disease.

Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canada's disarmament negotiator, said it is important that the public be made aware of modern developments in this means of warfare which threatens the world.

The committee also approved two other resolutions which call for the suspension of all nuclear tests, more talks aimed at outlawing all nuclear weapons tests and other steps leading to general and complete disarmament.

None of the resolutions were contentious and none received a negative vote. Canada supported them all.

NO JOB LOSS IN FIVE-DAY WORK WEEK

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Eric Kierans assured the Commons Tuesday that nobody will be thrown out of work as a result of the five-day week for mail delivery which comes into effect Feb. 1.

Answering David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North), Mr. Kierans said those dropped from the delivery routes will be taken care of "through normal growth" of post office operations and through retirement of some personnel.

Arabs Sentenced

RAMALLAH (AP)—An Israeli military court in occupied Jordan Tuesday sentenced 10 Arabs to prison terms ranging from 15 years to life for trying to sabotage Israel's Lod International Airport at Lydda a year ago.

Rebel Politician Ships Out; More Irish Unrest in Wind

BELFAST (CP) — A North Ireland cabinet minister due to take a prominent part in the homecoming from Canada of the old gun-running ship Clydevalley was dropped from the Ulster government today.

The dismissal appeared likely to liven up Saturday's semi-political arrival of the Clydevalley — a living reminder of old Irish troubles—which comes at a time when modern factionalism is creating violence in the North.

Fears had been expressed—even before Home Affairs Minister William Craig got dismissed today — that the Clydevalley's arrival might serve as the focus of bad feeling between rival groups among a predicted crowd of 25,000 at the nearby harbor of Larne.

Craig is the local member of the Northern Ireland Parliament for Larne—25 miles north of here—and was to have represented the Ulster government as a cabinet member at the Clydevaley ceremonies. He will still be there but as a private member.

The year-old ship ran guns into Northern Ireland in 1914 for use of an "army" that had been raised to preserve Ulster's link with Britain against a threat of home rule.

Prime Minister Terence O'Neill forced Craig out of his cabinet for suggesting that the North Ireland could "go it alone" without Britain.

Craig, 44, at the centre of Northern Ireland's crisis over the civil rights of the Roman Catholic minority, resigned after O'Neill demanded that he quit.

CRITICIZES MINISTER

O'Neill told Craig in his dismissal letter:

"I have known for some time that you were attracted by idea of a UDI (unilateral declaration of independence) nature. On at least two occasions it has been necessary to ask you to delete comments from your prepared speeches."

"Your idea of an Ulster which could go it alone is a delusion and I believe all sensible people will see it to be so."

VICTORIA VOTERS

I wish to thank all those who supported me in the recent election for Victoria School Board.

I will do my best to merit the confidence you have placed in me.

UN Secretary Favors Fluent Bilinguists

By ROBERT H. ESTABROOK
The Washington Post

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Secretary General U Thant has proposed that preferential treatment in hiring and promotion be accorded new United Nations employees who are fluent in both English and French.

He has rejected a suggestion for a language bonus, however, noting that other incentives can be provided at lower cost. He also has finessed a recommendation of the General Assembly administrative committee that Russian be made a working language along with English and French.

In his annual report the assembly on personnel questions Thant pointed out that the provision of extra translators and secretarial help for making Russian a working language would cost 1.68 million dollars annually and that training and other adjustments would require four to five years.

Despite Thant's report, the Soviet Union pressed its campaign last week to have Russian accepted as a working language. A Soviet resolution declared that Russian has "outstanding significance in the world as a medium of international, political, economic scientific, technival and cultural intercourse."

Russian already is an official language, along with English, French, Spanish and Chinese — meaning that it may be spoken in UN bodies with running interpretations. Most official documents, however, are translated only into English and French.

As a practical matter, most employees are fluent in eigher English or French, and some are multi-lingual. Recently a translator who makes a hobby of linguistics was disclosed to have a working knowledge of 66 languages.

Car Carrying Dead Husband Towed to Wife

VANCOUVER (CP)—The body of a suspected murder victim was found by his estranged wife Tuesday after it had been placed in the trunk of his car which was towed to her house.

Sandor Tamas, about 30, had been shot twice in the head, probably late Monday, police said. A towing company had been telephoned and told to tow the car from an undisclosed location to the house in the city's east end.

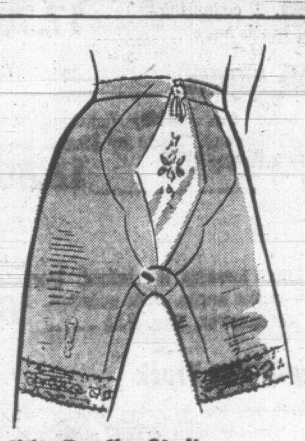

When Mrs. Tamas noticed the car parked in front of the house Tuesday, she went out to investigate and found her husband's partially-clothed body in the trunk.

Driver Acquitted

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Supreme Court jury has acquitted Roy Daniel Butts, of Vancouver, of criminal negligence after John Simms died of injuries suffered when hit by Butts' car Sept. 27.

Students Call Drinking 'Way of Rebelling'

By ED GOULD

DUNCAN — Have you ever had a drink of alcohol? Grade X students at Cowichan Senior Secondary were asked. A few hands were raised.

Why drink anyway? they were asked.

"Heard a lot about it in movies and on TV." "Something to do." "It relieves family and school problems." "It increases party atmosphere." "It's a way of rebelling."

The exchange came during a recent innovation in health instruction for the 90 students when the Alcoholism Foundation of British Columbia held a one-day workshop.

It was a joint effort by the school board, health and probation departments.

Principal R. M. Lendrum said the novel approach was chosen over the usual two-hour guidance class set aside each year to study the problem of alcoholism.

"These are experts with up-to-date films the students don't tend to disregard as they might a lecture," he said. "We chose grade 10 because we felt students at that age would benefit most."

Mr. Lendrum said the workshop is the first to be held in a Vancouver Island high school.

Reg Clarkson, Vancouver Island superintendent of the foundation, who directed the one-day course, said the majority of alcoholics used to be in the older and middle-aged brackets.

"But the trend has begun to move dwnward in age groups while consumption of alcohol continues to rise." He was assisted by Hugh Roberts of the Victoria branch.

The workshop approach went like this: Films and casual talks gave "starter information" to groups of five or six students seated at long tables. They commented among themselves and then a representative of each group assessed the majority opinion and reported it aloud to the director.

"If properly primed the students ask some interesting questions and give some interesting answers," Mr. Clarkson said.

Some of the films shown:

To Your Health (A World Health Organization film); Alcohol In The Body; The Summer We Moved To Elm Street (Interaction of family stability during change and stress); Curious Habits of Man ("An ambiguous open-ended discussion."); Point Zero Eight (Drinking and Driving); Profile of an Alcoholic (A case history aimed at those who have alcoholic parents).

Indirectly the students answer all their own questions and draw their own conclusions, Mr. Clarkson said.

Bob Purgavie, who attended the session along with fellow probation officer Don Willoughby, said: "While the films and talks tell about the work of the foundation and the responsibility of drinking, it is done on a factual basis.

"It doesn't try to snow the kids with a lot of moralizing. It shows how it is to be an alcoholic but stays away from telling a person what not to do."

Mr. Purgavie said the approach involves each child and makes them stop and think.

"They know they eventually have to answer and partcipate so they don't tune out."

The principal, Mr. Lendrum, said: "After we have had time to assess the reaction from students and parents we may go further and establish this approach as a permanent feature in the curriculum.

"The films, questions and class discussions are a far more sensible approach to the dangers of alcoholism than showing films of derelicts on skid row."

Lady With a Past Rests at Union Bay

UNION BAY — A 65-year-old lady with a colorful past has retired from a life of work and travel.

The lady, a ship named Brico, is now moored at Government Wharf awaiting the day she will become a landbound seafood restaurant.

Her illustrious career began in 1903 when, as the Chicago, she chugged out of a Seattle shipyard en route to the North Pacific to fish halibut.

For 27 years she fished and in 1930 B.C. Telephone bought her. They gave her a new name, threw out her old steam engines, and converted her to a cable-laying barge.

Between then and Dec. 28, 1962, when she retired, she travelled more than 25,000 miles and laid 5,000 miles of cable.

After her retirment she was purchased by Capital Iron Works of Victoria, then sold to Joseph McLennan of Fanny Bay.

Her final voyage will take her to a spot beside the Island Highway.

Fill to Extend Dyke at Duncan

DUNCAN—Fill has been hauled to extend No. 2 dyke from Campbell Street to the Allman property, Ald. J. H. Saunders told city council.

"We had a bulldozer in the Cowichan River to try to close the dyke where flooding had occurred at the end of Fish Gut Alley and to take out some of the gravel bar in the centre of the river," he said.

A check was kept on the flood gates so as not to allow debris to accumulate.

Japan Takes 16M Feet Of Lumber

CHEMAINUS — Nearly 16 million board feet of lumber were shipped to Japan from the port of Chemainus—which includes Crofton and Ladysmith—during November.

Japan also bought more than four million board feet of logs, according to figures released today by the department of customs and excise.

United States ranked second in amount of lumber shipped with 13,000,000 board feet with Australia taking 4,000,000 board feet; United Kingdom, 2,217,000 board feet; Puerto Rico, 2,035,000; Belgium, nearly 2,000,000; Italy, 1,650,000; and Netherlands, 545,000 board feet.

Total board feet of lumber shipped from the port was 41,358,000. In addition, 915 tons of plywood, 10,146 tons of pulp and 8,498 tons of newsprint were shipped.

Slugged Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — Xavier Anglehart, 49, operator of a dry cleaning store, told police he was slugged on the head and robbed of $46 Monday when he arrived at the store after receiving a telephone call that the front door was open. Mr. Anglehart was robbed of $30 Nov. 13 when he was knocked unconscious while working in the store.

'NO DELAY' IN OPENING OF COLLEGE

NANAIMO—Applications are again coming in for the position of president of Malaspina Regional College, says council chairman John Whitlam.

Dr. George Wootton of Seneca College in Willowdale, Ontario, accepted the position but later changed his mind.

"There were many other highly qualified applicants for the position and we do not foresee any major delay in our program to open the college's door next September," Mr. Whitlam said.

76 APPLIED

Mr. Whitlam said the council's personnel committee under Dr. Roy MacMillan has already begun reviewing the qualifications of other applicants. About 76 applications from across Canada and United States had been received at the time Dr. Wootton's application was accepted.

The position of secretary-treasurer has been filled by Oliver Edward Neaves, 45, secretary-treasurer of Burns Lake school district, Mr. Whitlam said.

DUNCAN — Peter F. Owen has been appointed to the citizens committee of Malaspina Regional College.

Mr. Owen is principal of George Bonner Junior Secondary school. He came here eight years ago from Dawson Creek.

He is one of six persons appointed to the citizens committee which includes one member from each of the six participating school districts.

"The main function of the committee is to act as liaison between college council and individual districts," Mr. Owen said. "It is to provide ratepayers with current details and suggest to the council possible courses that would be of assistance to persons living in the various districts."

Recently amalgamated into the larger town, Willow Point still maintains some duplicate services. The vote will straighten out some of the confusion.

Mayor K. N. "Skip" McDonald explained today that Willow Point used to be a water improvement district, partly inside and partly outside Campbell River. Fire protection was contracted from Campbell River.

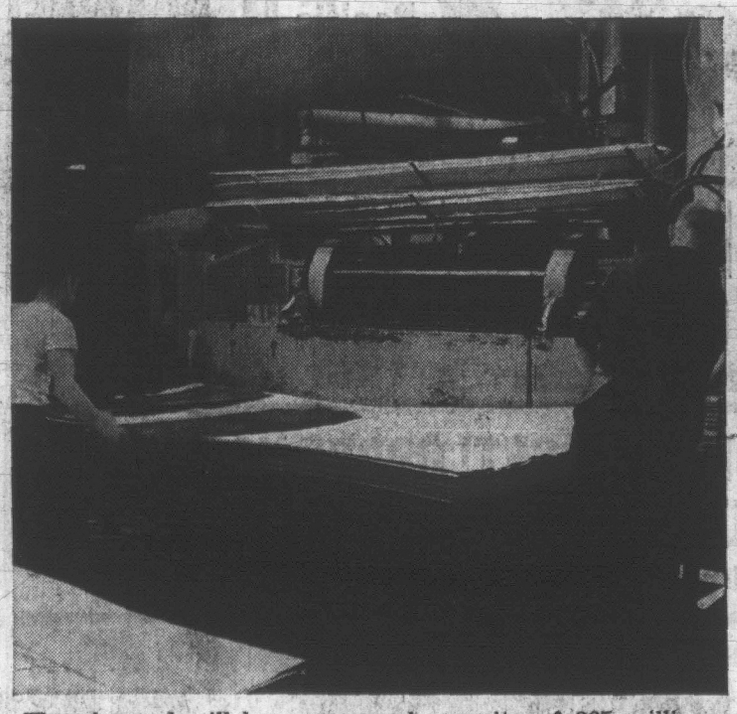

The Municipal Act rendered this system illegal, Mayor McDonald said.

SILVER THREADS

For Elderly: Friendship Over Tea

By ELIZABETH FORBES

If the Silver Threads program in Victoria ever adopts an official slogan it should be "friendship and a cup of tea."

Forbes

This is evident to the most casual observer who may drop in at the senior citizens' centre in Centennial Square, the one at Sidney or the new Saanich centre at the intersection of Tillicum and Hampton roads.

Opened Sunday by Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson who was making his first official visit to the municipality, the Saanich senior citizens activity centre has immediately become a happy, friendly and busy place.

Furniture was moved in Monday. On Tuesday there was a card party and social. Today an open house was held with a concert by a seven-member Silver Threads orchestra and a display of pottery, leather and oil painting created by senior citizens.

There was also friendly talk and laughter. And, of course, a cup of tea.

Until the centre was ready, members of the Saanich Silver Threads group, formed a little over a year ago, met five afternoons a week in the district's Apostolic Church Hall.

Now they have thier own centre with a lounge, activity rooms and modern kitchen facilities where hot meals will be served eventually.

★ ★ ★

In the new year, a full-time program is eagerly anticipated with volunteer instructors not only in the crafts displayed today but also in woodwork, lapidary, batik and basketry. Conversation French is also in the cards.

Volunteers (and there are many of them in all Silver Threads programs) play a vital part in senior citizens' centres.

The majority is composed of retired men and women willing to impart their various skills to others in return for the friendships they make and the pleasure they get in doing it.

Also behind any undertaking like the Saanich centre is a host of dedicated people who give hours of service from the moment the project is conceived. There has to be, if it is to fulfil its purpose and meet the needs of all those who will enter its doors.

There are the architects and builders, municipal council and community committee members, Silver Threads officials and staff, and many others.

On Sunday, at the opening ceremony, Mayor Hugh Curtis thanked these people. Among them was Alderman Edith Gunning and Mrs. Frances Mahon.

As chairman of the special projects committee responsible for the facility he said Ald. Gunning "played an absolutely vital role in leading us—occasionally pushing us—toward her goal."

He introduced Mrs. Mahon as "the lady who has firmly established herself as Mrs. Silver Threads in Saanich."

★ ★ ★

Frances Mahon is a newcomer to Victoria. She came from Edson, Alta. about a year and a half ago at the time when a Silver Threads program was being proposed for Saanich.

She tells you that her community service training was actually in recreation work with youth and as a counsellor and staff member with ARDA Agriculture Rehabilitation and Development Act) a pilot project shared by existing agencies in and near Edson and by the Alberta government. And she took on the work of organizing and running a Silver Threads program in Saanich with some diffidence.

Tall and slight, with a wide friendly smile, bright eyes and dark hair tinged with grey, Mrs. Mahon does epitomize the title "Mrs. Silver Threads."

In his remarks on Sunday, Mayor Curtis also singled out platform guests Mr. and Mrs. W. Synhurst for special mention.

Some years ago, the Synhursts recognized the need for a small community pastime centre for senior citizens in Saanich. They offered, free of rent or any other monetary strings, an older home they owned (not many blocks from the new centre) for such a meeting place.

This place (still used by around 15 neighbors and friends of the Synhursts one afternoon a week) became known as the Parkdale Pastime Centre.

He presented Mr. and Mrs. Synhurst with a commemorative plaque to mark the fact that they had actually established the first senior citizen's centre in Saanich.

Grand Jury Probe of Powell Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury investigation of Adam Clayton Powell has been dropped, but a congressional opponent says he still will seek to bar the New York Democrat from reclaiming his seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The justice department said Monday night it had let the grand jury expire without recommending that it indict Powell on charges of misusing some $40,000 in public funds.

"Available evidence did not warrant prosecution," the department said.

It added, however, that it was studying the possibility of a civil action to recover the funds.

Powell was not immediately available for comment.

He was excluded from the 90th Congress March 1, 1967. The House, by a vote of 278 to 176, went further than the recommendation by a select nine-man committee that he be censured.

Powell was accused of using public funds for his own pleasure, keeping his wife on the congressional payroll while pocketing her salary and making private airline trips at government expense.

The grand jury investigation has been going on for 18 months. The length of the investigation prompted some congressman to say privately that failure to hand up an indictment would clear the way for Powell to take his seat in the next Congress.

Powell's exclusion did not carry over into the new Congress. He was re-elected by a landslide margin in his Harlem district in the Nov. 5 general election.

Representative H. R. Gross, Iowa Republican, said the lack of an indictment would not affect his intention to try to block the seating of Powell.

"There will be a number of others opposed to him," Gross said. He declined, however, to estimate opposition strength or to name any of those opposed.

It takes the objection of only one member to require a roll-call vote on seating Powell.

The U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to hear Powell's suit against the House in which he says it acted unconstitutionally. The court, however, gave no indication when it took the case Nov. 18 whether it would act before the 91st Congress convenes Jan. 3.

Also pending against Powell is a 90-day jail term and $500 fine levied after his conviction in 1960 for criminal contempt in refusing to pay a libel judgment. Powell has paid $56,000 to a Harlem woman he accused of being a graft collector for crooked police and has appealed the contempt conviction to the New York Supreme Court.

Oak Bay Exceeds Works Budget By $13,000

Oak Bay overspent $13,000 of its 1968 works budget, municipal engineer Geoff White told committee members Monday.

However, the additional cost of this year's projects is only three per cent of the total works budget and "pretty good," Mr. White said.

A $20,000 additional cost was incurred when council decided to complete a repaving job on Windsor Road this year, rather than extend it over two years.

Savings on other projects enabled the municipality to carry out some work without cutting too far into the annual contingency fund.

Total savings on some projects were about $24,000 while overspending on others came to about $37,000.

The committee recommended the extra money be transferred out of contingency funds.

Requests Rejected To Cover Waterways

Oak Bay works committee Monday night rejected two requests to cover open water courses because they would cost about $54,000.

One from the Greater Victoria School Board asked that Bowker Creek be culverted from Cadboro Bay Road to the grounds of Oak Bay Junior high to provide a road access.

The present entrance-exit into the school parking lot is too congested, the board said.

But enclosing the creek in a pipe of at least 10 feet in diameter would cost about $45,000, engineer Geoff White told the committee.

Ald. Douglas Watts said he would like to see the creek covered over eventually but the benefits from spending $45,000 on it "would not be that great."

FLOODING COMPLAINT

A request for piping an open ditch came from a Dorset Road resident who complained about flooding during recent heavy rains.

Piping of the 800 feet of ditch in the area would cost about $9,200 and benefit only the one house, Mr. White said.

Investigation by municipal works officials when the flooding complaint came in found a log blocking the ditch and backing up the water, he said.

The committee recommended the ditch be checked regularly during rainy periods for any blockage.

New British Effort For Biafra Ceasefire

LONDON (CP) — Britain has launched a two-way effort to obtain a ceasefire in Biafra before Christmas, it was learned today.

Two high foreign office officials, now in Lagos and Addis Ababa, are carrying confidential messages from Prime Minister Wilson urging a ceasefire which could be supervised by a hurried expansion of the existing international observer group, informants said.

Lord Shepherd, a minister of state, is in Lagos and will attempt to use his influence on federal Nigerian leader Maj.-Gen. Yakubu Gowon. Maurice Foley, foreign office undersecretary, is in Addis Ababa with a message for Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie.

Foley will also confer with members of the Organization for African Unity and with the four African countries which have recognized Biafra. Foley will attemp through these channels to propose ceasefire terms with Biafran leader Lt.-Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu.

Meanwhile, a London-based Biafran children's appeal organization plans full-page advertisements in major London and New York newspapers Thursday calling for greater aid to rescue dying Biafran children.

Susan Garth, a wealthy sociologist who heads the appeal, said Biafran children are dying at the rate of six every minute. She said in an interview that if a temporary ceasefire does materialize, her organization would help evacuate children to ensure them against the threat of starvation and death.

Pollution Program By CBC Criticized

TORONTO (CP) —The CBC, criticized for its television program about pollution in the Port Maitland area, said Tuesday that research for the program was "extensive and thorough."

The program, entitled Air of Death, was shown Oct. 22, 1967, and suggested residents of the area were suffering from fluoride poisoning as the result of operation of a fertilizer plant by Electric Reduction Co. of Canada Ltd.

A special government committee investigated air, soil and water pollution problems in the area and concluded that industrial pollutants do not present any danger to human health.

The CBC, in a news release, said that more than 30 experts, including doctors, scientists and engineers, were brought into the research for the program.

The government committee report, tabled in the legislature Tuesday, charged the CBC with "unwarranted, untruthful and irresponsible statements." It also said the CBC "treated a complex problem in a way designed to create alarm and fear."

The CBC said the experts they called have dealt with pollution problems in such large United States cities as Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, New York and Detroit.

In support of its refusal to supply information to the committee in response to their written questions, the CBC said it was the opinion of its legal counsel that the questions asked went beyond the terms of reference of the committee.

The CBC said awards for the program, included the Award of Excellence in all media from the Canadian Council of Resources Ministers.

Economic Gap Top Problem In Maritimes

By IAN DONALDSON

HALIFAX (CP) — Next week's federal-provincial constitutional conference in Ottawa will hear a great deal about regional disparity from Atlantic provinces spokesmen.

"It's the paramount issue," Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland said Tuesday.

"I plan to make a pitch in that regard," said Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick.

Premier G. I. Smith of Nova Scotia, who underscored his province's worry about regional disparity at the last federal-provincial constitutional talks in February, said, "Our position hasn't altered at all."

Only Prince Edward Island among the four Atlantic provinces appeared to be heading for the conference without feeling that regional disparity should be the top issue.

A spokesman for Premier Alex Campbell said the P.E.I. delegation was still discussing its plans, but there was a feeling that nothing much new could be said about the economic gap between the Atlantic provinces and most of the rest of Canada.

Three of the premiers head Liberal governments. Mr. Smith, successor to former premier Robert Stanfield, is the only Progressive Conservative. All four plan to attend the three-day meeting which opens Monday.

The four provinces, with about 10 per cent of the country's overall population of 20,000,000, have consistently lagged behind the other six provinces in a wide range of public services.

Mr. Smallwood said in an interview from his home outside St. John's that constitutional matters, while important in themselves, were less important "to the people of Newfoundland and I believe to the people of a lot of other provinces" than the question of regional disparity.

Mr. Smith said Nova Scotia "will take the line that our two major problems, one relating to language and culture and the other to regional disparities, are of equal importance."

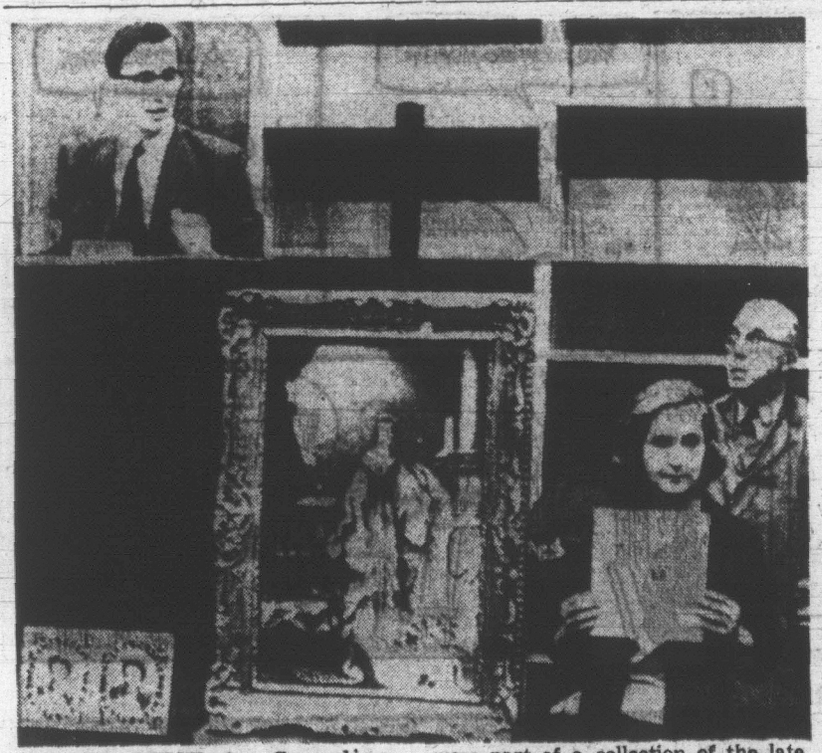

New Brunswick, with about one-third of its population French-speaking, does not have "strong views" on the Canadian constitution, Premier Robichaud told a television audience this week.

The British North America Act, which had served for more than a century, should not be "thrown into the wastepaper basket to start from scratch as some people would advocate," he said.

Three of the four premiers will enter the conference satisfied with Prime Minister Trudeau's proposed formula for federal-provincial sharing of offshore mineral rights. Only Mr. Smith has questioned it.

Jobless Rate 3.3%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. unemployment in November dropped to its lowest point in 15 years, the labor department reported today. The rate was 3.3 per cent.

RECORD PRICE for Canadian stamps—$44,200—was paid today by an anonymous Japanese buyer for a pair of 12-penny stamps from Canada's first postal issue in 1851. An auctioneer, left, at Christie's in London, England, calls for bids while a woman displays the stamps, which were part of a collection of the late pioneer aviator, Capt. Vivian Hewitt, who originally bought the stamps for 1,400 pounds in 1934. On the easel is an 1837 portrait of Queen Victoria by A. E. Chalon used by the engraver for the stamp. (CP Wirephoto)

HOME GARDEN

Winter Jobs Important

By HILDA BEASTALL

As a relief from indoor Christmas season preparations, any gardener will be happy to get out for an hour's work in the garden. If there is a job waiting, so much the better. Perhaps a shrub with a lot of dead wood has been needing attention; a lilac with only one live section remaining or a small laburnum tree which died two years ago but was never removed.

Hilda

A small sharp saw and a pair of hand secateurs will probably do the job, and it won't matter too much if the entire work is not completed in one day.

A bonfire of discarded woody material can make another hour's work.

We need these outdoor activities not only for exercise in fresh air, but to keep us in touch with our plants. How else can we know whether buds of Witch-hazel (Hamamelis) are about to open? Or the catkins on filberts are lengthening?

Perhaps too, we have forgotten about cutting back old flowered portions of late fall blooming perennials.

In some cases, as with the large dark pink Sedum spectabile, new growth buds are already clustered at the base of each old stem. The old stems will provide these with a little shelter, so leave them until March or so before removing.

Daylilies (Hemerocallis), especially the earliest varieties to flower, are similarly sheltering next year's growths at the base of this year's old leaf and flower stems.

It is enough just to shorten old growth.

An excess of tidyness at this time can result in unnecessary winter damage to new shoots encouraged by mild weather.

While enjoying these garden forays, unexpected plants will bring themselves to the attention, as being suitable for indoor Christmas decorations.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prize? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jimmy Ball, age 14, of Claremore, Oklahoma, for his question:

How far south do birds migrate?

There are hundreds of different migrating birds and each species has its own ideas about which direction and how far to fly to spend the winter. Many fly north in sumer to nest in our territory. Others nest on the northern tundra and fly south to enjoy our warmer winter climate.

The owl and the mourning dove and dozens of other birds are permanent residents in our territory, but most birds prefer to avoid our changing summer and winter climates. Come fall, they fly south to enjoy warmer climates while we are enduring the winter's cold. Countless millions of birds migrate short distances and long distances between their summer and winter residences. Coots and killdeer migrate a few hundred miles between our central and northern states and the mild regions along the Gulf Coast or the California shoreline. Wrens and phoebes, loons and bitters, snipes, and countless song sparrows also are short distance migrators between the northern and southern regions of our continent.

The heron and grebe, the crow and the kingfisher, the robin and many others vary this pattern. Some members fly farther north for the summer while others nest in the southern states. In winter, California and the Gulf States are crowded with assorted birds that have migrated short distances from the north. Many shore birds that nest on the tundra during the Artic summer fly several hundreds of miles south to winter in Canada and the New England States.

Nests in Arctic

But to the champion migrators, a few hundred miles is no trip at all. The handsome little bobolink nests in our northern states and migrates to winter on the grassy pampas way down south in Argentina. To and fro, he migrates over a distance of more than 6,000 miles. The leggy white stork spends the summer nesting on rooftops in Europe and parts of Asia. In winter he takes off for South Africa. He dislikes crossing water, so he takes a route across either Gibraltar or the Red Sea to avoid the Mediterranean. The one-way trip is between 5,000 and 6,000 miles long. The summer nesting grounds of the pectoral sandpiper are on the Arctic tundra. Come fall, he starts forth on a flight of at least 8,000 miles to the southern shores of South America. In spring he makes the return trip.

The champion long distance bird, so far as we know, is the Arctic tern. He is a smallish white bird with a forked tail and a neat black cap on his head. The champ nests in the Arctic tundra. Come spring, he takes off with flocks of his relatives on a migration flight of at least 10,000 miles. Some take a route along the eastern Pacific and some go by way of the eastern Atlantic. They arrive in time to spend Thanksgiving near Antarctica. After a short rest they start on the 10,000 mile flight back to the Arctic.

The woodcock and several other solitary characters prefer to make their migration flights alone, but most species migrate in flocks. Across North America there are four main flyways, one to the east and one to the west and two down the centre of the continent.

★ ★ ★

Andy sends a World Book Globe to Rosanne Nesbitt, age 12, of Rochester, New York, for her question:

Why do guinea pigs grind their teeth?

A chubby little guinea pig is one of he dearest of all pets. He is a very gentle character, not given to temper tantrums. As a matter of fact, he does little to protest, even when things go wrong for him. At such times, his only complaint may be a very soft mumbling growl—and perhaps he also grinds his teeth. But usually a guinea pig that grinds his teeth is just trying to talk to you in his very own language. He may be telling you how happy he is to be with you and not complaining at all.

Of course, you should do your very best to keep him content. He needs a varied diet with lots of C, A and B vitamins and extra vitamin E. Rabbit pellets, carrots and celery are good for him. He also needs to be handled gently. When you pick him up, slip your forearm under his furry body, bend your elbow and let him sit comfortably close to your heart.

On Knowing Cost of Operation

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Many readers of this column have written to ask, "Why did my surgeon refuse to tell me what my operation would cost? He would not discuss the subject, and yet I felt that I should know about how much money I should get from the bank for all the expenses of my operation; I felt I had a right to know."

Alvarez

I agree that the surgeon ought to be willing to discuss this subject, but I know that many surgeons refuse to tell what they will charge. I once asked the business manager of a big clinic why he would not discuss costs with patients, and he said that sometimes when the surgeon opens an abdomen he finds a big cancer instead of the small ulcer he expected to see, and then a much bigger operation is needed. Also, occasionally then a second or third operation may be needed.

Years ago I discussed this problem with the great surgeon Dr. Frank Lahey, who founded the Lahey Clinic of Boston. He said, "I am always willing to tell a patient what his charge will be; I know the argument against this, but when in our clinic we do hundreds of operations a year, the costs average out; sometimes an operation takes less time than we thought it would, and sometimes it takes more time."

Although amyotrophic lateral sclerosis is a rare disease, I frequently get letters from unhappy people who either have the trouble or have a loved one afflicted with it.

I will never forget when the great baseball player, Lou Gehrig, came to the Mayo Clinic with this trouble. As a result of newspaper write-ups, the illness came to be called, by laymen, Lou Gehrig's disease.

The disease is due to progressive damage to nerves that come out of the upper part of the spinal cord. It may produce atrophy or marked thinning of muscles in the hands, and as a result, the hands lose strength and do not work well. Unfortunately, our neurologists do not know what the cause is, and hence, they do not know of any curative treatment.

In recent years, many drug users have taken to injecting medicine into veins. This gives a more sudden and powerful action. Because these people do not know the importance of long boiling of hypodermic needles borrowed from a pal, more and more cases are being reported of severe infection of, and damage to, the liver. I just saw a report in the Journal of the AMA (American Medical Association) of 262 cases, in which the person had been "mainlining," or injecting one or more drugs directly into a vein. These persons run a big risk of losing their lives. There are two types of viral injury to the liver—one usually mild and without danger to life, and the other, severe and sometimes fatal.

FLASHBACK ON CANADA

Radisson in Jumps From Side to Side

By BOB BOWMAN

One of the most difficult jobs in Canadian history is to try to follow the career of Pierre Radisson who perhaps had more adventures than any other explorer. He was nearly killed by the Iroquois several times, and could have been hanged as a traitor by both England and France. His own writings are very confusing.

Bowman

Radisson was brought up in the Three Rivers area and became a fur trader, but defected to England in 1665 where his activities led to the founding of the Hudson's Bay Company. However, he was disappointed when King Charles only gave him a "gold chain and medal" and returned to Quebec in 1676.

After serving with the French navy for two years, Radisson led an expedition to establish fur trading posts for France in Hudson Bay. He captured fur traders there who were from England and New England and took them to Quebec.

Governor de la Barre released the prisoners and allowed them to return to their homes because England and France had signed a Treaty of Neutrality on December 11, 1687. Radisson was so disappointed not to have received some reward for his service that he returned to England to work again for the Hudson Bay Company. Eventually he became a British subject, and when he died the company gave his widow six pounds (about $18 in today's money) in recognition of his work.

The Treaty of Neutrality signed by England and France was probably a tongue-in-cheek affair which neither country expected would last for long.

In 1697 King Louis ordered Pierre LeMoyne (Iberville) to recapture Hudson Bay for France which he did by defeating three English warships. It was the biggest naval victory ever won by France, and it took a Montreal boy to do it.

Other events on December 11:

1753 — George Washington claimed Ohio Valley for Virginia, then a British colony.

1868—A commission was appointed to build a railway between Halifax and Quebec.

1893 — Chateau Frontenac Hotel at Quebec was opened.

1908—Joint committee of church union drew up a basis for union.

1936—King Edward VIII abdicated and became Duke of Windsor.

1948 — Canada and Newfoundland agreed on terms of Newfoundland to join Confederation. The agreement was approved by the Newfoundland Commission Government in February 1949.

Cyprus Mandate Extended by UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Security Council has unanimously decided to renew the mandate of the United Nations peacekeeping force on Cyprus for another six months.

Canada has been a major contributor to the force since it was created in 1964. Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff agreed to the extension although he joined with other countries in asking for a report on the situation in the island republic in three months.

Students' Image Of Businessman 'Just Terrible'

The average student has a "just terrible" image of the businessman—as someone ruthless and grasping who will do anything for profit.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president Clare Copeland told an executive meeting Monday this was the impression he and another chamber member gathered after speaking at two schools this year.

And Peter Bunn, chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, said today he was delighted the student message was getting across.

Mr. Copeland said he hoped the picture students had of business could be changed and young people would be persuaded the profit system was a legitimate way of life which added up to the best for everybody.

PROFITS NOT EVIL

A career exposition, where students could approach and talk to businessmen, is one way the chamber hopes to accomplish this.

Perhaps then students would realize that profits were not evil, that they paid wages, provided services and educated people, chamber members were told.

Mr. Bunn said he thought the student reaction shows the education system is working.

"These young people are thinking—they're not accepting the fast-buck tactics that dominate our way of life. I'm delighted by this demonstration to the chamber."

'QUIET REVOLT'

Perhaps it is time for business—both big and small—to reshape its image, said the school board chairman. He added that he is a free-enterprise supporter but that business must operate with a conscience.

"Today's students reject the boy who makes a million by the time he's 25 as a messiah. This is the quiet revolt of young thinking human beings."

Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo, who attended Monday's chamber meeting, said he thought the plan to get together with young people was the most important aspect in its program.

Chamber members who are teachers, professional people, businessmen and government representatives will be on the committee which will work for a better understanding with youth, said Mr. Copeland.

That Waste: Is It Really Garbage?

Victoria city council will take a look at its garbage collection bylaw with the view to permit garden waste to be placed in garbage bins.

Existing regulations forbid homeowners to place grass cuttings or hedge clippings into regulation garbage cans.

The matter came to light Tuesday when Mrs. G. D. Luker, now residing in Saskatoon, paid $7 to the city to bring the taxes on her city property up to date.

Mrs. Luker said she had withheld payment of the $7 to protest refusal of garbagemen to take away her garbage bin because it contained grass clippings.

In her covering letter to the public works committee, she said she didn't know how garbagemen distinguished between kitchen waste and grass clippings but she objected to the difference anyway.

Mayor Hugh Stephen supported the protest.

"I don't know how you make a difference between potato peelings and grass clippings," he said. "Maybe we need an amendment to the bylaw."

Also on the garbage front was a decision to ask the intermunicipal committee to agree to a new policy whereby all member municipalities would agree to final disposal of garbage at the Hartland Road garbage dump.

The agreement reached late Tuesday will cost the city $1,000 a month and the entire district $50,000 a year.

The price increase will be brought about in January when the ban on burning of commercial garbage goes into effect.

The ban was imposed by the Greater Victoria Metropolitan board of health and subsequently endorsed by all municipalities.

With no burning in effect, all garbage will be compacted and covered with top-soil.

The committee also agreed to recommend a crackdown on building contractors who strew excavation mud over city streets.

Tenders Opened Thursday at 2

DUNCAN — Contractors have until 2 p.m. Thursday to submit tenders for reconstruction work on Cowichan senior secondary school, secretary G. F. Dyson said today.

Also out for tenders are fire escapes at Duncan elementary, a window van lease and school bus tires.

Building Declines

NORTH COWICHAN—Building permits here totalled $308,968 for November, down $172,000 for the corresponding period last year.

Permit values for the 11-month period this year total nearly $2,660,000. Last year the total was $3,074,000 during the same period.

TRADE DEFICIT FOR FRANCE

PARIS (Reuters) — France had a trade deficit of 1,000,000,000 francs (about $220,000,000) in November, it was announced Monday.

Imports for the month totalled 6,650,000,000 francs compared with 6,050,000,000 francs in October while exports were valued at 5,650,000,000 francs compared with 6,020,000,000 francs the previous month.

The November deficit compared with 33,000,000 francs in October.

GORDON HEAD AREA

Spring Start for Swim Pool

Construction is expected to start in the spring on a municipal swimming pool at the Lambrick Estate in Gordon Head.

But before this can happen, Saanich will have to decide what sort of community centre will go with the pool.

When ratepayers approved a $1.25 million referendum for indoor recreation in March, 1967, $470,000 was set aside for the swimming pool and community centre at Gordon Head.

"We have to make a decision," said Ald. Alan Newberry, chairman of a sub-committee handling details of the project.

"The swimming pool is no problem, the architects have their direction, but the community centre hangs in the balance.

GOOD POOL

"For the money we have, we can get a good pool but the community centre would be a pretty basic operation."

One suggestion, which will be considered by the sub-committee Thursday, is to convert the barn on the 44-acre property into a large hall, mainly for dances.

The Lambrick house, if it could be converted, might be a community centre for meetings.

In this way, more money could be spent on the swimming pool, which will be indoors in a new building and heated.

The architects are looking into these possibilities, said Ald. Newberry.

LARGE ROOM

If Saanich doesn't go for this, the community centre might be one large room and a couple of committee rooms, he said.

"The committee felt we shouldn't sacrifice the pool for the community centre," he said.

Site for the swimming pool has been approved and architects are working on sketch plans.

Ald. Newberry said construction will probably start in the spring, providing financing is all right, and the project would probably be finished late in 1969.

The Lambrick Estate was purchased by Saanich in 1965 for $250,000 from the family of the late A. G. Lambrick, a former Saanich reeve. It lies within a slightly broader area bounded by Torquay, Kenmore, Tyndall and Feltham.

AIR MASSES RADIOACTIVE

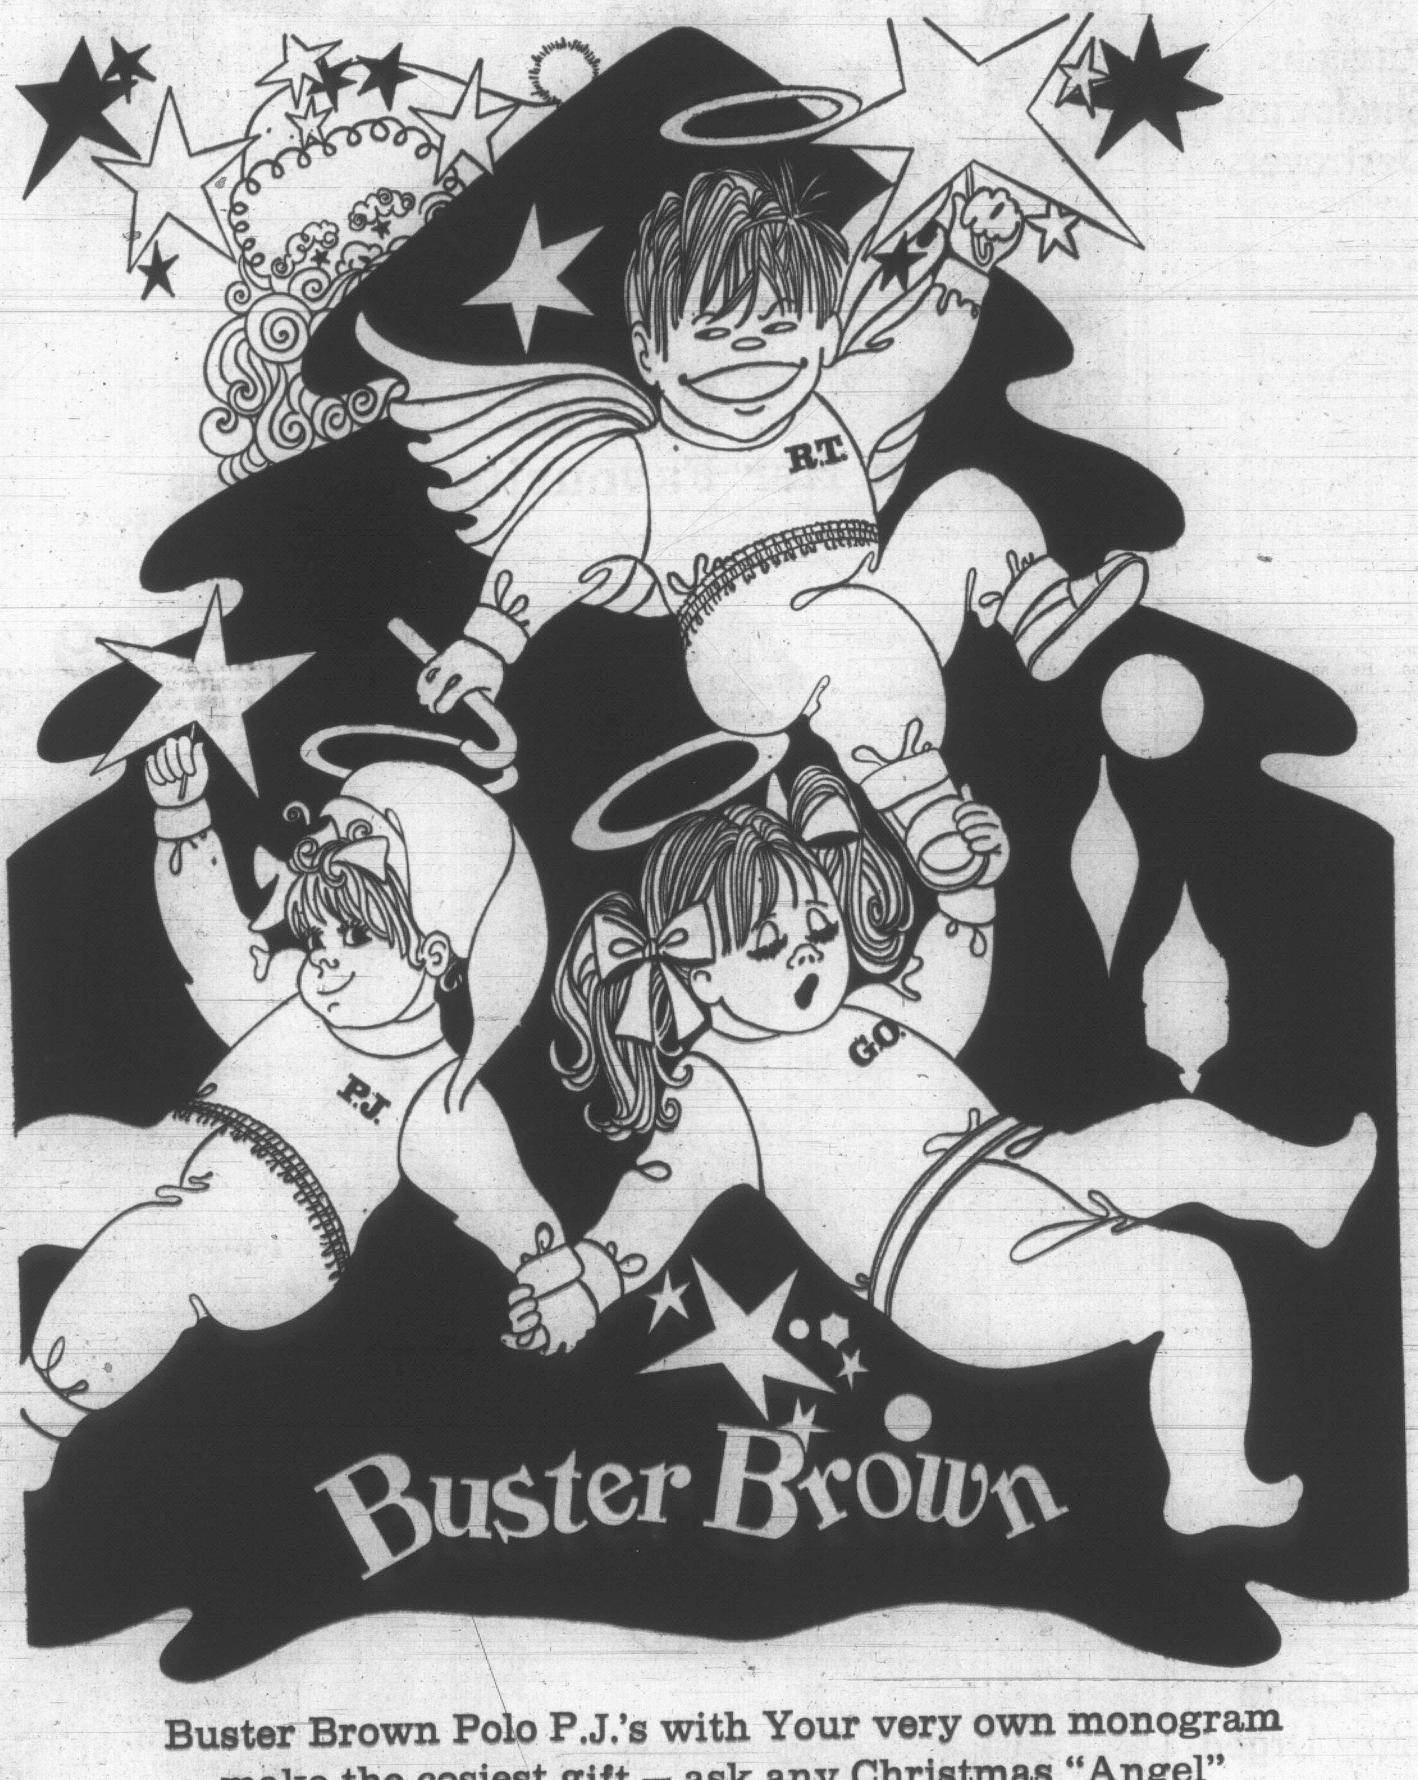

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Two radioactive air masses went beyond the underground Nevada test site after Sunday's nuclear test but radiation readings were infinitesimal, the Atomic Energy Commission said Monday. One of the air masses was about 100 miles south of Salt Lake City, Utah, Monday and the other was drifting into northeast Colorado, the AEC said. Sunday's explosion was described as of low intermediate yield.

Saanich Boosts School Budget By 16 Per Cent

A provisional operating budget for next year of $2,680,980 was presented at a meeting of the Saanich Peninsula school board Monday night.

The total, about 16 per cent higher than this year's budget, does not include money for debt service and non-sharable capital, secretary-treasurer Gordon Blair said today.

The school district's operating budget for 1968 was $2,258,789.

The new budget is the first affected by the provincial government's revised finance formula. The school board has been advised by the department of education that the cost of its approved basic operating program next year is $2,632,238.

The department also estimated the basic levy on taxpayers next year will be 25.5 mills.

The provisional budget will be reviewed and made final by trustees before it goes to the education department for approval by Feb. 15.

In other business, the school board accepted the resignation of Claremont high school teacher R. W. Wickstrom who will study in Mexico for a master's degree in linguistics.

Scheduled for today is a school board tour of the district with education Minister Donald Brothers. Later, trusttes will have dinner and informal discussions with the education minister.

Russians Shadowing Destroyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians have been tailing two U.S. destroyers cruising the Black Sea but have avoided harassing them, Navy sources said today.

At least one Russian destroyer has shadowed the Dyess and the Turner, staying generally two to nine miles astern of them.

Sources said the 3,500-ton destroyers have been overflown also by Soviet planes "more than once" since they entered the Black Sea Monday through the Bosporus, the narrow Turkish-controlled strait that splits Europe from Asia.

Navy headquarters is keeping close tabs through radio messages on progress of the U.S. ships, whose cruise has been denounced by the Soviets as provocation and as "a show of force close to the Soviet border."

Sources said Russian planes have kept at least 1,000 feet above the warships and have not attempted any harrassment such as buzzing.

Navy officers said the destroyers will remain "well in side international waters" and will attempt no port calls.

Fists Fly In Swiss Parliament

BERN (Reuters) — Fists flew in the Swiss Parliament today when 27 young Jura separatists burst in and stopped proceedings for five minutes.

The youths, from the militant Belier separatist group, waved a red-and-white Jura flag and brandished placards demanding that their French-speaking homeland be split from the German-speaking Bern Canton.

When ushers could not eject them from the hall, members of Parliament joined in the struggle.

One youth, Jean-Claude Montavon, harangued members of Parliament on the Beliers' demands for a separate administration for the Jura, which has been part of Bern canton since the 1815 Congress of Vienna.

Two-China Policy Urged

NEW YORK (Reuters) — Arthur Goldberg, former United States ambassador to the United Nations, Tuesday urged seating of both Communist and Nationalist China in the UN.

In a television interview, he said the UN "should be a place where all nations of the world gather, whether we like their policies or not, and therefore I am an advocate of a two-China policy."

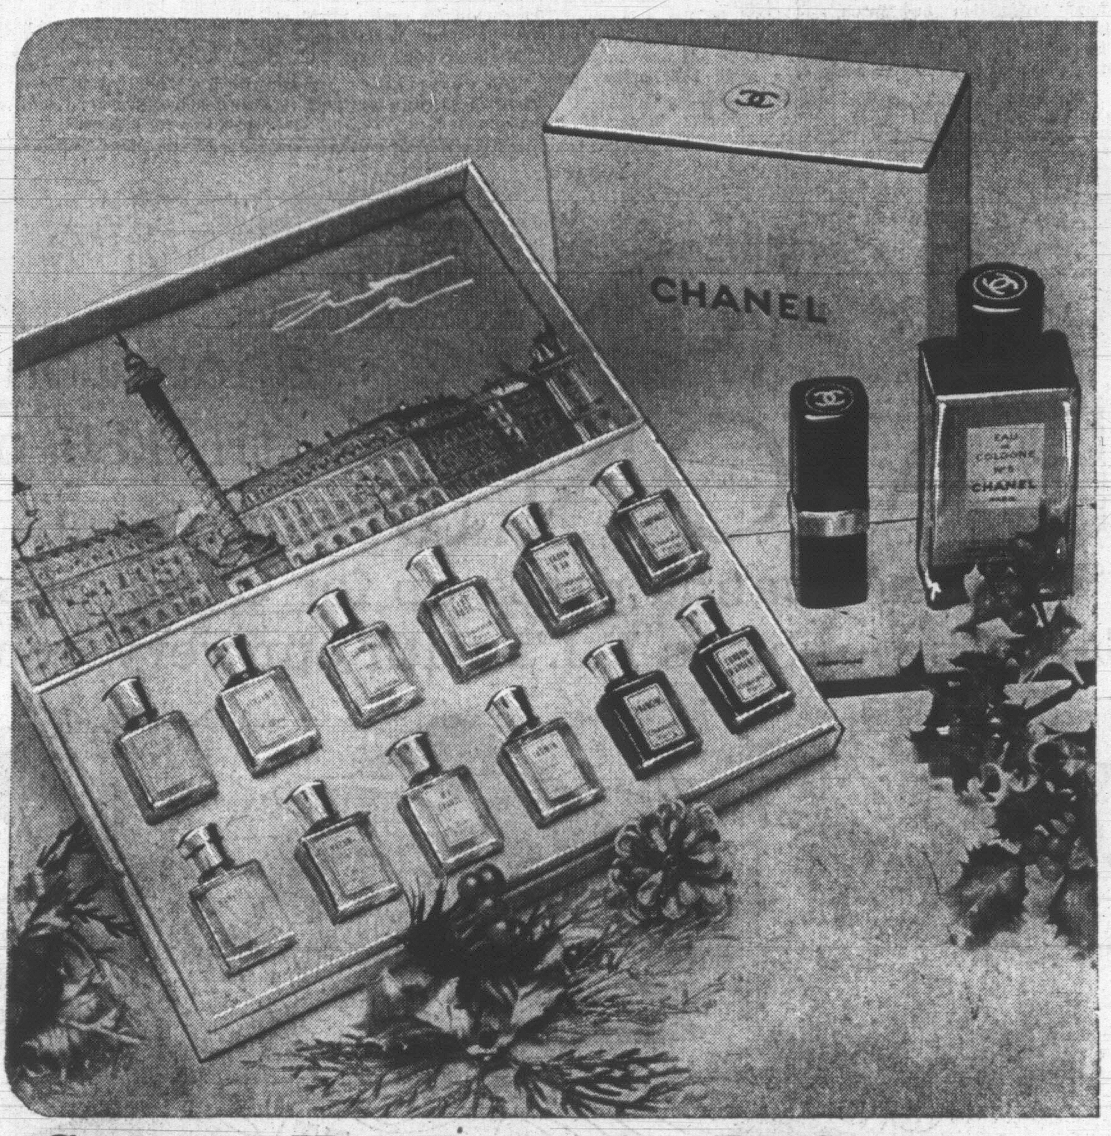

Royal Visit

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon will visit Tokyo to open a British week next September, it was announced today. It will be the Princess' farthest trip east of Suez, a Kensington Palace spokesman said. Her husband already has visited Tokyo. The royal couple are expected to spend about a week in the Japanese capital, the announcement said.

Swiss Banks Increasing Cover for U.S. Hoodlums, Tax Evaders

By FRANK C. PORTER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Swiss banks are providing an increasing shelter for American hoodlums, gamblers, smugglers, stock market swindlers, corporate insiders reaping illegal windfalls, profit-hiding businessmen and "enormous numbers" of investors seeking to avoid U.S. taxes, congress was told Monday.

The testimony came from Robert M. Morgenthau, U.S. attorney for the southern district of New York.

He said enforcement officials have received "virtually no co-operation" from banks in Switzerland and other countries that have similar bank secrecy laws.

As a result of this and other testimony, chairman Wright Patman (D—Texas) of the house banking and currency committee said he will seek legislation from the new Congress making it a criminal offense for Americans to do business with foreign financial institutions who refuse to open their books to U.S. regulatory agencies.

UNFAIR TO PUBLIC

The use of foreign banks—particularly Swiss—to circumvent American taxes and criminal penalties has long been known. But Monday's hearing reveal how widespread the abuses have become.

For example, Morgenthau said, the number of ordinary U.S. stock market investors who have learned how to escape income taxes by trading through foreign banks "is now very large and represents a loss of tax revenues in the many millions of dollars."

These abuses not only constitute a "basic unfairness" to the 99 per cent of U.S. taxpayers who report their income honestly but put pressure on them to cut corners too, Morgenthau said.

Assistant attorney-general Fred M. Vinson, Jr., told the committee that "we are aware that a bank in Geneva is being used on a continuing basis as a transfer point for Las Vegas 'skim' and other illegally obtained funds for the benefit of known racketeers."

In answer to questions, Vinson explained how this operation works:

After each shift or day's play, a casino's take is brought to the counting room where a certain proportion is skimmed and dispatched by courier to a Swiss bank. The remainder is the gross which shows up on the casino's tax return.

STERN BANK LAWS

The skim goes tax free and undetected since the Swiss Banking Act provides stern penalities, including jail sentences, to anyone who discloses banking secrets—even to a foreign official agency.

Other areas whose banking systems are used to hide unscrupulous U.S. operations include Panama, Curacao, Hong Kong, Leichtenstein, Nassau and West Germany, the witnesses said. But they made clear that Switzerland, as the third largest financial centre of the world after New York and London, presents the gravest problem.

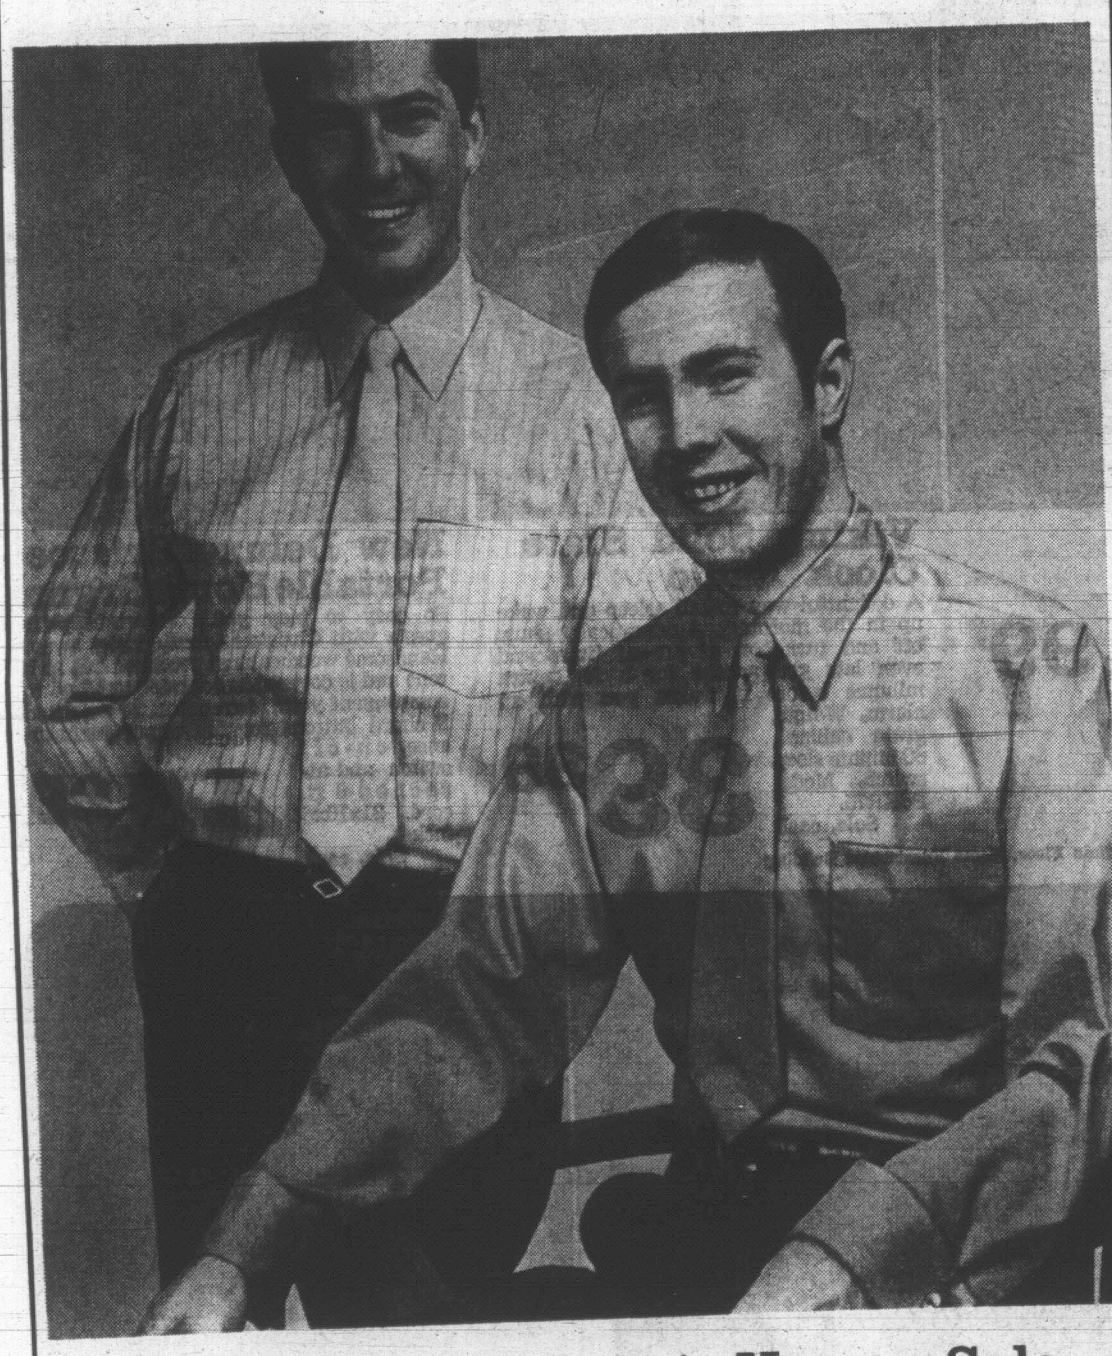

As for tax evasion, Morgenthau and Vinson explained how Swiss Banks maintain "omnibus-accounts" with U.S. brokers. U.S. customer cables his Swiss bank to buy or sell securities and the bank executes it through the U.S. broker. But if the internal revenue service or justice department, suspecting tax avoidance, checks the brokers' records, they cannot trace it to the customer since the transaction shows up as merely between the broker and the bank.

JETLINER HIJACKED ON INAUGURAL TRIP

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The captain of a Trans World airliner on an inaugural flight from St. Louis, Mo., to Miami radioed today that "a guy has a gun at my back" and the plane with 40 passengers and seven crew members aboard had changed course for Cuba.

"He is forcing us to go to Havana," Capt. Dennis Maloney advised the Atlanta, Ga., control tower. The plane landed at Havana.

HOSPITALIZED

Que. Premier Asks Delay In Conference

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, undergoing medical examination at the Cardiologoy Institute of Laval Hospital, today asked that the federal-provincial constitutional conference scheduled in Ottawa Dec. 16 - 18 be postponed.

BERTRAND
. . . advised to rest

The premier was admitted to hospital Monday night "following persistent discomfort for a month," said a statement issued by his office. He entered the institute to "undergo tests."

There was no other explanation of the premier's 'discomfort."

The statement said:

"His doctors have advised him to remain in the hospital then take three weeks of complete rest."

Mr. Bertrand, in the statement, said the federal-provincial conference on fiscal arrangements should be held in Ottawa Dec. 19 as scheduled despite his continement.

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal will become acting premier during Mr. Bertrand's absence, the statement added.

Mr. Bertrand's justice portfolio will be assumed by Solicitor-General Armand Matlais and the premier's intergovernmental affairs portfolio by Marcel Masse, minister without porfolio.

The Union Nationale's house leader, Labor Minister Maurice Bellemare, will represent the government at ceremonies to prorogue the legislative assembly session, the statement said. It was not immediately clear whether the session would be ended immediately.

The statement was issued following a meeting at the Cardiology Institute between Mr. Bertrand and three of his cabinet ministers—Mr. Bellemare, Mr. Cardinal and Finance Minister Paul Dozois.

TWO PREMIERS DIED

Any step taken by a Quebec government leader to obtain medical attention causes widespread speculation because of the deaths of two premiers from heart attacks in the last eight years.

Daniel Johnson died Sept. 26 this year at Manicougan, a huge power site in eastern Quebec. Paul Sauve died in St. Eustache, Que., Jan. 2, 1960.

Immediately after Mr. Johnson's death several political figures commented about the need to reorganize the work load on Quebec premiers so that it would not be crushing.

Mr. Bertrand was sworn in as Quebec's 21st premier Oct. 2.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Trudeau began consulting other premiers hurriedly today concerning Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand's request for a postponement in the federal-provincial constitutional conference.

Observers here generally agreed it would be difficult for Mr. Trudeau or the other provinces to refuse the Quebec request.

Presumed Drowned

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Russell Shaw, 21, and Victor Beynon, 15, were missing and presumed drowned today in the Gardner Canal, 70 miles southeast of Prince Rupert. The two, from Kitkatla Village, set out on Monday in a 12-foot aluminum boat which was found Tuesday.

A BATTLE OVER TABLES is holding up the Paris peace talks. The U.S. and North Vietnam can't get to the negotiating table until they negotiate the shape of the table. The U.S. prefers a rectangular table, North Vietnam a square table. A possible compromise is a round table around which each delegation can interpret its own symbolic importance. (AP Wirephoto)

Status Wrangle Delays Start Of Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — The wrangle over prestige symbols threatens to delay indefinitely the start of the enlarged Vietnam peace talks.

Some American officials who once were confident that the talks would get under way early this week now appear to have lost hope of starting before the end of the year. Some Western diplomats from other countries think the deadlock might continue until President-elect Nixon's inauguration Jan. 20.

In a two-hour meeeting Tuesday, U.S. negotiator Cyrus Vance and Col. Ha Van Lau of North Vietnam deadlocked again over such issues as the shape of the conference table and the speaking order at the first meeting.

Vance and Lau also exchanged protests over air and artillery activity in North Vietnam and the demilitarized zone, but both appeared more concerned with the dispute over procedure for the talks than with the protests.

The United States earlier turned down Hanoi's proposal that the conference meet at a square table, an arrangement which would symbolize that the delegation from the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front was on an equal basis with the delegations from the United States and North Vietnam.

U.S. REJECTS PROPOSAL

Although this would also give Saigon's delegation a side of its own and would thus undercut the NLF's contention that the Saigon government is a bunch of U.S. puppets who don't represent the South Vietnamese people, the United States rejected the square table. Instead it demanded a two-sided confrontation, with the Communists on one long side of a rectangular table and the Americans and Saigon representatives on the other.

If a square table was unacceptable, Lau said Tuesday, the conference could meet at four separate tables, equally spaced and arranged in a diamond or circular formation. But Vance rejected this.

Lau also turned down an American proposal that two lots be drawn for the speaking order and insisted on four lots instead. Vance rejected that also.

There were reports that France, as host to the conference, was putting out compromise suggestions. One of these called for a round table, allowing each side to give its own interpretation of the status of each delegation.

A compromise over the speaking order at the opening meeting appeared more difficult.

Jones Wins Case Against Bennett

'Public Impatient For Reform'

Times News Services

OTTAWA (CP) — Opening salvoes were fired Tuesday in a battle on a controversial government plan to overhaul Commons rules of procedure and it seemed to presage a lively scrap.

Prime Minister Trudeau argued that the government measure is in line with the thinking of Canadians who are "impatient" for reform of Parliament.

Opposition Leader Stanfield said it would have the "ominous effect" of building the power of the government at the expense of individual Canadians.

Spokesmen for all three opposition parties zeroed in on a government proposal to allocate time for debates. Under it, apportionment of time would be arranged by an all-party committee.

But in the event of a boycott of the committee by the opposition parties, the government member—House Leader Donald S. Macdonald—could constitute himself a quorum of one and draw up recommendations for presentation to the House. And if the committee met and failed to agree, the government could set its own time limit on debate.

KNOWLES OBJECTS

"This rule must not be written into the standing orders of this House," declared Stanley Knowles, the NDP House leader.

"It just has to go," said Mr. Stanfield.

Gilbert Rondeau (Creditiste—Shefford) said rule changes are needed to improve the Parliament's public image. But democracy would be the main victim if the rule passed.

The contentious debate-limiting proposal is contained in the report of a 12-man special committee on rules of procedure headed by Gordon Blair (L—Grenville-Carleton).

Opening his low-keyed discussion of the case, as he saw it, for a renovation of parliamentary procedure, the Prime Minister called the parliamentary system a heritage and the system best suited to the needs and traditions of Canadians but warned that it was subject to the universal law of life: "Adapt or wither away."

"It is not sufficient," he said, "for us merely to cherish this heritage as if it were a relic of interest only to historians. We must reform it so that in our

Supreme Court Restores Award

OTTAWA (CP) — In a unanimous decision, the Supreme Court of Canada today restored a trial judge's finding that Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia slandered a former provincial public servant.

The high court's judgment, written by Chief Justice J. R. Cartwright, also restored an award of $15,000 in damages to George Jones, who was the province's purchasing agent until 1965 when he was removed from office by an act of the B.C. legislature.

While the act was under debate, Mr. Bennett spoke to the Social Credit Association at Victoria on a number of matters and during his speech said:

"I'm not going to talk about the Jones boy. I could say a lot, but let me just assure you of this. The position taken by the government is the right position."

PREMIER SUED

Mr. Jones then sued the premier for slander and the trial judge found that the words were defamatory and calculated to disparage Mr. Jones in his office as chairman of the purchasing commission.

The B.C. court of appeal reversed the trial decision, saying that Mr. Bennett, because he held a high office and was reporting to electors, was protected in his speech by qualified privilege.

Said Chief Justice Cartwright in his judgment:

"The claim . . . appears to me to require an unwarranted extension of the qualified privilege which has been held to attach to communications made by an elector to his fellow electors of matters regarding a candidate which he honestly believes to be true and which, if true, would be relevant to the question of such candidate's fitness for office."

He said it was perfectly proper for a member of a legislature to speak to a meeting of supporters "but if in the course of addressing them he sees fit to make defamatory statements about another which are in fact untrue, it is difficult to see why the common convenience and welfare of society requires that such statements should be protected and the person defamed left without a remedy unless he can affirmatively prove express malice on the part of the speaker."

TRIAL JUDGE SUPPORTED

The chief justice said he agreed with the trial judge that any defence of privilege was erased because of the presence of two Victoria reporters at the meeting.

Their presence was known by the premier and in the words of the trial judge, the premier "must have known that whatever he did say would be communicated to the general public."

The chief justice said the removal of Mr. Jones from his office, which caused a political debate, "was a matter of public interest and a proper subject for comment by any member of the public."

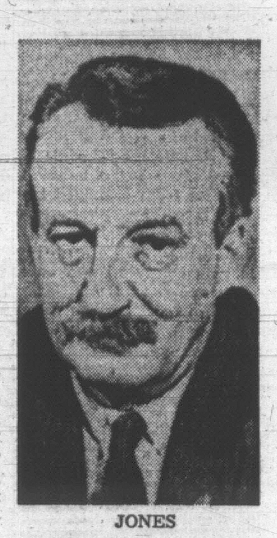

"But the sting of the words complained of does not appear to me to be comment at all."

APPEARED FOR JONES

Arguing for Mr. Jones in the appeal to the Supreme Court last month, Vancouver lawyer Tom Berger said Mr. Bennett's words carried the "unmistakeable impression that the reason for removal from office of Mr. Jones was discreditable to Mr. Jones."

Mr. Berger said the premier

Slow Progress In Air Talks

By The Canadian Press

Slow progress was indicated today in contract talks in Montreal between Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Employees Association, whose 2,200 members are following work-to-rule slowdown tactics.

There was no statement from negotiators for either side, but a company spokesman said there are inidcations that the bargaining session — involving pay, working conditions and other issues — will be a long one.

Meanwhile, Air Canada flights operated smoothly across the country despite the slowdown, which started Monday. No major delays were reported today by either company or union—which represents passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators.

Four flights were delayed about 20 minutes each Monday on the busy Montreal-Toronto run, but the airline says subsequent delays have amounted to only a minute or two.

Canadian Wheat Bought by Japan

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan today bought more than 300,000 metric tons of wheat from Australia and Canada to cover storages caused by suspension of U.S. wheat imports, Japan's food agency said.

Announcing acceptance of import tenders, the government department said this was the largest purchase it had ever made in a single tender.

The agency said the buy comprised 203,848 tons of Australian wheat and 104,200 tons of Canadian wheat, both for January and February shipments.

It said the unusually big purchase included emergency imports of more than 100,000 tons designed to fill in for American supplies.

Japan suspended imports of U.S. wheat last month after complaints that below-standard quality grain, some of it rain soaked and sprouting, had been shipped here.

Last Plane Pulled Out

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is withdrawing its last plane from the trouble-plagued Biafra relief operation, External Affairs Minister Sharp announced today.

He said the Hercules aircraft with the Red Cross operation will be pulled out because of the "failure" of the secessionist Biafran regime to agree to daylight flights.

The federal Nigerian government meanwhile had reaffirmed its ban on night flights.

Crime-Busting N.Y. Lawyer Likely Choice for State Post

By SIDNEY WELLAND

NEW YORK (Reuters) — A gang-busting lawyer virtually unknown outside the United States today appeared almost certain to become state secretary in Richard M. Nixon's new administration.

Qualified sources said the president-elect chose former attorney-general William P. Rogers, 55, for the job.

Nixon will present his cabinet at 7 PST tonight on a half-hour television hook-up with the three major U.S. networks.

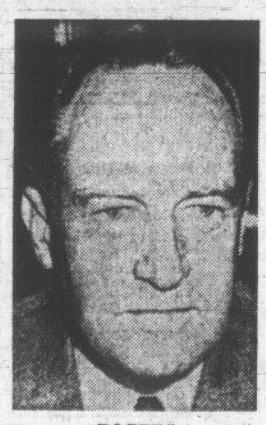

Rogers, attorney-general in the Eisenhowere administration from 1957-61, first made his name as a tough lawyer fighting organized crime in New York almost 30 years ago. In five years, he prosecuted more than 1,000 gangsters.

Now a private lawyer, Rogers has been one of Nixon's closest confidantes for many years.

EXPERIENCE LIMITED

Rogers's experience in diplomacy has been limited to three brief missions. In 1960 he made an African tour as an Eisenhowere emissary, in 1955 he attended a United Nations conference on prison conditions and last year he served as a delegate on the UN committee debating the future of South-West Africa.

Reliable sources said Nixon, whose Republican team takes office Jan. 20, was expected to appoint Congressman Melvin R. Laird, 46, a hardline conservative who shares his view that the U.S. must strengthen its military arsenal, as defence secretary.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, 61, a self-made millionaire who launched a brief bid for the Republican presidential candidacy this year, was expected to become secretary of housing and urban development.

John N. Mitchell, 55, a partner in Nixon's law firm and his chief election campaign strategist, appeared certain to become attorney-general.

Another close friend, Lt.-Gov. Robert H. Finch of California, 43, will be given a major domestic post, probably as secretary of health, education and welfare.

LIST POSTS

Informed sources said other $35,000-a-year cabinet posts appeared likely for the following, although last-minute changes still are regarded possible:

Labor Secretary— George P. Schultz, 48, dean of Chicago University's graduate school of business.

Transportation Secretary — Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, 60.

Interior Secretary — Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska, 49.

Commerce Secretary — Former budget bureau director Maurice Stans, 60.

Agriculture Secretary — Clifford M. Hardin, 53, chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

Postmaster-General — Winston M. Bloung, 47, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

CHILDREN OF ASIA

For Some, It's a Real Sacrifice to Give

By SUSAN RILEY

Behind every Unitarian Service Committee dollar there is a story.

The theme is usually the same — generosity. The characters and the setting vary.

It isn't always the rich who give to the USC, said executive director Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova. Much support comes from Canadians for whom it is a real sacrifice to give.

Pensioners, living on $75 a month, send cheques regularly.

In Biggar, Saskatchewan, a housewife wrote: "I wish I could send more but I have to live on my old age pension and I cannot spare much after paying rent and light and heat bills."

"I care," said a letter to Dr. Hitschmanova from a teenage girl in Lewisville, N.B. "I have just started work and I figure I may as well put my first pay cheque to good use."

Her dollar will buy 13 bowls of barley for hungry children in Korea.

An 89-year-old pensioner from Vancouver wrote this to the USC: "This is a small donation to help. I am an old man. I hope you will be able to send many carloads of milk to those poor hungry children."

His dollar will buy milk for an Indian child for 100 days.

A family in St. John's Newfoundland, has found its own way to help the hungry. They have a special "famine can," and every Sunday at noon parents and three children hold a token fast, of milk and bread. They give what they save to the USC.

Their money is buying 25 copious meals for slum-dwellers in Calcutta.

A mother of seven from Oil City, Ontario, sent in a contribution and a short note: "It makes me feel sad and perhaps a little guilty that we who live in Canada have a lot to be thankful for. Even the poor here are better off than in other countries."

"Sad and perhaps a little guilty," she said.

These people are not rich. They are just generous Canadians who don't want children anywhere starving in 1968.

USC staffers overseas get letters too. The people who write them aren't rich either.

"Pardon one for troubling you in writing on a piece of paper like this. I am a poor person, homeless with no shelter, sleeping on the roadside and going through starvation daily. I pray that you will come to my assistance."

Dr. Hitschmanova hears thousands of these stories a year. "But I never get tired.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, DEC. 11, 1968—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

For the last several minutes, I have been trying to persuade a phoner-in that she should let me affix her name to the brilliant idea she came up with while busy at her ironing.

But she won't change her mind—her family would laugh at her, she insists—and in consequence I can't render credit where due.

Our conversation started with a question. What, she wanted to know, will Kaiser Coal Company's railway cars bear back from the coast to the scene of operations near Crowsnest Pass?

I didn't know, but suggested American topsoil to replace the exact volume of coal extracted by strip-mining.

"Well," said the caller, "something else occurred to me. We're having a terrible time with our garbage disposal, I believe."

True. Speeches are made on the subject, councils debate it, but the problem remains unsolved. Meanwhile, the smoking, odorous, rat-infested dumps grow larger.

"What I would do," our housewife said, "is require Mr. Kaiser to load those empty cars with compressed garbage from our coast cities. He could then dump it into those great holes in our Rocky Mountain scenery. The garbage would not only help fill them, but encourage new growth."

It was at this point that I began pestering for her name. After all, she's the only person in government or out who has so far come up with a constructive suggestion as to how the aftermath of open-pit gouging can be handled.

But she had more ironing to do, and with the gentlest of chuckles, she rang off.

★

I don't really expect her idea to bear fruit. It's too practical, too deadly simple, and it would call for more governmental muscle than the leaders of this exploited province are likely to expend on a mere landscape-restoring measure.

It does, however, point up a fact that becomes more apparent with each ruinous inroad on a natural resource. This is that an increasing number of quiet Canadians are concerned over what they know is happening to the face of their country.

In British Columbia, the Buttle Lake escapade caused many a previously unconcerned citizen to wonder whither, in the matter of parkland protection, we might be drifting.

Reaction to strip-miners' methods as they are being used in the Kootenays has been angry and far-carrying.

We're still a long way from the day when "conservation" and "anti-pollution" will be words indispensable to the politician who hopes to win an election, but at least it's something to observe that spoilage now brings fast protest.

★

Since in B.C. we have suffered government-approved industrial intrusion into a provincial park, it might be as well to cast an eye on the province from which some of the loudest current protests are issuing.

This is Ontario, where lumbermen and conservationists have been slugging it out with an occasional cuff at a government whose works affront both sets of disputants.

The prize is 3,000 square mile Algonquin Park — a lake-studded woodland in which the Ontario government has permitted logging on a restricted basis since the tract was first set aside for park purposes.

The loggers are reaching for vast new helpings of Algonquin's "over-mature" timber. The conservation-minded are urging they be ousted from the park. The Ontario government, torn two ways, has come up with a provisional scheme that defines certain areas as primitive, allows "reasonable harvesting" of timber on others.

What it all boils down to is this: more Ontario parkland is to be sacrificed, in spite of the fact that each wild acre grows more precious in recreational terms with each surge of population.

We here might take a lesson from that fact.

Cholera Suspect Treated in City

Ship Quarantined Off Royal Roads

By W. RALPH THOMAS

A British ship is in quarantine off Royal Roads and one of its crewmen is in St. Joseph's Hospital undergoing tests for cholera.

Department of National Health and Welfare officials say it is unlikely the man has cholera, but they are taking no chances.

Dr. L. E. Davies, area director for the department, arrived from Vancouver to supervise the examination of the British crew of the grain freighter Harmattan.

PLAY SAFELY

He told the Times this morning the odds are nine to one that the stricken seaman does not have cholera, but added "we have to play it safely."

"I don't think it is cholera and I hope by the end of the week all the tests will prove negative," he said.

Hospital officials would not comment.

Concern began on Nov. 25 when the crewman became violently ill. The Harmattan was five days out of Shanghai, en route to Vancouver for a cargo of grain.

The ship's captain diagnosed the illness as cholera and radioed Tokyo for medical advice.

Canadian Department of Transport officials monitored the signals and advised the ship to proceed to Victoria.

It arrived three days ago and a veil of secrecy was thrown around the purpose of its visit.

SHOULDN'T KNOW

When asked by the Times this morning about the nature of the disease aboard the quarantined ship, a medical official said "you people (news media) are not supposed to know about this."

He echoed Dr. Davies' opinion that the seaman does not have cholera, and said the disease is probably salmonella or another type of food poisoning.

Cholera is a contagious gastro-intestinal infection characterized by acute diarrhea and vomiting. In India cholera epidemics take about 200,000 lives annually.

SCHOOL BANDS TO PERFORM

Massed bands from four secondary schools will perform in Centennial Square Wednesday Dec. 18.

The hour-long concert starts at 3 p.m. with bands from Oak Bay senior and junior high, Victoria high and Central junior high participating.

Family Flees House Fire At Sidney

"It was a miracle," said Mrs. Donald Dillon, who escaped with her husband and her four-months-old baby from a fire which gutted their 10415 All Bay Road home in Sidney early this morning.

The fire broke out at 4 a.m. and in mintues the house was enveloped in flames.

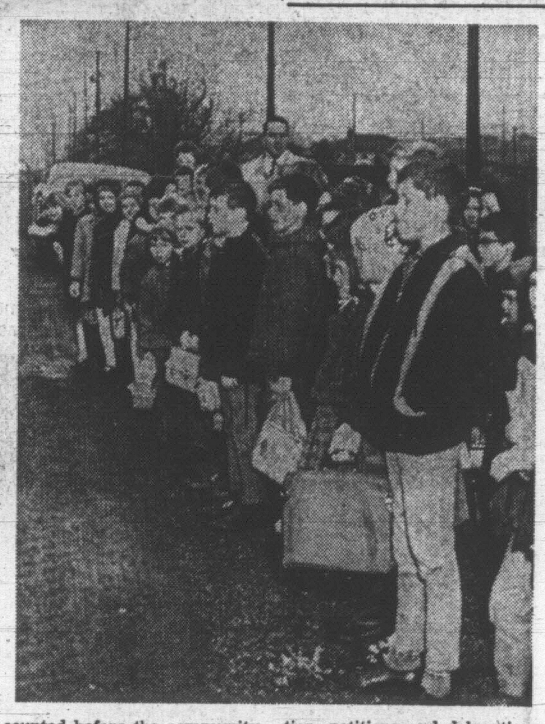

Mrs. Dillon said she and her husband had spent a restless night thinking about plans for moving to another home.

"The baby was restless too, she said. "It was probably the baby who kept us awake. My husband was dozing when I suddenly saw flames flickering in the living room."

She said she had just time to wake up her husband and pick up the baby in an adjoining bedroom.

The couple are staying at the home of Mrs. Dillon's mother, 3904 Cadboro Bay Road.

'Tis the Season for Giving And Youngsters Do Their Bit

The Christmas voices of children blend today with the work of Greater Victoria young people learning about and trying to improve the community in which they live.

The children, under the direction of teacher Margaret Patterson, presented the first of five 8:30 a.m. carol concerts in the council chamber ante-room.

PUBLIC INVITED

The public is invited to the concerts weekdays until Dec. 17.

The bright-eyed trio decked in holly (above) are members of the Grade XII community recreation class at Esquimalt senior secondary.

The 17-year-olds, from left Kathy Tuey, Lois Atkinson and Coleen De Corte, are packaging 1,000 pounds of the brilliant green and red decoration as part of what amounts to an experiment in do-it-yourself education.

The holly is being sold to raise money for class projects in a program which tries, says teacher Wilf Gervais, "to expose them to the full circle of cultural and physical facilities in the area."

He says the youngsters are learning "the community out there is nothing unless you contribute to it."

Armed with school bags, lunch pails and patience the boys beside a congested Patricia Bay Highway (photo at right) are learning that sometimes they must stand and be counted before the community will swing into action.

Students at Glanford Elementary and residents of Chesterlea subdivision in Saanich, they must cross the highway to and from school every day — sometimes it takes 10 minutes to get across.

Through their parents and the Home and School Association, petitions and delegations have been presented to Saanich council and the highways department asking for a pedestrian overpass at their crossing.

Last week, Mayor Hugh Curtis received "an encouraging" letter from Highways Minister Wesley Black and it looks now like the children's crusade will pay off.

Funeral Held For Widow Of Ex-Mayor

Private funeral services were held in Hayward's chapel today for Mrs. Isabella M. (Ella) Hayward, widow of ex-mayor Reginald Hayward of Victoria, who died here this week.

Born at Aberdeen, Scotland, Mrs. Hayward came to Victoria early in the century and resided with her uncle, the late William Henderson, first elected reeve of Oak Bay. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jaffrey of Aberdeen.

In 1908 she married Reginald Hayward who became mayor of Victoria in 1923 and subsequently served 11 years as a Conservative member of the B.C. legislature.

Mr. Hayward died here in 1961 at the age of 81. As mayor of Victoria, he followed in the footsteps of his father, Charles Hayward, and also succeeded him as president of the B.C. Protestant Orphanage.

Reginald Hayward had a lifelong association with Hayward's Funeral Co. Ltd. and retained the title of president up to his death. His son, William, is now a partner in the firm.

FINE GARDEN

In earlier years, Mrs. Hayward was an enthusiastic gardener and her home at 2140 Oak Bay Avenue was noted for its fine show of flowers. She was a former member of the Women's Canadian Club and the Burns Club of Victoria.

Surviving are three sons, William in Victoria, Charles in Vancouver and Reginald in North Vancouver; four grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Bishop Denys Rankilor of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Our Lord conducted the funeral service, which was followed by interment in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

12 Courses To Launch 'Learn-In'

Twelve subjects have been chosen to launch Saturday morning classes for young and old in Greater Victoria early in the new year.

The adult education division of the Greater Victoria school board has dubbed the new program "Learn-In" and hopes it will achieve the popularity of the "Summer Happening" classes it started in July.

Subjects for the Saturday morning classes are Chinese cooking, contemporary rock music, defensive driving, drawing and painting, basic dressmaking, elementary French conversation, guitar and folk singing, judo for self-defence, speed reading, tennis for beginners and intermediates, typing refresher and woodwork workshop.

12 WEEKS

Jack Kempster, co-ordinator of adult classes, said Learn-In will get under way Jan. 11 and run 12 consecutive Saturdays to Easter. Classes will be held in schools from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Average fee for a course is $12 for one, $22 for two from the same family or $30 for three or more from the same family.

The program is designed to encourage family participation, he added.

Ask The Times

Q. How many mayors has Victoria had and who was the first one? R.S.

A. Thomas Harris, the first mayor of Victoria, was elected in 1862. He was unanimously declared mayor by a show of hands at an outdoor rally of 600 people. Mr. Harris who always called himself a "humble tradesman" was first of 46 mayors Victoria has had since becoming a municipality 104 years ago.

'Joke of the Year' Award Given Bennett's Happy Family Claims

By JOHN MIKA

Premier Bennett's reiteration Tuesday that a wage increase is coming for civil servants next year and his claim the cabinet and the service are "one happy family" has increased the fury of the militant employees.

"That's the joke of the year," responded B.C. Government Employees' Association general secretary E. P. O'Connor today.

"I can assure you government employees are anything but one big happy family.

"The premier has a facility for public relations claptrap designed to avoid coming to grips with an issue which, in this case, is fair wages for civil servants as of last year."

'GOVERNMENT TOOL'

Mr. O'Connor also lashed at the Civil Service Commission as a government tool, along with outlawing strikes, used to maintain "the cabinet's cheap labor policy by denying us a right to bargain collectively."

Mr. Bennett made his statements at a government luncheon for 14 Vancouver Island civil servants Tuesday who received 25-year service certificates.

It was the sixth time in seven years that Mr. Bennett used the annual occasion to announce wage increases were coming in the ensuing budget.

Last year he skipped the announcement because of the government's "restraint" program but the average 5 per cent wage boost was included in the current budget, totalling about $5 million including enriched increments.

CRASH STUDY

This fall, coinciding with the BCGEA convention which showed a definite switch to militancy in the wake of a government refusal to give civil servants "comparability" with their counterparts in private B.C. industry, Mr. Bennett said a crash study had been ordered which he predicted would result in a wage increase.

"I'm not going to talk about salaries today," Mr. Bennett said at the Tuesday luncheon, "except to say this: B.C. has had its best year in history and there will be salary increases in all categories of the civil service."

He praised the work of the civil servants during his 17 years as premier and said the civil service commission worked hard for the benefit of the employees.

'HAPPY FAMILY'

"I'm glad that on the whole there is a happy family in the civil service and the government," he said.

Later, he told reporters that the current year has been the most prosperous for the entire economy but he would not predict a larger surplus because expenditures have increased as well as revenues.

Mr. Bennett said the gross amount for civil service increases would be revealed in the budget but the commission would divide it among the various classifications.

He refused to discuss the civil servants' demand for bargaining rights and repeated the "happy family" theme.

'DID'T SEE'

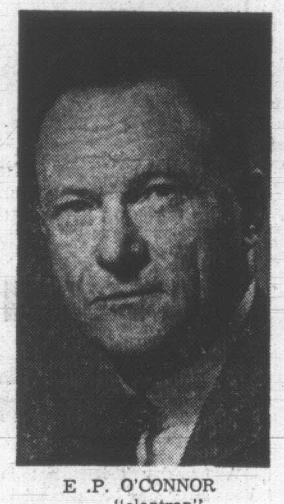

Asked about the large protest marches here and in Vancouver by dissatisfied civil servants, Mr. Bennett said "I didn't see any."

He said B.C. civil servants are first-class citizens because their salaries are guaranteed by all British Columbians and they have a full-time civil service commission working on their behalf with guarantees of no patronage interference making them unique in Canada.

"His announcements leave me absolutely cold because it's been one of the worst years for provincial government employees," said Mr. O'Connor in a telephone interview from Vancouver.

He said the government has indicated already that it intends to press its policy of comparing B.C. government salaries with those of other provincial governments rather than the salary scales prevalent in B.C.

"The premier in effect is saying to us that we must buy our clothes and food and pay rent at B.C. prices while receiving wages comparable to those in Newfoundland and New Brunswick," he said.

E .P. O'CONNOR
... "claptrap"

'SHACKLED'

"We are shackled by the government's no strike legislation which was created only to allow the cabinet to pursue its cheap labor policy and we are not allowed our request to have our case put before the Mediation Commission.

"As for the civil service commission, Mr. Bennett has often said it is an independent organization.

"But in my experience, no one employed by this government is independent of the premier and the civil service commission is employed by the cabinet and will do everything it wants because the commission is only an agent—a management agent.

"The civil service commission owe their salaries and their loyalty to the government and, in our opinion, they have not been impartial in dealing with us.

'DODGING ISSUE'

"When the premier says we have unique benefits in this province, he's just attempting to dodge the issue by pretentious mistatements of fact—he's doing nothing less than trying to mislead the public.

"The federal civil servants in B.C. not only have a full-time independent civil service commission but they also have bargaining rights and they live in this province.

"In addition, almost all the provinces have full-time commissions, not just B.C., and there is some form of collective bargaining in New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan but we have to sit under Mr. Bennett's heel and all we get is crumbs from his table."

GOVERNMENT PRAISED

Dr. Hugh Morrison, commission chairman, roundly praised the present government at the Tuesday luncheon, crediting it with improving the lot of all citizens and civil servants too.

He told the 25-year service guests that since they entered government employment, the province's "few gravel roads" have become one of the world's best highway systems, the "quite meagre" social services of 1943 have become "the best social welfare system in Canada," the "rudimentary" health services have evolved into "a greatly expanded system of public health service and a system of mental health service second to none on the continent."

"Education has also advanced by leaps and bounds," he said.

"It is stated that in any society, to advance these days a good system of education is essential and certainly British Columbia does not lack the tools to this effect.

"These are only a sample — I could go further — but I have not the time to expand."

Dr. Morrison said the civil service also has made great progress under the present administration with major improvements in salaries, grading on merit, grievance procedures, salary discussions, in-service training, safety programs, vacation benefits, superannuation, work week and group insurance.

SAME FOR ALL

"There is more I could outline, but I feel this is testimony to the fact that we do have an excellent civil service and I wish here to pay tribute to the government for its policies which made these advancements possible," said Dr. Morrison.

Mr. O'Connor dismissed Dr. Morrison's list of civil service improvements with the comment:

"The same thing can be said for every province in Canada and it cannot be said that B.C. has led the way in personnel relations.

"We're the only province in Canada where employees have no rights whatever.

"The final step in all our procedures leads to the civil service commission and that has been management's agent.

"We still have no bargaining rights and although there is provision for it in the law, I have yet to know — despite our many requests — and for the cabinet to appoint a grievance committee to hear our complaints."

Dr. Morrison wound up his speech with a dire Christmas message.

He said that "the great majority" (his text's "all employees" was crossed out) of B.C. civil servants are imbued with feeling once expressed by U.S. President John F. Kennedy that citizens should not think of what the country can do for them but what they can do for their country.

AVOID CATASTROPHE

"In times such as these, I think the following of his precept is more essential than ever if our society is to avoid catastrophe.

"Merry Christmas to all of you."

The 14 Islanders honored compared with about 30 in a normal year but it was explained that they entered the service during the crisis Second World War year of 1943.

Joining some 800 others who have received 25-year certificates from Mr. Bennett since the annual ceremony was instituted eight years ago were:

James Stewart Allin, highways; Miss Charlotte Gardner Crawford, Walley Ellsay, attorney general; Patrick Mark Kyle, Frederick George Spracklin, liquor control board; Alexander Bennett, education; Frederick Andrew White, finance; Mrs. Madeline Johnson, Charles Robert Turner, health; Ambrose Casagrande, Kenneth Byron Charters, Raymond Chamberlain, Miss Mary Jean Grant, highways.
